

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referendum should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud. THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunction against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

Board may be enlarged from present 9 members

by STEVE FORSYTH

SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

Soil problems could affect new industrial park

by LYNN ASINOF

The North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District has warned Wheeling officials of severe problems that could result from the construction of a proposed industrial park at the northwest corner of Hintz and Wolf roads.

In a report on the 41.8-acre site, the district noted that poor soil conditions and a high water table will create problems with flooded basements and floor buckling.

"Foundations, streets, parking lots and sidewalks on them (the soils) are subject to cracking and heaving," the report states. It noted that the water table for that site can be as high as two feet below the surface.

THE DISTRICT said that proposed plans submitted by the developer, Wheeling Partnership, call for construction of buildings too close to the banks of the Wheeling Drainage Ditch. In addition, the district called for the preservation of trees along the creek bank, noting that erosion has occurred on the north creek bank where the trees have been removed for the Foxboro Apartments.

According to district spokesmen, the acreage, which is bordered on the north by the creek, is a "key preservation area."

Developer Sigmund Lefkowitz, who is also responsible for the adjacent Foxboro development, told the zoning board that engineering should be able to solve these construction problems.

The developer, however, admitted that a comprehensive study of the conservation district's soil report has not been completed. The zoning board continued its hearing on industrial zoning for the property until further soil information is available.

WHILE THE ZONING board indicated concern over the soil conditions Wheeling Trustee Albert Lang has already opposed any construction on the site.

Lang went on record early this month by voting against the preparation of an annexation ordinance for the property. He noted that streets, which would be maintained by the village, would be subject to severe frost heaving. He said that under such conditions the property might be a liability to the village.

Other trustees, however, said the village should annex the property, noting that this would not automatically authorize development of the land. Final vote on the annexation has been delayed until Monday.

In testimony before the zoning board, the developers said they planned to construct one building and then expand the number of buildings as firms become interested in the site. They said Acco International, a firm that makes office supplies, plans to build its headquarters on the property.

THE DEVELOPERS told the zoning board that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) had determined the position of their buildings because of the proximity to PalWauke Airport. The zoning board asked that more evidence

according to the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District. This work was praised by Wheeling officials when it was completed in March, 1973, because of its impact on flood control. Sigmund Lefkowitz, developer of Foxboro, now is seeking zoning for an industrial park.

Cotton maple scale attacks village trees

Cotton maple scale is attacking Wheeling's maple trees, and the village is planning a comprehensive spraying program to combat the disease.

Village Mgr. George Passolt said he recently has received numerous calls about the attack of cotton maple scale. "It gets its name because it looks like cotton or popcorn popping on the tree," he said. "Right now it's at the stage where it is blooming."

Passolt said the disease will not kill maple trees, "but some times the leaves get a little crinkly. It is an annoying thing and it should be corrected."

The last outbreak of cotton maple scale was three years ago, Passolt said. At that time the village successfully got rid of the disease by spraying the trees with Malathion.

PASSOLT SAID he is planning another such spraying program to begin in mid-July. He said that in addition to spraying the infected trees on the parkways, the village will offer to spray residents' trees free of cost.

Residents wishing to have their maple trees sprayed will have to sign a special release form, which will be available shortly. Passolt said he plans to contact residents about the spraying program.

"If we just sprayed the trees in the parkway and people have trees in their yards, front or back the disease will continue," Passolt said.

The manager said the disease is easy to recognize. "It is very prominent. It looks just like popcorn hanging on the tree," he said.

Public hearing set for school budget

The School Dist. 21 Board of Education will conduct a public hearing on the proposed 1974-75 budget at 8:15 p.m. tonight at the administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The tentative budget sets expenditures for the coming 1974-75 fiscal year at $13,240,266. This is $1,580,066 higher than the current $11,660,200 budget.

Copies of the budget are available at the administration office. The board is expected to approve it after the public hearing.

Other items on the agenda for tonight's meeting include:

- Discussion of new report cards to be used next fall.

- Self-growth program for district employees.

- Bids for health supplies, carbon products and lockers.

Kidnap victim found in Arlington

by JOHN MAES and JOE SWICKARD

A Northbrook youth, kidnaped and beaten, apparently by members of a drug ring, was found wandering near Arlington Heights early Wednesday and set police on the trail that led to his abductors.

The abduction of the youth and another man was said to have stemmed from a dispute between two groups over the sale of up to 500 pounds of marijuana.

Cook County Sheriff's Police Wednesday charged four men with aggravated kidnaping and are seeking another man for questioning. They were identified as Charles Edward Lawson, 32; Gilbert M. Baker, 28; James R. Lewis, 31, and William McCowan, 30, all of Detroit, Mich.

THE YOUTH, Paul Babigian, 17, of 3854 Parkway Dr., Northbrook, was found early Wednesday wandering in the vicinity of Ill. Rtes. 58 and 63 near Arlington Heights.

He was noticed by Patrolman Ronald Knapp of the Arlington Heights Police Department, who alerted Sheriff's Police after picking up the youth. Babigian told the patrolman he had been kidnaped in Winnetka early Monday.

The other victim, James Cole, 22, of 318 Park Ave., Wilmette, was released unharmed Tuesday morning after a 48-hour ordeal in which both he and Babigian were bound, handcuffed and threatened, according to Warren Schwartz, a sheriff's investigator.

Cole apparently was a victim of mistaken identity when he was abducted from near his home late Sunday. Schwartz said Cole was mistaken for another member of the group involved in the narcotics deal who are being sought by police.

POLICE SAID the group who abducted Babigian and Cole were seeking revenge. The two groups met last week to arrange for the sale of marijuana and the buyers fled without paying for it.

The victims were taken to a house in Lake County near Ill. Rte. 43 north of Highland Park. The two described the house to police as being in a "heavily wooded area."

Schwartz said Babigian's brother George, 22, had been receiving telephone calls demanding ransoms of $20,000 to $30,000. The callers also demanded the other group members be turned over to them.

Babigian's brother reported Paul missing to sheriff's police Tuesday.

Police used bits of information from the two victims to find the house where they had been held.

HEAVILY ARMED Cook County Sheriff's police and FBI agents surrounded the Lake County house which was empty early Wednesday but arrested two Chicago area men as they approached the house at different times. They were later released without charges.

A stakeout of George Babigian's apartment led police to the arrests of the four Detroit men. Schwartz said the men were called in as a security force to guard Cole and Paul Babigian.

According to accounts given by Schwartz, the men were spotted Tuesday afternoon near the apartment and were followed to a parking garage in the Chicago loop. They were taken into custody about 7 p.m. as they left the auto and began to walk off in different directions.

Four handguns — including a .357 Magnum, a .45 caliber automatic, and two revolvers — were found in the auto. Two of the guns were believed stolen from Detroit.

POLICE SAID they learned during questioning, the Detroit men flew here Saturday at the request of a friend who was a member of the group allegedly responsible for the abductions.

One of them had $700 cash in his possession when the group was nabbed.

Lawson, Baker, Lewis and McCowan were being held pending a hearing today in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Kidnap victim found in area

A 17-year-old kidnaping victim was discovered in Arlington Heights early Wednesday. Paul Babigan, 17, of Northbrook was beaten, kidnaped and later released in a dispute over the theft of 500 pounds of marijuana, police said. A second kidnap victim, James Cole of Wilmette, was abducted Saturday in a case of mistaken identity and was released Tuesday unharmed. Two Chicago men and four from Detroit, described by police as "hired muscle," were charged in the kidnaping which followed a meeting last week between two groups to discuss sale of the marijuana. The "buyers" later stole the marijuana from the "sellers" who then planned the kidnapings.

Andrews search continues

Arlington Heights police will return to the Ogden Slip, off the Chicago River, today to search for the car of Edward and Sophia Andrews who disappeared four years ago. The police will be using a specially-equipped boat to electronically scan the barge canal. The Andrews, of 738 S. Vail St., Arlington Heights, vanished after attending a cocktail party at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel in 1970. Police think the couple may have driven into the slip.

District to weigh new school

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education faces an August deadline for deciding who will control construction of a sixth high school in Palatine. The Illinois Capital Development board, a state agency, has authorized $4.6 million for construction if Dist. 211 will relinquish construction control of the project in Winston Park subdivision. The district may face a $3 million referendum because only $9.5 million is available for the $12 million project.

Furnace firm seeks solution

An official of the company that manufactured Elk Grove Village furnaces found to be defective told the village building director Wednesday his firm wants to "bring the problem to a conclusion." Frank Green, sales manager for Johnson Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio, met with Building Director Thomas Retenbacher and a representative of Johnson's local distributor at village hall Wednesday. The Herald disclosed last week that defective furnaces may be installed in an estimated 1,700 or more village homes.

Burglary suspect bound over

Robert E. Williams, Jr., the suspected Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village cat burglar, waived his right to a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was bound over to the Cook County Grand Jury. Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante reduced Williams' bond from $100,000 to $25,000. A fifth burglary complaint against Williams was signed Wednesday by a woman resident of an apartment complex where Williams was arrested June 19.

Arlington urges flood study

Arlington Heights may increase flood control expenses $4,000. The village board's finance committee has recommended hiring of Stanley Consultants for $4,000 to prepare a supplement to the firm's $16,000 flood control engineering study. If approved, the expenditure would increase to $79,000 village flood control funding since 1972.

Prime rate rises...again

A 11 1/2% prime interest rate spread rapidly among major banks Wednesday while continuing pressure mounted for the prime rate to soar to 12 per cent. The rate is that charged by major banks to other lending institutions and is regarded as a barometer of general trends in interest rates. The First Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago was among several banks in the nation to increase rates yesterday, including the Chase Manhattan in New York and banks in Boston and Philadelphia. Some observers said the prime rate could rise to 12 per cent as early as next week, and there is speculation the prime rate could top 13 per cent before it heads down.

Ruling expected on RTA ballot

At one point, one justice told Hoagland's assistant, Julius Abler, that much of the anti-RTA argument is "thrown out the window" because it is based on case law under the old state constitution.

RTA unit may expand to 21-member panel

(Continued from Page 1) makeup to his 21-member proposal has been successful with the transportation authority on Denver, Colo. The system provides for an executive committee empowered to deal with the business of the board between meetings of the entire body.

Another bill which would establish a legislative advisory committee on the RTA may be lost in the last-minute shuffle in the General Assembly, which will adjourn some time between now and Sunday night.

State Rep. John E. Porter, R-Evanston, sponsored the bill and got overwhelming support in the House. Porter is on the legislative advisory committee concerned with the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, after which he patterned the RTA committee.

The committee would have 12 members, half Republican and half Democrats, with equal representation in the House and Senate. The committee would observe the RTA and report to the legislature every two years.

Twins bare their smiles

How does a girl become the centerfold for Playboy magazine?

Pam and Debbie Reimann, 21-year-old twins from Schaumburg, took their smiles and bikinis to the Playmate tryouts being held this week at the Playboy Towers, 919 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

As part of the 20th anniversary celebration, the magazine opened its doors and camera lenses to hopeful young women.

Dave Salyers, of Playboy, said they were curious to see what the response would be if a come-one-come-all audition were held. He said there had been no set procedure for selecting the playmates in the past.

"It was just catch-as-catch-can," he said.

Pam said she and her sister hoped the tryout would lead to a modeling career. The girls, graduates of Wheeling High School, have had no professional experience, they said.

Mrs. Reimann reportedly reacted to her daughters' fling with a frown. Their father wished them, "Good luck, if that's what you really want to do," Pam said.

Does her father read Playboy? "Naturally," Pam answered.

Liberals abandon tax-cut attempts

Liberals abandoned their 10-day fight to cut taxes and end the oil depletion allowance yesterday after they failed in repeated tries to bring it to a Senate vote. The Senate then passed an amendment-free bill to increase the national debt to $495 billion through next March 31... a measure that had been held up while the liberals attempted to attach their tax measures to it.

Ford urges citizen privacy law

Vice President Gerald Ford yesterday urged passage of federal laws to prevent the government's computer data banks from being used to invade the privacy of private citizens. "I believe this is one of the most serious problems we face today — and one of the least realized," Ford said in a speech to a meeting of the National Broadcast Editorial Association.

AEC signs nuclear fuel contracts

The Atomic Energy Commission signed provisional contracts yesterday to provide nuclear fuel for power plants President Nixon promised Egypt and Israel. Nixon's promise of reactors, components and fuel for Israel and Egypt has aroused congressional controversy over ensuring they do not use the technology to develop nuclear weapons.

'Classified' helicopter force lands

An army helicopter, reportedly carrying nuclear warheads, yesterday made a forced landing at Jones Beach in Wantagh, N.Y., and was immediately surrounded by armed military guards. Military authorities would say only that the aircraft was carrying "classified material." An Army spokesman emphasized there was no danger of explosion. The mysterious cargo was later transferred to another aircraft and flown away.

U.S. Supreme Court recesses until July 8

The U.S. Supreme Court cleaned up nearly all its remaining cases yesterday, but delayed ruling on whether northern school districts can be forced to bus students across district lines to foster integration. The court will recess until July 8 when it will hear oral arguments on the question of whether President Nixon can assert executive privilege and withhold tapes and documents subpoenaed by Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who claims they are needed for the Watergate coverup trial due to start Sept. 9.

Thailand to announce U.S. plane pullout

Thailand is expected to announce within the next few days that all U.S. warplanes will be removed by the end of the year from two air bases that were used for Indochina bombing missions. The bases are at Takhlil, about 70 miles north of Bangkok; and Ubon, 300 miles northeast of Bangkok near the Laotian and Cambodian borders.

Big battle near Phnom Penh predicted

Government troops advancing out of the Longvek army training center on Highway 5 North of Phnom Penh ran into strong Communist resistance yesterday and were still battling at nightfall, field reports said. A Western military attaché predicted "There's going to be a helluva lot of fighting up there, and soon." In South Vietnam, Communist raiders bombarded a commando training center east of Saigon, then charged it before sunrise. The Communists lost six men killed and one captured. There were 10 command recruits killed and 28 military dependents.

Catholic bishop denounces the IRA

A Roman Catholic bishop in Londonderry called the Irish Republican Army an evil force yesterday in one of the harshest attacks ever made against the IRA by a Catholic prelate. "The IRA are agents of the devil," the Rev. Dr. Edward Daly said. "They and their various satellite organizations should not be assisted politically, financially or otherwise until they proclaim a total and permanent cease-fire in this community."

Arab bloc slows sea law conference

An indignant Arab bloc yesterday rejected reports it was backing away from proposing admission for national liberation movements to the 148-nation U.S. Sea Law conference and revealed it was seeking broad support from other blocs, especially the Africans. The issue arose as delegates to the conference, meeting in Caracas, Venezuela, continued efforts to get the conference out of procedural doldrums that has blocked getting down to drafting a new code of the sea.

Goes to Moscow today

Nixon briefs NATO leaders

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Nixon told his allies Wednesday he plans to sign new agreements in Moscow but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said a curb on strategic arms probably will not be one of them.

Moving to restore confidence and clout to the NATO alliance, Nixon assured its leaders he will make no deals at the Moscow nuclear summit beginning Thursday that would undercut their interests.

Nixon briefed 14 NATO leaders — and delighted them by the gesture — on what he means to do in Moscow to promote an end to the nuclear arms race, strengthen détente and expand economic cooperation.

"We will never sacrifice the interests of our allies to reach agreement with the Soviet Union," Nixon said during the closed NATO summit, according to quotations cited later by press secretary Ronald Ziegler. "We go into negotiations at the Soviet summit motivated by our vital interests and by yours."

The President promised to keep the NATO chiefs informed about his talks with the Russians and said Kissinger would return to Brussels July 4 to brief NATO ambassadors on the results of the Soviet summit which ends July 3.

Nixon's briefing of the NATO leaders appeared to be a bit of precautionary diplomacy intended to avoid the dissension his 1972 Soviet summit provoked among NATO partners, who claimed then that he had bargained behind their backs.

Accompanied by his wife and Kissinger, Nixon departs Thursday morning for Moscow and his third summit in as many years with Soviet leaders.

The Nixons will be in one of the turreted, pastel palaces within the ancient red-brick Kremlin walls that came to be dubbed "the Kremlin White House" when they first occupied it two years ago.

In Moscow Wednesday, women in white scarves and orange smocks trimmed grass and patched potholes in preparation for Nixon's arrival.

Heathrow Airport on alert

LONDON (UPI) — London's busy Heathrow International Airport went on anti-terrorist alert Wednesday and flights for Queen Elizabeth and Prime Minister Harold Wilson were diverted or canceled.

Airport sources said there had been a terrorist attack threatened for 3:30 p.m.

One source said it involved the Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla group.

The attack did not materialize, but hundreds of police and troops in combat uniform stood by just in case.

London newspapers said the alert was called because of intelligence reports from the Middle East that Israeli, American and Dutch aircraft might come under attack.

Commercial airline takeoffs and landings proceeded normally. Some travelers were startled when light tanks and armored cars rumbled into the airport.

Though only an estimated 200 soldiers were sent to the airport, thousands of others were alerted. An army officer called it the biggest military operation in Britain since World War II. (Northern Ireland is separate.)

An airport official said the Royal Air Force Comet jetliner carrying Prime Minister Wilson and Foreign Secretary James Callaghan back from the NATO meeting with President Nixon in Brussels was diverted. Flights for the Queen, Prince Edward and Princess Margaret, all scheduled to pass through Heathrow on Wednesday, were canceled.

Begin jury picks for Ehrlichman trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman went on trial Wednesday for criminal conspiracy and perjury in the Ellsberg break-in case and the presiding judge excused 28 of 120 prospective jurors, including two news reporters.

U. S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell excused 23 persons on the basis of their answers to more than 40 general questions addressed to all prospective jurors in open court.

Gesell then individually questioned 60 of the remaining jurors in closed session and five were excused. The others were to be interrogated Thursday morning.

Several defense lawyers said they were "hopeful" the jury could be picked by the end of the day Thursday. But other court sources said Gesell might have to call another panel of 100 potential jurors for preliminary screening before defense and prosecution lawyers even begin the pre-emptory challenges.

Gesell also read a list of 59 expected witnesses to determine if any of the prospective jurors were acquainted with them. They included Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, former Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz, White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig and former White House counsel Charles W. Colson, one of the original co-defendants who pleaded guilty to one count.

Ehrlichman, President Nixon's No. 2 aide who was forced to resign 14 months ago because of the Watergate scandal, is being tried along with three others on charges growing out of a burglary during the 1971 Labor Day weekend at the Los Angeles office of Dr. Lewis Fielding. The burglary allegedly was part of a White House effort to discredit Daniel Ellsberg, one of Fielding's patients and the man who leaked the Pentagon Papers.

Tentative accord reached in California nurses strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — After a negotiating marathon, a tentative settlement was reached Wednesday in the nurses strike that has crippled 41 Northern California hospitals for nearly three weeks.

W. J. Usery Jr., the federal government's top mediator, kept negotiators at the bargaining table for 43 hours until they agreed on terms of a new contract.

Irene Pope, president of the California Nurses Assn., said the 4,400 striking nurses would return to work immediately after a meeting Thursday, if the pact is ratified.

At a news conference, both sides declined to elaborate on the issues or to disclose settlement terms, pending ratification.

The dispute involved pay scales, but both sides previously had said a critical issue was the nurses' request for a voice in staffing-decisions about the number and qualifications of nurses in each hospital unit. Other issues were weekends off and the possibility of pensions.

Asked whether the settlement would cause hospital rates to go up, Art Mendelson, attorney for the employers, said, "That's up to the individual hospitals."

Magic's gone, splitsville for Liz, Dick

• It was finally splitsville for Liz and Dick, ending the stormy marriage of two of the wealthiest actors in history. The 10-year marriage of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton ended officially Wednesday in Saanen, Switzerland, although Burton did not actually attend the end of the affair. # Senate leader angered by delays, threatens to leave

House members hold some of Harris' 'marbles', and he may have to stick around to get them

by BOB LAHEY
SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Senate Pres. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, angered at delaying tactics in the House of Representatives, threatened Wednesday to pick up his marbles and go home at the close of business today.

But House members are holding some of Harris' marbles in their own bag and may not give them back to him unless he agrees to stick around for the traditional midnight closing of the General Assembly on June 30.

Harris vented his anger in subtle fashion at a Senate revenue committee hearing Wednesday when Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan appeared before the committee for an 11th hour plan for legislation aimed at providing sales tax relief for senior citizens.

HARRIS, DESCRIBING Hartigan's bill as "clearly meritorious," protested that Senate members cannot possibly make the serious decisions required on "literally hundreds" of bills sent to them by the House in the past several days. Harris noted that the bill presented by Hartigan had been introduced in the House in early April, but despite its obvious merit had not cleared the House until early this week.

In a parallel version of what Harris complained about — the wasteful maneuvering in the House — the Senate committee spent nearly an hour debating Hartigan's bill after committee chairman Terrell Clarke (R-Western Springs) had ruled that the committee would not consider the bill at that meeting.

House minority leader Gerald Shea

WILLIAM C. HARRIS

(D. Chicago) intervened in the debate to urge Harris to reconsider his plan to adjourn the Senate on Thursday so that Hartigan's bill and other House approved measures could be acted upon by the Senate.

Harris responded, "It would be the height of irresponsibility to vote out this one bill and hold dozens of others because we have not had time to properly consider them."

IN AN IMPROMPTU press conference in a hallway of the capital shortly after Harris declared "we're not killing any tax relief proposals. They just need careful evaluation and we will take them up at a later session." Harris said his prime concern was to adopt a budget, and he said he believed the senate could complete its work on the budget by this evening.

State Rep. Brian Duff, R-Wilmette, pointed out later that a number of Senate-approved budgetary matters are pending in the House and he predicted that they would be held hostage until Harris produced results on pet House measures in the upper chamber.

Shea raised the specter of a lengthened summer session when he asked Harris if the Senate leadership would consider returning to Springfield in two weeks if it does indeed adjourn today. Harris made no response to that inquiry, but State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, said later he expected that the rock bottom issues between the House and Senate probably will have to go to conference committees over the weekend.

REGNER SAID that it appeared that what he called a dangerous precedent set by the legislature when it ignored its traditional June 30 deadline last year will be repeated, with both Houses returning next week to clean up what they have not yet been able to agree upon.

While Harris maintained that the budget was his primary concern, he also said under questioning by reporters that he considered a campaign disclosure law a requirement for adjournment, and then reluctantly admitted that pay raises for legislators, judges, and administration officials were also on his list of priorities.

Freezing of present 1.59 urged

Senate unit amends tax multiplier

by BOB LAHEY
SPRINGFIELD — The Senate revenue committee amended the controversial Cook County tax multiplier bill Wednesday and recommended freezing of the two-year-old 1.59 multiplier for another year.

The committee refused to approve a House-passed bill aimed at freezing the multiplier in three-quarters of the county and reducing the multiplier in Quadrant II, which includes Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Maine townships. If passed, the amended bill would nullify an expected reduction in tax rates for Quadrant II which was reassessed last year.

The state Department of Local Government Affairs (DLGA) last month recommended reduction of the multiplier to 1.48 throughout the county, but school districts in non-reassessed townships protested, predicting a possible loss of $100 million in tax revenue.

THE EQUALIZER is a municipal factor multiplied by assessed valuation to assure that property throughout the state is assessed at approximately the same percentage of fair market value for taxing.

The 9-to-5 committee vote sent the bill to the Senate with a recommendation for passage. If the bill is approved in the Senate, the legislation will be returned to the House for another vote. Failure of the House to approve the amended bill could push the bill to a conference committee or could kill the proposal.

The bill, originally presented to the committee by State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, would retain the 1.59 in three quadrants of the county and would allow the lower multiplier in Quadrant II which includes the three Northwest suburban townships.

GLASS, WHO MET resistance to that proposal in a committee hearing Tuesday, argued that substantial increases in land values reflected in last year's quadrennial reassessment of Quadrant II would mean that those school districts would suffer no loss in revenue.

However, he told the committee Wednesday, the compromise proposal to retain the higher multiplier for another year until an accurate equalizer could be determined in the other quadrants was preferable to an across-the-board cut in the multiplier which would cost millions of dollars to school districts throughout the county.

Most tax bodies can adjust to changes in the multiplier by raising or lowering their tax rates, he said. But, in school districts where the rate is at the statute maximum, reducing the multiplier would mean less revenue at the same rate on the overall assessed value.

Glass told the committee, "We are faced with a situation where schools and other taxing bodies have already approved their budgets on the basis of a 1.59 multiplier."

IF THAT MULTIPLIER is lowered, Glass said, those governmental units will be forced to borrow money which would eventually cost the taxpayers even more in interest.

The amended bill was opposed by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Skokie, a member of the revenue committee, who declared that maintaining the 1.59 multiplier would mean a "windfall" for school districts in Quadrant II at the expense of other taxpayers.

Glass denied that and argued that school districts have set their tax levies and that the tax rate will simply be adjusted so the number of dollars collected is the same.

The committee sent the amended bill to the floor of the Senate with a recommendation for passage on a 9-5 vote, with Nimrod and State Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington, voting no.

Letters to the Editor are a daily part of the HERALD's friendly concern with community affairs. Let's hear from you.

School's out! What better way to spend summer vacation than at the local playground?

Park district wrapup Sampson resigns; 'not enough time'

Comr. Wendell Sampson of the Prospect Heights Park District has resigned.

Sampson's resignation was accepted Tuesday night by the park board. In a letter, Sampson said, "I find I do not have sufficient time to serve the board." He added his action was taken with "regret."

The Herald reported June 17 that Sampson had missed four of the previous six board meetings. Sampson also was absent Tuesday night.

Board Pres. Max Lyle said applications in writing for the vacant commissioner's post will be received at the park office, 13 Prospect Ct., until July 9. Applicants must be residents of the park district and at least 18 years old. The appointed commissioner will serve until next April's election at which time the voters will fill the remaining four years of the term.

Mothers let in 'baby pool'

In a policy decision, the Prospect Heights Park Board voted to permit mothers to join their children in the "baby pool" at Lions Park on Camp McDonald Road.

The pool is intended for children aged two to eight. Commissioner Joseph Lesniak cast the only "nay" vote.

Garbage capacity increased

More garbage is in sight for the Prospect Heights Park District.

The park board, apparently feeling it will have more to throw away once the new sports complex is built, voted unanimously to switch from the current 55 gallon containers to a two cubic yard container. This will about double the district's garbage capacity.

The park board contracts for scavenger service with Browning Ferris Industries of Barrington. The new service will cost an additional $4 a month.

Bike signs to be installed

Wheeling Township has offered to install bike route signs along township controlled roads in Prospect Heights, said Ronald Greenberg, Prospect Heights park director.

The park district is to designate the streets that will be posted. Township roads already tentatively designated as bike routes by the park district include Viola Lane, Elm Street, Hillside Avenue, Hillcrest Drive, Brook Drive and Chester Lane.

Greenberg also said he will ask Cook County to include room for a six-foot bike path along Schoenbeck Road, when the county's planned improvement of the road is accomplished.

Land to be subleased

The Prospect Heights Park District may sublease a portion of the land it leases from High School Dist. 214 to a local farmer.

The park board Tuesday authorized the sublease of up to 20 acres of the 40-acre site at a fee of no less than $15 per acre. The sublease would be to recuperate park district expenses in developing the other 20 acres. Garden plots and baseball fields are being put in on the other 20 acres.

The 20 acres the farmer might lease will be developed by the park district in future years. The school property is west of Coldren Drive and north of Alderman Avenue.

Proposed industrial park could face soil problems

be presented that the FAA has control over the building's location.

Zoning board members also asked that Lefkowitz document reasons why an industrial park would be the highest and best use of the property.

The 41.9-acre site is currently owned by Theodore and Marion Meizer, with the Wheeling Partnership petitioning for the zoning change as contract purchaser of the site.

Wheeling officials have repeatedly objected to problems with the Foxboro development which Lefkowitz developed under another partnership. The village approved the project in late 1972 after county zoning had already been approved for the site.

MEMBERS OF the plan commission have criticized both the high density of the project and the construction which has caused severe traffic problems on Wolf Road. Numerous residents have complained about mud on the road at the construction site.

While village officials have praised the Foxboro developers for improvements to the Wheeling Drainage Ditch, the conservation district noted that severe erosion problems have developed as a result of this work.

The zoning board will continue review of the project on July 8.

Proposal for steakhouse weighed

Plans for a Ponderosa Steak House on Dundee Road west of the Wildwood Apartments will be reviewed by the Wheeling Plan Commission tonight at the request of the zoning board.

Bernard Kron, developer of Harmony Village townhomes, is seeking business zoning for the property that would allow the Ponderosa operation. The property, however, was originally part of the Wildwood Apartment complex and was to be used for parking.

Since the Wildwood plans were approved the parking area has been relocated, and the property Kron plans to purchase has been left vacant. The zoning board has refused to take action on rezoning the acreage, however, unless the plan commission decides that the land is no longer needed for parking.

The plan commission also will review plans for a two lot subdivision at 135 S. Wolf Rd. and a street dedication by All-state Insurance Co.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Employee pay talks start tonight

The Wheeling Village Board tonight will begin its annual employee wage and salary negotiations, bringing the 1974-75 village budget one step closer to completion.

Village Mgr. George Passolt declined to comment on the demands to be negotiated this year with the employees wage and salary committee. He said, however, that finalization of the budget has been delayed because wages for the coming year have not yet been determined.

Passolt has presented village board members with a preliminary budget, but said the document is meaningless without the salary figures.

Last year, personnel costs accounted for about 42 per cent of the $3,601,373 budget, with employees being granted an 8 per cent across-the-board salary hike.

Negotiations, which traditionally have been handled at committee meetings, this year will be conducted at a special meeting of the village board. "If necessary, we can go into executive session," Passolt said, noting this would possibly speed up negotiations.

In recent years, the negotiations have taken place in the spring. The budget must be completed by the end of July so that the village can pass its annual appropriations ordinance. The negotiations will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Burglary suspect bound to county

Robert E. Williams Jr., suspected Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village cat burglar, waived his right to a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was bound over to the Cook County Grand Jury.

Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante, in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court, also reduced bond for Williams from $100,000 to $25,000. Williams' grand jury date is July 17.

Williams, 26, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove Village, is accused of five burglaries committed June 19 in an apartment building at 1101 Hunt Club Dr., Mount Prospect. The fifth burglary complaint was signed Wednesday in court by Joan Bourke, who allegedly had a purse and some beer and wine stolen from her apartment.

Mount Prospect police arrested Williams inside the apartment building and allegedly found some property stolen from the five apartments on Williams.

Elk Grove Village police said at least 10 burglary complaints are being prepared against Williams for cat burglaries committed in Elk Grove Village over the past two months. Police added they believe Williams may have been responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts in Elk Grove Village.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS police have said they have oral statements from Williams that allegedly link him to 42 burglaries committed in Arlington Heights since January 1973.

In court Wednesday, the public defender assigned to Williams said Williams had been a cook in the Navy for two years, ending in January 1974. He also said Williams had no prior convictions, although some charges are pending against Williams. The statements were made during arguments on the bond reduction.

Judge LaPlante said he had made the bond high initially because he was aware the fifth Mount Prospect burglary charge may have been filed as it was Wednesday.

Water carnival at pool Saturday

Wheeling children and adults can compete in a variety of water sports at a water carnival from 3-5 p.m. Saturday at the park district's outdoor pool in Chamber of Commerce Park.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of various races, relay and diving contests. A penny dive is also planned. The water carnival, originally planned for June 15, has been rained out for the past two weeks.

Pool pass holders will be admitted free. Children without passes will be charged 50 cents admission, while adults will be charged 75 cents.

3 lock-up jail cells pass annual check-up

Wheeling's three lock-up jail cells passed their annual inspection recently with "flying colors," with two exceptions.

The review by the Illinois Dept. of Corrections, Bureau of Detention Facilities and Jail Standards, pointed out that Wheeling police should obtain a log book, so that hourly checks of prisoners can be recorded, and a fire extinguisher for the cell area.

The three cells can hold up to six prisoners overnight.

Bugner Farm project in Cook County

Buffalo Grove may fight development

by JOE FRANZ

Buffalo Grove is expected to pass a resolution opposing the Bugner Farm development, proposed for unincorporated Lake County, village officials said Wednesday.

The 484-unit townhouse project has been proposed by Chesterfield Development Corp. for a 45-acre tract on Weiland Road, south of Busch Road.

Village officials contend the density is too high, recreation facilities and storm water detention are inadequate and the proposed donation to local school districts by the developer is too low. According to Village Pres. Gary Armstrong, the village will ask the Lake County Board to insist the developer meet all of Buffalo Grove's standards in these areas.

The developer has asked for a zoning change on about two-thirds of its property to permit the townhouse units. The request is being considered by the Lake County Zoning Board of Appeals. Village officials Tuesday voiced their objections to the zoning board.

VILLAGE MGR. Daniel Larson said if the county zoning board approves the change, the village board probably will pass a resolution opposing the project and present it to the Lake County Board prior to its review of the development. Village board members this week said they would vote for the resolution if all of Buffalo Grove's requests are not met.

If the village files of formal objection to the development, which would be called Indian Head, it must pass the county board by a three-fourths majority.

Under a resolution passed in 1972, the village would require the developer to donate about $185,000 to local school districts if the project was being annexed to Buffalo Grove. This amount would include about $165,000 for Aptakisic-Tripp School District 102 and about $20,000 for High School Dist. 125.

Chesterfield has offered Dist. 102 about $35,000 and is not planning to make a donation to Dist. 125. Thus, if the project was being built in Buffalo Grove, the donation would be about $150,000 short of the requirement. The donations are designed to absorb the impact the additional population will have on the school.

FRED HILLMAN, executive vice president of Chesterfield, said that since his firm is not building in Buffalo Grove, it is not obligated to satisfy its resolution. Although Chesterfield would not consider meeting the resolution, Hillman said he would be willing to negotiate with Dist. 102.

"I think Dist. 102 knows that our offer was a starting point. We are willing to sit down and negotiate, in fact we're anxious to do so," Hillman said.

He would not speculate on how much his firm would be willing to increase the donation to Dist. 102.

The same village resolution that provides for donations to schools also requires cash or land donations to the park district. "We're not planning a donation to the park district," Hillman said. "That's because we're going to provide a lot of recreation facilities and open space, more than the park district would provide."

Again, he said, he does not think his firm is obligated to meet the resolution since it is building outside the village.

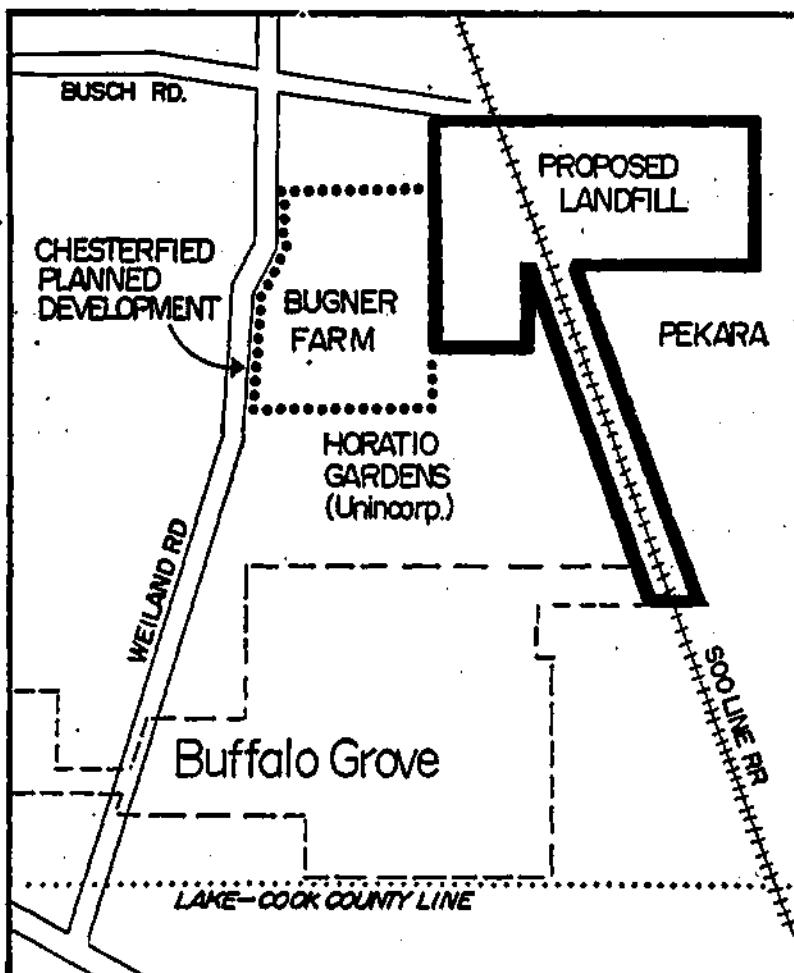

UNDER CHESTERFIELD'S proposed plan, it would build about 10 units to the acre. Buffalo Grove officials have asked that the density be lowered to between about four and eight units to the acre.

The village also has asked that more storm water detention be provided to prevent flooding problems. Officials have asked that the ordinance be met. The village has much stricter requirements than the county in this area.

Buffalo Grove officials have expressed interest in having the project annexed to the village. That, however, is not possible at the present time since the property does not adjoin the village limits, a legal requirement for annexation.

HILLMAN SAID his firm is anxious to build and cannot afford to wait until the property adjoins the village. Larson said Chesterfield officials told him they would attempt to make their property contiguous with the village, but have not.

"We have no responsibility for being contiguous with the village," Hillman said. His (Larson's) saying we agreed to attempt to become contiguous is false," Armstrong said although the Bugner

BUFFALO GROVE is opposed to the development plan for the Bugner Farm in Lake County and will attempt to prevent construction unless certain changes are made. Village officials would like to annex the land and control the project, but that is not possible since the site does not adjoin the village. A proposed landfill would have connected the farm to the village, but officials have dropped annexation plans.

Farm cannot be annexed by Buffalo Grove now, he wants to make sure its development is compatible with what has been outlined in the village master plan.

As more development takes place in the area, he said other land will come into the village, probably making it possible to annex the Bugner Farm at a later date. If that happens, Armstrong added, it would be desirable if the development meets village standards.

Hillman said his firm hopes to get approval from Lake County in time to begin construction next spring. The development would take about eight years to complete, he said.

Larson to take post in Wilmette?

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson of Buffalo Grove apparently has interviewed for the village manager post in Wilmette.

Larson, however, continues to deny reports and says he has no intention of leaving Buffalo Grove at this time.

Trustee Randall Rathjen told The Herald last week that Larson's apparent job hunt was the topic of a closed executive session after the regular board meeting.

Wilmette Village Pres. Warren Burmeister would neither confirm nor deny reports Wednesday that Larson had interviewed for that municipality's head administrative post. Wilmette Village Mgr. Armon Lund has submitted his resignation effective Dec. 31.

"We are seeking a village manager and are interviewing people," Burmeister said. "We are attempting to retain confidentiality so as not to jeopardize the applicants' positions with their present municipalities."

"I think it's very unfortunate what has happened here. I think you can tell by what I've said, what the answer is to your question concerning the Buffalo

Daniel Larson

Grove village manager," Burmeister told The Herald.

Larson, 38, has been employed at his present post since July, 1971. Prior to that he worked for the villages of Hoffman Estates and Northbrook.

Larson's salary in Buffalo Grove is $18,500 a year and is scheduled to be increased to $20,600 Aug. 1. The village manager post in Wilmette pays $25,000 a year.

Police departments rate first 'cop swap' as tops

The first "cop swap" between the Buffalo Grove and Hoffman Estates police departments has proved "successful," police chiefs from both departments said Tuesday.

In Buffalo Grove, a change in warrant issuance procedures has been made as the result of advice from Sgt. Ronald Sperandio, the policeman traded from Hoffman Estates, said Chief Harry Walsh Jr.

The youth-detective division will handle warrants — a practice once done by patrolmen. Walsh said this would not only free patrolmen for other duties, but allow for a more orderly record keeping of warrants. The system is used by Sperandio's department.

But more importantly to Walsh and his Hoffman Estates counterpart, John O'Connell, the first trade proved capable supervisory personnel could handle command responsibilities in different departments, both chiefs said.

THEY WERE LOOKING to see if leadership capabilities carried over in an unfamiliar situation. Sperandio was exchanged for Sgt. Ronald Gozdecki for a four-week tour of duty.

"It proved a point to a degree," said O'Connell. "We didn't notice any difference (capabilities) with Gozdecki than with Sperandio."

"It was very successful, beneficial and refreshing," said Walsh, noting both sergeants had expressed to him they were excited about having proved to themselves that their leadership qualities carried over to the other departments.

Walsh said other suggestions made by Sperandio will be considered in other aspects of departmental procedures.

O'CONNELL SAID HE wanted to review both sergeants' written reports before commenting further on the results of the program. Gozdecki and Sperandio are to file reports by July 3 with both police chiefs.

Another swap between the two departments has been tentatively planned for the fall pending approval by both village boards. O'Connell said other swaps would be needed to test the program thoroughly.

Taking command of different patrolmen is a difficult adjustment that is not permitted by the present system in Illinois, O'Connell said. He has said the program could be a possible springboard for lateral movement among police departments.

California's system allows lateral movement of policemen without their losing pension, rank and other benefits, he pointed out.

Illinois home-rule municipalities flexing new muscles

Six Northwest suburbs making broad use of new article in constitution

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The 75 Illinois municipalities with home-rule powers, including six Northwest suburban communities, have moved cautiously but with increasing vigor in exercising their new authority, a Herald survey shows.

The home-rule powers, automatically given to cities and villages of more than 25,000 by the 1970 Illinois Constitution, freed municipalities from the need for Illinois General Assembly approval of each reform not specifically allowed by law.

ENACTMENT OF NEW taxes, one home-rule power criticized by opponents before the constitution was adopted, has represented only a small part of the home-rule actions taken by municipalities. Among the others have been:

- Restructuring local government.
- Issuing bonds without referendum approval.
- Regional municipal agreements.
- Attempts to license professionals.
- Changes in drinking-age laws.
- Passage of tough environmental regulations.

Locally, two of the six home-rule communities, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights, have been leaders in testing the expanded powers granted by the local government article of the constitution.

The four others, Palatine, Mount Prospect, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, have been less active but show signs of increasing willingness to use their new authority.

ILLINOIS MUNICIPALITIES in general have only scratched the surface of their home-rule potential. As more home rule actions are successfully defended from court challenges, the use of home rule authority is expected to grow.

Jarl Trammell, urban affairs officer for the state department of local government affairs, believes home-rule units have been "cautious and highly deliberate" in the use of the new power.

The new constitution, Trammell says, has made officials in home-rule communities "politically more responsive." A fear of the legislature's power to limit home rule in specific situations has meant that the "boundaries of home rule haven't been fully appreciated," he said.

The feeling that municipalities are still groping for the lim-

How it works outside local suburbs

Home Rule in the Northwest suburbs has meant everything from using new powers to reinforcing old laws to innovations in government structures and finances.

In Downstate Illinois the new powers also have been used for a variety of purposes, as they have been by other Cook County suburbs, by the City of Chicago, and by Cook County itself.

Richard Day, a research assistant at the University of Illinois Institute of Government and Public Affairs, has begun a telephone survey of home-rule communities in the state to find out the current uses and plans governmental units have for home rule.

Preliminary data from the survey to be included in an upcoming issue of the Institute's "Home Rule Newsletter" found that downstate communities have focused on home rule to pass ordinances involving sewer and water service, industrial project revenue bonds, liquor laws, reduction in the powers of police and fire commissions, changes in election and government structures and mass transit.

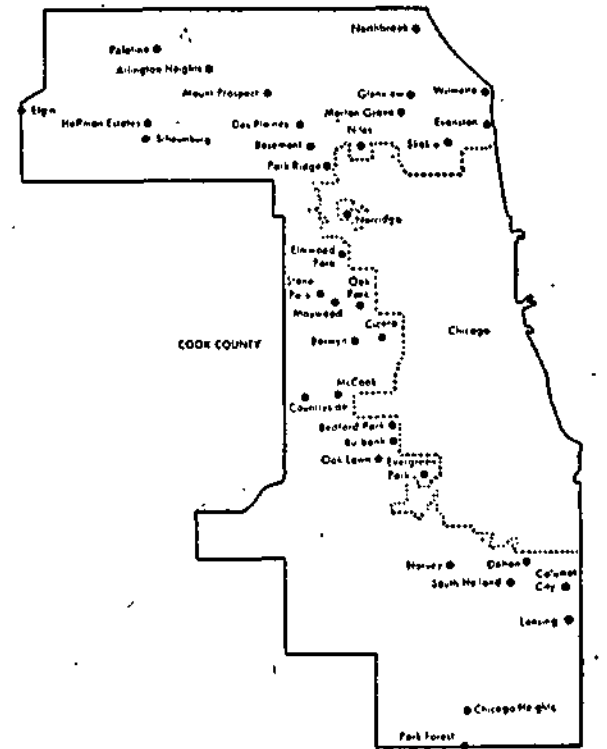

THE INSTITUTES newsletter provides perhaps the most complete listing of home rule uses so far in the state. It discloses that nine communities in addition to Schaumburg have used home rule to change the laws on consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Evanston and Highland Park have moved to issue liquor licenses to package stores, clubs and restaurants — but not to bars or taverns.

DeKalb has allowed 19 and 20 year olds to purchase all forms of alcoholic beverages instead of only beer and wine as allowed by state law. That city also issued city photo identification cards which can be required before a person is served in a DeKalb tavern or restaurant.

Berwyn, Calumet City, Maywood, Rosemont and Norridge went to the other extreme and allow only 21 year olds to drink or buy anything alcoholic in their circuit court said such environmental considerations were too large in scope for individual municipalities to deal with and should be left to the state and federal government.

Des Plaines has used home rule in its efforts to stop the

Cement strike settlement hopes dim

by BARRY SIGALE

Both sides have run into a brick wall, so to speak, in negotiations designed to end the six-week-old strike by cement truckdrivers and hopes for a settlement before July 4 are practically nonexistent.

It may take the persuasive powers of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, whose offices have been used to mediate such apparently unsolvable disputes, to bring the two sides together on an agreement before the holiday.

The July 4 date is symbolic because rumors have persisted that both sides somehow agreed in advance to drag their feet until then before sitting down for serious negotiations. And despite claims otherwise, it appears those reports are mixed with some truth.

"I dislike this violently," said a spokesman for the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Materials Assn., referring to charges that the talks may be rigged. "It's just that both sides have solidified in their positions."

THE LATEST round of bargaining Tuesday lasted 18 minutes when negotiators representing management and the seven Teamsters locals "by mutual agreement got up and left" their secret meeting place. No new talks have been scheduled.

Indeed, the two sides have moved only slightly from their original positions. The union is asking for a $3.63½ (down from $3.75) per hour increase over the next three years along with a cost-of-living adjustment. The association has offered $1.75 during the same period, a change from the initial offer of $1.50.

The association spokesman said management determined from the beginning what it could afford to pay the truckdrivers and still make money and that they will stick pretty much to what they have offered. "The association can't settle on the truckdrivers' terms," he said, "without giving up the ghost."

Pressure has been brought by association members, general contractors, the truckdrivers, themselves, the several thousand workers put out of work and from businessmen forced to fold their concerns because of the shutdown of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of construction and road repair projects. They all have failed to affect negotiations.

About Daley, the spokesman said: "We haven't heard from him... yet. But we probably will if this thing continues very much longer. Unofficially," he added, "it looks like it will."

FOUNDED 1913/ASSETS OVER $50 MILLION

Arlington, Des Plaines test limits

Home-rule municipalities find many uses for power

Metropolitan Sanitary District from building a sewage treatment plant on Elmhurst Road and Oakton Street. The city has won a round before the Illinois Appellate Court, with the MSD now appealing that decision to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Des Plaines lost out in an effort to avoid provisions of the state open meetings law when the legislature moved to make the state requirements a minimum for all governments including home rule municipalities.

OTHER HOME-RULE ordinances by local municipalities have included:

- Palatine's moves to restrict construction on all flood plains, to adopt ethics ordinances to control conflicts of interest in zoning and planning, and to require that the beneficiaries of land trusts be revealed before zoning changes are granted.

- Schaumburg's ban on serving beer or wine to 19-and 20-year-olds in village taverns.

- Arlington Heights' moves to sell the hospital revenue bonds, to increase the village board from six to nine members, to make the village clerk an appointed office, to require annual housekeeping inspections at apartments, and to require door-to-door salesmen to register with the police department.

- Mount Prospect's $2 million non-referendum bond issue for flood control, an agreement to limit annexations to a boundary agreed upon with Des Plaines, and agreement with Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove and Elk Grove village to set up a board to oversee a central police dispatch system.

- Des Plaines' use of home rule to change the number of council votes to vacate a street and open the way for development downtown, re-adoption of the city's zoning law and to create occasional liquor licenses for churches and organizations which regularly conduct bingo games.

OTHER ORDINANCES being considered by local communities include Des Plaines' examination of the possibility of

Normal used home rule to repeal its perpetual prohibition laws established in the town charter, while neighboring Bloomington passed home rule laws to limit the ages of entertainers working in bars, to strengthen liquor license requirements, and to require bartenders in beer and wine only taverns to be at least 19 years old.

HOME RULE HAS also been widely used in the state for new taxes to being in needed local revenue.

Oak Park fought in court and then backed legislation for its special service area tax which assessed all property in the village zoned commercial for the costs of a new mall in the downtown area.

Chicago passed and Mount Prospect is considering a five-cent-per-pack tax on cigarettes.

Cook County and the municipalities of Evanston, Arlington Heights, Berwyn, Des Plaines, Oak Park and Niles all passed taxes on the sales of automobiles, although the local towns stopped enforcing their ordinances after a court ruled that the municipal laws did not supercede but could be enforced concurrently with the county's law.

Cicero passed an ordinance charging an admissions tax for amusements and entertainment and changed its business license fee to one based on the number of employees.

Chicago also taxed cars parked in parking lots and parking garages. The city also taxes employers for each person they employ.

Both Rosemont and Springfield decided to tax transients by a hotel and motel room use tax.

Cook County won its right to levy a wheel tax on cars of residents living in unincorporated areas of the county because of home rule.

Evanston charges a one-cent-per-gallon tax on gasoline.

And Oak Park put a 2 per cent levy on utilities in addition to the 5 per cent levy allowed under state statutes.

HOME RULE ORDINANCES focusing on bond issues have included the county's move to finance remodeling of the county building in Chicago with non-referendum bonds, now municipal buildings built in Oak Park, Glenview and Wilmette with revenue from non-referendum bonds, and a new commuter parking lot in Wilmette, also financed the same way.

Rosemont, which is contemplating issuing non-referendum bonds for a $3.9 million sports stadium, last year issued $150,000 in non-referendum bonds for waterway improvements.

Rosemont and Bloomington adopted laws allowing their municipal governments to borrow money from banks and savings and loan institutions directly, while Highland Park moved to use property tax revenue for lease-purchases without issuing general obligation bonds.

Industrial project revenue bonds have been issued by Galesburg, Bedford Park and Mound City in what officials said was an exercise of home rule powers.

Governmental units which have restructured themselves using home rule include Champaign and Peoria, which now elect councilmen both at large and from individual districts.

Park Forest moved to eliminate its appropriation ordinance in favor of a budget and to consolidate its tax rates. The municipality also changed its tax levying procedures, reconstructed its recreation and park board and altered procedures for zoning in planned unit developments.

Wheaton extended the length of its annexation agreements.

Park Forest and Bloomington joined Arlington Heights in appointing rather than electing the village clerk.

Is control of new school worth $4.6 million to board?

About halfway through a discussion of whether the district should allow the state to build its sixth high school in return for $4.6 million, High School Dist. 211 board member Edward Perry recalled an old story about a man who asked a woman for her sexual favors for a million dollars.

In a paraphrase of the punch line, Perry quipped, "I think we've already established what we are, now we're just quibbling about the price."

The Dist. 211 board members laughed, but there was plenty of evidence that Perry had, in one brief phrase, summed up the dilemma facing the board.

The problem, stated simply, is that the board must decide whether local control of what a school building will look like is worth $4.6 million.

THE PROBLEM is this: The Illinois Capital Development Board, a state agency, has agreed to provide $4.6 million for Dist. 211's sixth school which will be built in the Winston Park subdivision of Palatine. But in order to collect the money, the Dist. 211 board must let the Capital Development Board completely run the construction project, right down to approving the architects' plans.

If Dist. 211 were in the position that it could not build the school any other way, the issue would be simple. When you have to have classrooms for students, who builds the school becomes a small problem.

But Dist. 211 could build the sixth high school without the money from the state. True, the board would have to hold a

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

referendum to raise about $3 million to add to the $0.5 million it has because of a 1970 referendum. But the extra money would not raise anyone's taxes, and the district might have to have that referendum anyway — the Capital Development Board may not have the $4.6 million when the district needs it.

So the problem the Dist. 211 board faces is whether it wants to give up control of the building in order to get that $4.6 million. And whenever the board thinks about that proposition, it remembers Schaumburg High School.

SCHAUMBURG HIGH School was built by the School Building Commission, the predecessor to the Capital Development Board, back when Dist. 211 was too poor to build the school itself. Now the district has a building that is not only ugly, but is not really functional for 2,500 students. The cafeteria is too small, because of the guidelines imposed by the state. And the building lacks many of the amenities that Hoffman Estates High School, built by the district, has.

Dist. 211's architects say the Capital

Development Board seems to be more reasonable than the School Building Commission was. Dist. 211 will be able to have some of the "goodies" that were included in Hoffman Estates High School, if it uses its own money and if the state approves.

By early August, the Dist. 211 board will have a better idea whether it can put up with the Capital Development Board's supervision. And then the district will have to make a decision.

The problem, of course, will be how to explain why it is turning down the $4.6 million, if that's what it decides to do.

BUT ON THE other hand, if the district does take the money, and ends up with a poorer school as a result, the board will have to explain that, too.

There is an old saying that you "shouldn't look a gift horse in the mouth."

But the Capital Development Board is one "gift horse" that Dist. 211 is going to look at carefully.

Maybe if they look in the mouth, they'll find out it bites.

Home rule has had impact in suburbia

legalizing "Las Vegas night" activities, and Mount Prospect's consideration of issuing $3.2 million in non-referendum bonds for a new library and of taxing cigar sales 5 cents per pack.

Palatine is exploring use of home rule to expand the size of the village board, to require income disclosures by village officials and employees and to license establishments with entertainment.

Hoffman Estates has not passed any ordinances based on its new powers as yet although a committee was appointed to study possible ordinances. Hoffman Estates Village Mgr. George Longmeyer said a new administrative assistant coming to the village soon will be assigned to focus on home rule this fall.

Mount Prospect has taken an opposite tack by putting clauses on the end of each ordinance passed saying the law is "pursuant to statutes and home rule" even for laws that would be legal under state statutes. According to Village Atty. John J. Zimmermann, Mount Prospect hasn't used its new home rule powers "beyond reaffirming things we've always done and thought we had the authority to do."

High school radio clubs ham it up

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Pete Palmer is a ham.
So are half a dozen students from Fremd High School and about 25 from Hersey High School. They proved it last weekend when they set up tents, antennae and transmitters to compete against ham radio operators across the country in the American Radio Relay League field day.

Palmer has retained his membership in the Fremd High School Radio Club although he has been graduated from the school. His enthusiasm for the annual event hasn't diminished.

The object of the field day, explained Palmer, is to make as many short-wave radio contacts as possible during a 24-hour period. Part of the fun, he says, is trying to make contact with operators in far away places. One year the Fremd Club made contact with an operator in Panama.

BUT THIS YEAR the Hersey Amateur Radio Club picked up a signal from the West Indies, says club president Lynn Miller. Although the contact didn't count because the Hersey operators couldn't send a message in return, it did lend a little excitement to the long weekend, Lynn said. They also made contact with operators in Canada, Oklahoma and along the East Coast, she says.

The Hersey club operated out of headquarters at the school. Some students set up tents and transmitters along the foot-

'Phantom limb' that amputees suffer medical mystery

Obituaries

Mark E. Metreger

Mark Edward Metreger, 13, of Rolling Meadows, died Tuesday night in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, apparently from head injuries and severe burns he sustained earlier in the afternoon in a fall from a telephone pole.

Mark was a student at Carl Sandburg Junior High School in Rolling Meadows. He was born in Chicago, Feb. 11, 1961.

Visitation is today from 5 to 9:30 p.m. in Halro Funeral Home, Northwest Highway and Vail Avenue, Arlington Heights.

Surviving are his parents, Donalan and Christine, nee Vathakos, Metreger; two brothers, Michael and Martin, and four sisters, Rita, Tina, Diana and Tabitha, all at home.

Prayers for Mark will be said at 10:30 a.m. Friday morning, in the chapel of the funeral home. Then the body will be taken to St. Colette Catholic Church, 3000 Meadow Dr., Rolling Meadows, where a funeral Mass of the Resurrection will be offered at 11 a.m. Burial will be in St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Palatine.

Family requests, please omit flowers.

Clara Kunisch

Miss Clara Kunisch, a resident of Des Plaines for 81 years, died Wednesday morning in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. She was born Dec. 17, 1892, in Des Plaines.

Visitation is today from 3 to 9:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the chapel of the funeral home. Officiating will be the Rev. Garry A. Scheuer Jr. of First Congregational United Church of Christ, Des Plaines. Burial will be in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Preceded in death by her parents, Julius and Johanna, nee Strohm, and a sister, Mrs. Ella Priestor, survivors include three sisters, Rose Kunisch, Mrs. Elise Patrick and Mrs. Hilma Van-Ness, all of Des Plaines, and a brother, Alfred J. and sister-in-law, Esther Kunisch of Des Plaines.

Robert G. Ruediger

Robert G. Ruediger, 7, of Mount Prospect, died Wednesday morning in Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, after an extended illness. A student at Robert Frost Elementary School in Mount Prospect, he was born in Chicago, April 3, 1967.

Visitation is today from 4 to 9 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines.

Funeral Mass of the Resurrection for Robert will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday in St. Emily Catholic Church, 1400 E. Central Rd., Mount Prospect. Burial will be in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Surviving are his parents, George H. and Barbara A., nee Blalas, Ruediger; two sisters, Susan P. and Elizabeth A.; a brother, Daniel J., all at home; maternal grandparents, John and Laura Blalas of Chicago, and paternal grandparents, George and Elsa Ruediger of Boynton Beach, Fla.

Elsie Christiansen

Mrs. Elsie Christiansen, 82, of Chicago, died Tuesday in Bethany Methodist Hospital, Chicago. She was born in Detroit, Mich., April 18, 1892.

Preceded in death by a husband, Henry Pottersen, survivors include a husband, Carl W. Christiansen; a step-son, H. A. and daughter-in-law, Betty Christiansen of Des Plaines; many nieces and nephews.

Visitation is today from 3 to 9:30 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines, where funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Friday. The Rev. Harry V. Victorson will officiate. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery, Chicago.

Spec/4 Richard Clark

Spec/4 Richard D. Clark, 21, of Hoffman Estates, died suddenly Sunday at Ft. Louis, Wash. He was born in Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 30, 1952.

Visitation is today from 2 to 9:30 p.m. in Ahlgrim and Sons Funeral Home, 330 W. Golf Rd., Schaumburg.

Funeral Mass of the Resurrection will be said at 10 a.m. Friday in St. Hubert Catholic Church, 126 Grand Canyon St., Hoffman Estates. Prayers will be said at 9:30 a.m. at the funeral home. Burial will be in St. Michael the Archangel Cemetery, Palatine.

Surviving are his parents, Lawrence and Theresa, nee Plunkett, Clark; three brothers, Michael and Lawrence, both of Memphis, Tenn., and David of Oswego, N.Y., and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Blanche Clark of Oswego, N.Y.

Possibly you can help with my problem of "phantom toes." These attacks occur from three weeks to three months apart, and last from 8 to 24 hours. My missing toes feel as though someone has given them an electric shock. These shocks last from a split second up to a full second or two, and my stump often jerks upward convulsively. This is very distressing, although not really painful.

My left leg was amputated in 1924 in the middle of the thigh. I have been most active on an artificial leg. I'm 58, 5' 10" and have weighed 136 to 139 pounds for many years. In general I'm in excellent health.

The various doctors I have consulted suggest aspirin for my phantom toes as an alternative to an operation. They say an operation on the stump is rather uncertain of success. I'm hoping you may have some helpful recommendation for me.

The problem of the "phantom limb" is really a medical mystery. In most cases the amputee has the sensation immediately after surgery, but it can occur years later. He may have the sensation of still having the complete limb that has been cut off. This can lead to difficulties. If he still has the sensation of the original leg and gets out of bed quickly, stepping on the phantom leg, he will fall. If it is the arm that has been amputated he may reach out with the phantom hand and nothing happens.

The doctor says by Dr. Laurence E. Lamb

As time goes on the phantom leg may shrink into the stump and disappear. In other instances the leg may disappear, but the foot may remain, floating in the air so to speak. The same thing can happen to the hand in relation to the arm. In your case I take it that you feel the presence of your toes, but not the missing leg.

Obviously the sensation is transmitted some way through the nerves. There seem to be sensitive spots (trigger areas) that, when pressed, make the limb or the sensations appear. There are a variety of sensations reported, including tingling (the most common) and sensations of hot and cold.

NO ONE HAS been successful in defining the anatomy of the pain. It is not from irritated cut nerve ends. Surgery has been tried, even by snipping off the roots of nerves at the spinal cord, without success.

Because of the lack of correlation of the pain with anatomy, some have thought the problem was related to psychological factors. While emotional upsets can trigger an episode, it just isn't that simple. You can inject the nerve areas and provide relief. One proof of the anatomic basis versus just "nerves" is that if you do not inject the right nerve areas or trigger points, there will be no relief. In general for patients with severe problems, efforts should be made toward treatment with injections of demonstrated trigger areas that set off the reaction of nerves to that area. This sometimes gives relief for many months and occasionally leads to complete remission.

You may not need the injections since your sensations are usually short-lived and you have long periods of freedom from your phantom toes. If your problem progresses, though, your doctor may want to try local nerve blocks to see if he can help relieve the symptoms.

Knight's conduct questioned

Sir Dinadan, the worst swordsman of the round table and the worst player of the square table was very proud of himself for not opening with a two bid.

Mordred sitting North raised one spade to two and Dinadan burst into the convention just invented by Sir Easley of the Blackwood and settled for six when Mordred could not produce a king.

He won the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts and remarked, "Maybe we didn't bid enough." He then led dummy's deuce of spades and went up with his ace. Lancelot, sitting West, showed out and poor Dinadan had no way to go but down.

Mordred drew his sword. "Haven't you ever heard of safety plays?" he roared. "You didn't need to make seven, but you were sure of your slam if you simply played your seven of trumps on East's six spot."

"Put your sword back, Mordred," said Lancelot. "Of course, he should have made certain of his contract by playing the seven of trumps. However, we lose enough knights to our enemies without having to kill them ourselves. Furthermore, remember you play against him twice as often as you play with him."

Play to be presented Sunday at Woodfield

Excerpts from the Goodman Summer Children's Theater "The Popcorn Man" will be given on Sunday at 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m. in the Grand Court of Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

The musical by Dodl Robb and Pat

Patterson is about a mama kangaroo who escapes from the zoo to visit Australia and show off her baby, and the Popcorn Man who helps her get her wish.

The show started at Goodman June 24 and will be presented through Aug. 3.

Protection sought against off-road vehicle damage

by LEA TONKIN

The escalation of off-road vehicle use in the U.S. imposes tremendous environmental costs.

An example of rampant soil erosion caused by excessive use of ORVs — motorcycles, snowmobiles and the like — is the nature preserve at Illinois Beach State Park near Zion, according to Mrs. Ann Fisher of Arlington Heights. As conservation chairman of the Great Lakes Chapter of the Sierra Club, she recently presented a petition to the Illinois Conservation Dept. requesting that the area be closed temporarily to allow revegetation.

A two-year respite for the nature preserve would prevent a worsening of the erosion problems attributed to ORVs, commented Mrs. Fisher. She plans to bring the complaint directly to Conservation Dept. Director Tony Dean at the July 15 meeting of the Illinois Nature Preserve Council at Illinois Beach State Park. Bike trails and other topics will be considered at the 6:30 p.m. session in the park lodge.

MRS. FISHER called for an enforced policy for the use of snowmobiles and other ORVs in state parks. The Conservation Dept. plans to conduct public hearings "fairly quickly" on snowmobile use and state policy proposals.

The call for regulation of ORVs is seconded by the Environmental Defense Fund. Despite a 1972 executive order stressing the need for "unified federal policy toward the use of ORVs on public lands," the federal regulation remains a hodge-podge of conflicting standards and procedures, say EDF spokesmen.

The environmental costs of excessive ORV use are substantial, says EDF's Richard Gutting Jr. "ORVs destroy vegetation and disturb the soil, causing weed infestation, soil compaction, erosion, dust and air pollution," he said. "Normal ORV driving disturbs wildlife and destroys wildlife habitats, and ORVs often chase and harass animals."

More than 5 million dune buggies, trail bikes, and other ORVs are in operation — the result of explosive sales growth in the past 10 years.

AMONG THE reports of ORV damage: biologists report harassment of moose, elk and other wildlife by snowmobile drivers in Minnesota and Wyoming. Many animals have died of the stress from exposure to the noise. Farmers in eastern Maine report commercial blueberry lands are damaged by snowmobiles. Sections of the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area were gouged by ORV use, causing loss of vegetation. The National Safety Council reports casualty rates six times as high for snowmobiles as autos.

The right of ORV enthusiasts to use public lands and the government's obligation to preserve and protect these lands is the crux of the controversy. EDF recently filed suit against the Bureau of Land Management for its failure to control the use of ORVs in 12 million acres of the California desert. The suit is aimed at setting a precedent which may affect more than 400 million acres of land administered by the bureau.

Neutral currents confirmed

Scientists at Argonne National Laboratory in Argonne, in cooperation with researchers at Concordia College and Purdue University, announced a significant step toward understanding the forces of nature. A paper presented at the spring meeting of the American Physical Society in Washington, D.C., confirmed the existence of weak neutral currents.

The existence of such currents, which cause rare collisions among subatomic particles, had been predicted by recently formulated theories which tie together two basic forces: the electromagnetic force which drives electric motors and binds atoms to one another, and the weak nuclear force which governs some forms of radioactivity. Researchers sponsored by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission are at work trying to incorporate gravitational force and the strong nuclear force into the theory.

Air cleanup warning sent

A warning letter from U.S. Environmental Protection Agency regional administrator Francis Mayo in Chicago, recently sent to the Cook County board, cites non-compliance with federal air cleanup deadlines. Mayo warns that he may take action under the federal Clean Air Act unless the board complies with federal vehicle inspection program standards.

State officials to speak

Jacob D. Dumelle, chairman of the Illinois Pollution Control Board, will be among speakers in a panel discussion today on nuclear power plants sponsored by Hoffman Estates Environmental Control Commission.

The program will begin at 7:15 p.m. in the municipal building, 1200 N. Gannon Dr.

Other speakers include Dr. John Tingel of the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. Fred Olds, of the American Nuclear Society and Lee Botts, of the Lake Michigan Federation, an organization opposed to nuclear power plants.

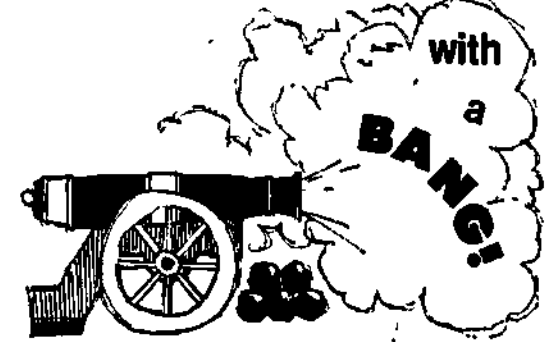

Films showing arguments for and against nuclear power plants will be shown prior to the panel discussion, which is open to the public.

For further information contact Dan Lurey, 359-7293.

Insurance award

Roy A. Quid & Associates insurance agency of Mount Prospect was recently recognized as a 1974 Select Circle agency by the Central Mutual Insurance Co. of Van Wert, Ohio. Roy Quid, president of the agency accepted a certificate from Mutual's central division branch at a recent meeting held in Dorado Beach, Puerto Rico.

Rose Parade's an honor

During the coming months, Northwest suburban residents are going to be hearing more than usual about the Hersey High School band, for it is going to take a very special trip this winter.

The band has been invited to march in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif., next New Year's Day. It'll be the first Illinois band in 25 years to march in the parade, which precedes the Rose Bowl football game.

Congratulations are due to the band, and we wish it and the Hersey Instrumental Association good fortune in raising money for the trip. The Rose Parade is a traditional New Year's Day event, and it'll be exciting to see a local band in the parade.

However, it must be noted that the band's accomplishment does not belong only to the band members. It reflects on the music programs of all local high schools.

In particular, the bands in High School Dist. 214 compete regularly against each other here and around the state. This competition has grown into an intense rivalry, both for trophies and for publicity.

This intense rivalry and the hostility that it seems to create, particularly among adult boosters, has been criticized. We've sometimes wondered if it is necessary to make music a competitive sport in order to have an excellent music program.

Despite these reservations, we believe the Northwest suburbs are blessed with a number of first-rate bands. The invitation for Hersey to go to the Rose Parade is one more example of this local excellence.

As Hersey's Pasadena trip approaches, it should be the time for all bands in the area to realize that the accomplishments of one, whether Hersey, Elk Grove or Wheeling, reflect the achievements of all.

It would be a gracious gesture if band boosters from other schools would offer fund-raising help to Hersey. Such cooperation could be returned by Hersey, when other area bands receive similar honors.

Competition between schools may be necessary to create outstanding bands, as some claim. But when the Hersey band steps off in Pasadena on Jan. 1, it will not only represent Hersey High School, but the excellence of all bands in the Northwest suburbs. For all of us, it's a deserved trip.

ERA opponent blasted by reader

Mrs. Louise Daley recently wrote of her "disgust" of CBS News commentator Walter Jacobson's unfavorable comments about the legislators who voted against the ERA. She apparently justifies her castigation of Jacobson and the news media in general by the statement, "Most thinking and well-informed women know that the ERA amendment would take away freedoms which we now enjoy."

Mrs. Daley is wrong. First ERA will take away no "freedoms" (I note that those "freedoms" are unspecified). Second, I seriously doubt that "most" women oppose ERA, particularly in a state which has just ratified in recent years,

Fence post letters to the editor

by popular vote (we women did have the vote in Illinois in 1970, didn't we?), one of the few state constitutional provisions guaranteeing equal rights for women. Finally, one who could make such a statement cannot be particularly well-informed. While there may be grounds for opposing ERA, that certainly is not one of them. Part of the tragedy of ERA, as Walter Jacobson pointed out, is that it is not treated seriously by its opponents, but is treated as a joke. When legislators give as reasons for not voting for the amendment such observations as women should be kept barefoot and pregnant, that passing the amendment would mean that men and women couldn't have separate washrooms, or that the issue was an egalitarian issue and everyone knows egalitarianism was the cause of the French revolution, the result becomes humiliating and ludicrous.

I want and need ERA. Why should I be at a disadvantage in buying or renting property merely because my earnings are less than a man's? Or why should I be denied credit in my own name just because I am married? And, in addition, the ERA would provide an increased legal basis for enforcing rights of support for myself or my children should I ever, God forbid, get divorced, while at the same time ensuring that a man would not get socked the way he sometimes does when his wife is perfectly capable of supporting herself.

If a woman wants to be whatever she considers "all woman" in the delicate sense of the phrase, she is free with or without ERA to be so. If a woman wants to work as a truck driver, secretary, lawyer, or scuba diver, she should be equally free to do so. I myself happen to be what is known as a housewife. I love it. But also, I want equal rights, and respect for myself as a person, not as a second class citizen or as an adjunct of my husband.

I think Walter Jacobson should be praised for admonishing our distinguished legislators of the mockery they make of their offices by refusing to treat ERA intelligently — or at least as intelligently as they conduct other business.

Kissinger called traitor

I read with great interest Tom Wellman's column on June 17, about our current Secretary of State, Henry A. Kissinger. It is clear to me that Kissinger and Company must have the greatest press agents in the history of American politics.

My reason for making this observation is that the national chairman of the American Party of the United States, Tom Anderson, recently sent the following telegram to each Senator and Congressman, and there has not been one word in the press about it.

"Henry Kissinger has been a 'double-agent' and therefore a traitor, according to a highly reliable author and publication. Frank Capell, writing for The Review Of The News, says: 'A well informed authority on Soviet intelligence contends that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has been a Soviet agent, and that his involvement with Soviet intelligence was made known to agencies of our government even before his rise to prominence.'"

"The article by Capell documents his case in detail. Either Frank Capell and The Review of the News are guilty of slander and libel or Kissinger is a traitor."

"The American Party calls upon the Congress of the United States to hold a congressional investigation to determine the truth of these charges. The fate of our nation could be at stake."

Where's story?

Sincere thanks for the June 5 front page coverage of the mural unveiling at Conant High School. It was a memorable occasion for our son, Chris, our family, friends and all at Conant who participated. We can't begin to thank the many people who made the event possible, but we can mention Dr. Kolze, Mr. Zideb, Mr. Butler, Mr. Mulcrone, Dr. Breareshers, Miss Moore and Miss Beck.

On the negative side, we and many other interested parents were sorely disappointed to find no mention at all of the graduation exercises June 12 at Conant or at any other local high school. Conant, class of '74 had the largest number of National Honor Society members in its history — the ceremony was one of the finest we've had the pleasure to attend and reflected long hours of rehearsal and preparation. The guests, as well as the students, were courteous and dignified. For many students not going on to college this will be their only graduation and it seems that the customary listing of graduate's names could be made in preference to the space given to the blanket coverage of "The Great Kiss-Off!"

It isn't too late to commend all the fine young people who worked hard for that diploma!

Class coverage draws applause

Many thanks for the excellent article that Gentle Campbell wrote regarding our Fascinating Womanhood classes. Thanks to your publicity, I have received over 60 phone calls from women in the area who are interested in taking the course. Because of the tremendous response we have scheduled two classes to start the second week in July. There will be other classes scheduled for this fall.

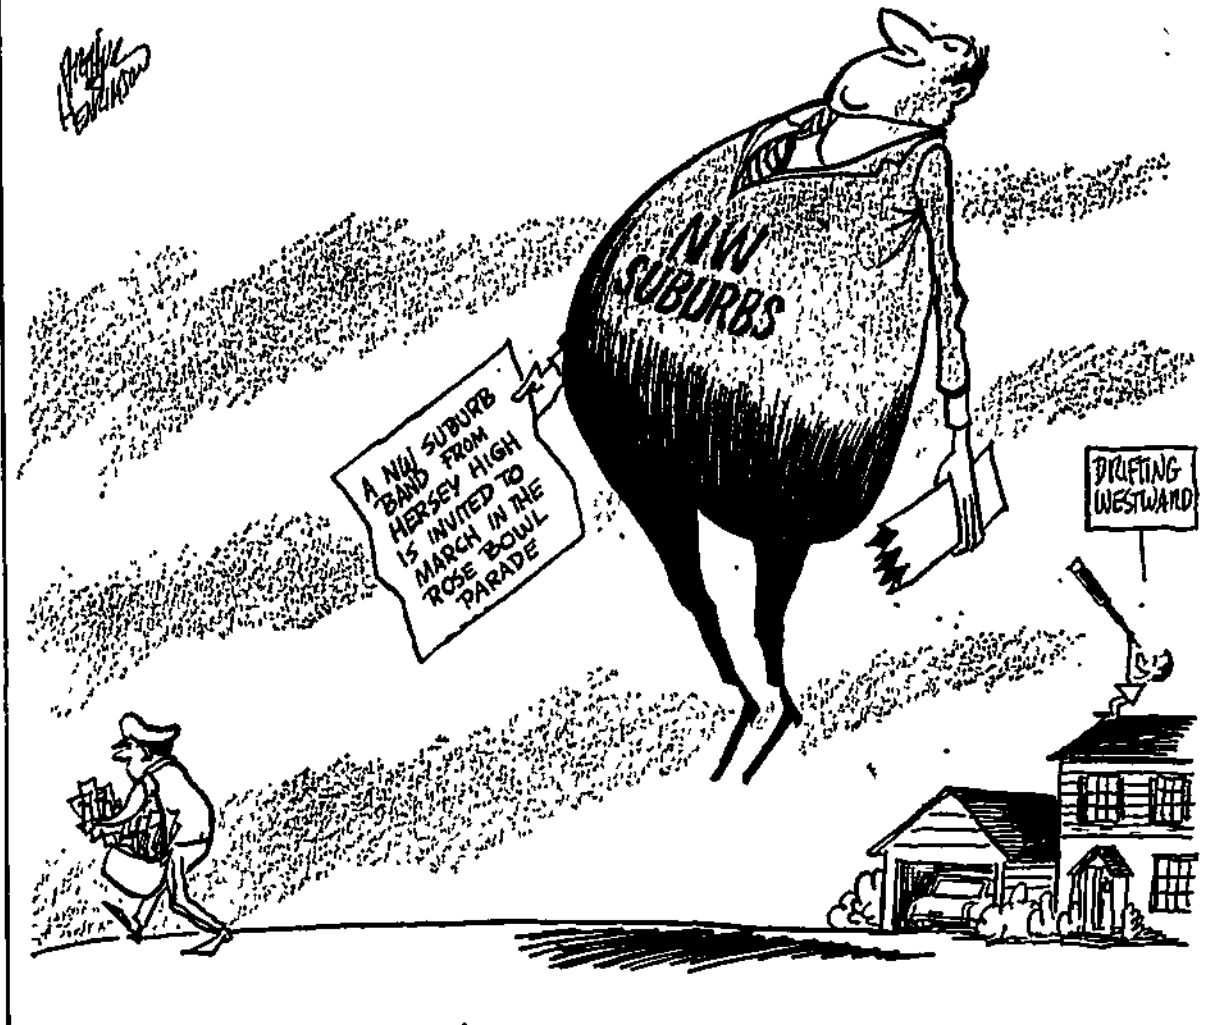

Just for the record, may I point out that the drawing that went along with the article was in error. Fascinating Womanhood teaches that the wife is on the pedestal, not the husband. Your artist got it backwards.

In creating woman, God did not select a part of Adam's head which would symbolize that woman should rule over man, God did not select a part of Adam's foot which would have symbolized that woman should be man's servant. God did take from Adam's side a rib which symbolized that woman was to be man's companion.

Again, let me thank you for the publicity you extended to this most worthwhile undertaking — assisting women to become better wives, mothers and homemakers.

Poverty hits legislators

Suppose for a moment that you live in Rolling Meadows and each week collect a meager paycheck of $292.

If your boss approached you today and said that your next pay check would be for $322 — a 10 per cent raise — would you:

A. Thank him and rush to the phone to call home with the news?

B. Call your stockbroker?

C. Poke the boss in the eye with a sharp stick?

A salary of $292 makes answers B and C unlikely.

That salary represents the median income — $15,173 per year — of residents of the 12th Congressional District in Illinois, where most readers of this newspaper live.

Residents of the 10th Congressional District, which includes Maine Township, have things a little better than their poor cousins to the west. They enjoy a median voted for a legislative pay raise. The Senate may be duplicating their action as this is written. And the governor, it is reported, thinks it is a grand idea, too, and will shortly approve the pay raises, in exchange for a law granting pay raises to his appointees.

One Southern Illinois legislator justified the pay raise by noting that the price of bean soup in the Capitol Cafeteria has skyrocketed by 15 per cent in the space of a year. That's an obvious burden on legislators, who practically live on bean soup, since they currently receive only $32 per day for living expenses while tolling for the rich folks back home.

So how much of a raise are they going to give themselves? Ten per cent, as in the example above? Fifteen per cent, to match the cost of bean soup?

Try 29 per cent. From $17,500 to $22,500.

Having lifted themselves above the poverty level, they obviously need more assistance in carrying out their duties. So they have voted to raise allowances for home office expenses from $10,000 a year to $12,000 a year.

And a part-time worker who makes $22,500 a year and spends $12,000 on office expenses obviously can't be seen sitting around the basement cafeteria slurping up bean soup. So per diem expenses are going up to $40.

Legislators, of course, like the rest of us, have the option of picking up their biennial salaries in a lump sum. So the greenest of the green legislators to be elected in November will be welcome to walk up to the pay window — having gathered all the legislative experience of being sworn in — and request a check for $45,000, please.

In return for all this, the pay-raise advocates assure us, the folks in Little Egypt and the 10th Congressional District will be assured legislators of even higher quality, greater dedication and deeper wisdom.

And if you believe that, you probably believe the legislature will reduce your taxes next year.

Bob Lahey

annual income of $16,576 ($315 per week), only the second highest in the nation.

Some other figures to consider.

The median income for the state as a whole is $10,957.

In the state's 21th Congressional District, in the southern tip of Illinois known as Little Egypt, the median income is $7,501, making it the poorest in the state, followed closely by the 7th District, comprising Chicago's West Side ghetto, where the median is $7,536.

Which brings us to the plight of our poor state legislators.

Our beleaguered state senators and representatives are paid a paltry $17,500 per year, for a part-time job.

That puts legislators from the 10th District barely a thousand dollars a year ahead of the median family of their constituents. For a part-time job. (Note word family — that means the combined income of the husband, wife and teen-aged children).

In Little Egypt, legislators make only a little over twice what the average family in their district takes in, for a part-time job.

Because of these paltry salaries, 209 of the 236 members of the general assembly acknowledge that they are forced to become attorneys, business executives, insurance brokers, bankers and other demanding jobs. Some of their spouses even are forced to go out into the workaday world.

So the Illinois House of Representatives, to correct these inequities, has Machines' future may be in past, some say

Punch-button learning: does it help students read?

by KATHERINE BOYCE
Teaching machines were the trend of the future in education five years ago. Today some educators are wondering if they aren't just fancy gadgets.

Publishers sold them to schools like door to door salesmen sold vacuum cleaners to housewives as labor-saving devices. Today many suburban schools have a machine that teaches students to read.

At least it's supposed to teach them to read. Educators now are wondering whether something is lost when a student sits for hours alone in front of a machine punching buttons to learn new words and sounds. They wonder how much a student is learning when he reads a paragraph flashed on a screen and then takes a multiple choice quiz to test how well he comprehends.

EDUCATORS DO know that reading is dull to many students today and they're beginning to think the reason may be teaching machines.

Two such educators are Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent for instruction in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, and Lee Kolzow, reading instructor at Harper College.

"I think blackboards ought to come back into use. I think teacher instruction should come back instead of individualized learning," says Stevenson. "A teacher at the blackboard makes a world of difference."

Machines and individualized programmed learning deprive students of written and oral communication which is a corollary to reading, says Stevenson. He would like to see the return of the school play where students each had a part and would recite in front of the rest of the school. "There needs to be a demand on children to express themselves orally. It can't be done with ditto sheets, machines and workbooks," he says. "We're handicapping children in that area."

"The ability of students to express themselves in some kind of written or verbal form is going down," says Stevenson. The student's ability to communicate is lost when he sits down to a machine or a workbook to go through a programmed lesson, says Stevenson. These materials "come accompanied with all kinds of workbooks, ditto sheets, and mechanical devices which take students away from responding orally," he says.

READING MACHINES as well as television and all kinds of electronic media have eroded a student's powers of critical thinking which are an essential part of reading and learning, says Stevenson. With a machine "what a student may not be learning is how to interpret what he reads. He doesn't appreciate what he reads any more," says Stevenson.

Stevenson also thinks multiple choice questions, which often are a part of programmed instruction on reading machines, take away from the critical thinking process. On a multiple choice question a student chooses the correct answer from two or more selections. Stevenson says, "He has a 50-50 chance of being right. He doesn't have to be a critical thinker — he just has to be a good guesser."

Mrs. Kolzow is no less adamant about teaching machines but she thinks television also is at fault for weakening the critical thinking process and making reading dull for many students.

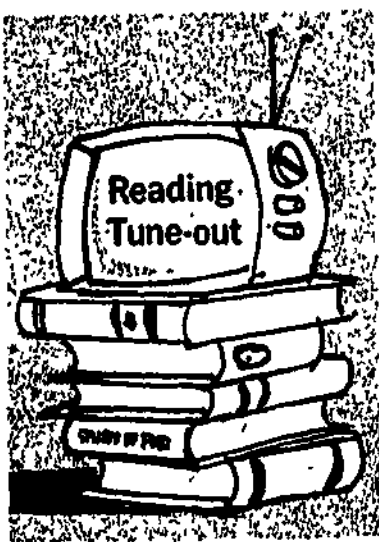

"You really don't have to do a lot of thinking when watching television," she says. "Television has led us down the primrose path. The information just comes to you."

PICTURE A STUDENT sitting in a lounge chair relaxing and watching television, says Mrs. Kolzow. The words and pictures come to him in a flash without much effort and it's rather enjoyable.

Now that student picks up his political science textbook and flips through the pages, retaining the same relaxed state of mind. When he's finished he realizes he doesn't remember what he has read and he has to go back and read the chapter again. Often a student can't understand why he doesn't get anything out of the book and he gets frustrated, says Mrs. Kolzow.

Reading is an aggressive activity, she says, because the reader must constantly raise questions in his mind and interpret as he reads. He doesn't have to do that with television and he's spoiled by it, she says.

Critical thinking and all reading skills have to be taught constantly by every teacher of every academic subject at every grade level, says Mrs. Kolzow. The whole method of teaching reading as a separate course using reading machines is wrong, she says. Good reading skills are part of all learning and they shouldn't be separated, Mrs. Kolzow says.

MOST HIGH SCHOOL and community college teachers are "still blaming the grade school teachers" for a student's poor reading skills, when in fact it's probably their own fault, says Mrs. Kolzow. "It's true that sophomore students are not getting sophomore level reading skills. The sophomore level teacher thinks the sixth grade teacher should have done it."

Stevenson agrees. "Every teacher should be a teacher of reading whether he is a history teacher or a science teacher. Perhaps we've been derelict there," he says.

"Public schools keep trying to solve problems in two ways — new materials to do the job or some type of reorganization of the teaching system," says Stevenson. Reading machines and individualized instruction are examples. They're not the answer, says Stevenson. "People are the answer, and yet public schools spend virtually no money on training people. They spend thousands of dollars on materials."

High school reading labs are filled with "all kinds of crap that is supposed to teach students to read," says Mrs. Kolzow. Schools would be better off spending their money training their teachers to help students develop reading skills.

BUT EVEN THE best teacher has a tough time teaching reading today when he has to compete with television. There are homes where the television comes on in the morning when the family wakes up and goes off when they go to bed at night. Television critic Alistair Cooke has called this use of television "audible wallpaper" which appeals to the emotions rather than to the intellect.

Television isn't all bad, says Mrs. Kolzow. It can actually help small children learn to read by exposing them to new sounds and words and concepts, she says. "But I'm talking about television in a guided way. I'm not talking about sitting in front of the tube hour after hour."

Even the book publishers admit that television is an attraction in the American home and it's part of the reason teaching machines have been so popular in schools. But that trend is reversing, says Robert Laronga, marketing product manager for Harper & Row, Publishers, Inc. More and more schools are going back to reading instruction without machines, he says, and more and more families are turning the television set off.

"We as a house don't subscribe to the view that reading is declining," says Laronga. Harper & Row has never come out with a strong line of reading machines and audio-visual equipment. They consider it supplementary to old-fashioned book learning.

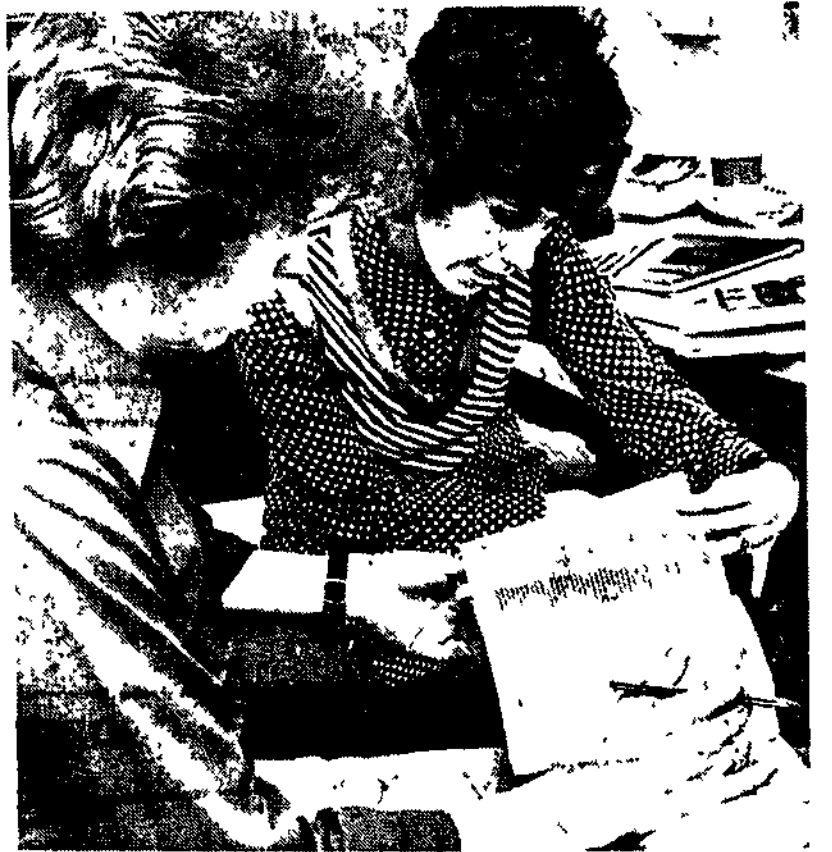

MANY READING experts and publishers thought media learning "was the trend of the future in 1965. But it's changed. There's a backlash now against these materials," says Laronga.

"Programs produced for audio-visual have been substandard," says Eddy Jo Bradley, senior editor of Harper & Row's reading program. Programmed learning simply "works with some people and not with others," she says.

Good reading habits come from the home, says Mrs. Bradley. "I think it goes right back to the family," she says. "If you have a house where there are no books" then how can children be expected to like reading?

"There's a lot of buck passing in education," says Laronga. "Educators blame the publishers and the publishers blame them."

"Yes," says Mrs. Bradley, and "pretty soon somebody blames Mom and Pop and then there's nobody left."

READING IS DULL to many students today but teachers like Lee Kolzow, right, at Harper College in Palatine try to make it interesting and rewarding. "Television has led us down the primrose path," she says.

Pros begin assault today on tough Butler

OAK BROOK — "Can you imagine working a whole week and then coming out here to play on your day off? I'd rather go back to work."

A 6-foot-6 gentleman Wednesday was commenting on the course he was standing on — Butler National Golf Club. He couldn't understand how a high handicap golfer could stand the strain of playing Chicago's newest super course.

However, this lanky man won't be chickening out of playing this 7,002-yard, par 71 monster and returning to his desk job. You see, he was at his office while he talked — the eighth tee of the Western Open Tournament.

George Archer — the tallest member of the touring professionals — was preparing to hit a long iron to this picturesque par 3 hole. The beauty of this hole probably escaped him as he concerned himself with trying to keep his shot out of troublesome Salt Creek.

Starting this morning, Archer and his highly paid friends are expecting to face the third straight week of trying to salvage pars — a rarity for most P.G.A. events.

Two weeks ago saw the best golfers in the world struggling to break 300 at Winged Foot, site of the United States Open. Hale Irwin's winning score was seven over par.

Last week found the pros sweating again for pars at the American Golf Classic. This time Jim Colbert came in first, but the Firestone Country Club was the real winner. A one over figure won it there.

And as Archer was indicating, the usually pampered pros could very well have the same Atlantic duel with par again.

The greens, the not-so-greens as well as the youngsters are in agreement on at least several points concerning the permanent home for the Western — right around par (284) will probably win it, accuracy from the tees will be of prime importance, it's plenty tough and they like its challenge.

Lee Elder, the first black player to qualify for the Masters Tournament, paid Butler the highest compliment when he called it "tougher than Winged Foot. It's the toughest course I've played (this year)."

Elder pointed out that the Winged Foot rough was much deeper, but it was still possible to spray tee shots there, "but not here. The holes are tight and tree-lined."

Paul Logan

"This is my belief — it is going to be a high-scoring tournament."

Both Arnold Palmer and Tom Weiskopf, two of the biggest crowd pleasers on hand this week, commented on the newness of the layout. Palmer liked the course as a whole, adding, "It will be all right. It just needs a little maturity is all."

Weiskopf said the immaturity of the greens as well as the fairways "will make the scoring a little higher. If the weather's good — four under (will win it)."

Weiskopf and Palmer disagreed with defending champion Billy Casper's appraisal of the greens as being small. Instead, Weiskopf — after being told that Casper had lost five balls on the front nine in a practice round — fired back at Casper's criticism, "I guess he didn't keep it in the fairway."

Another big favorite — Lee Trevino — comes to the Western after winning just one of the 26 previous events for 1974 — the Greater New Orleans Open. In that tourney, his under par total for four days was the highest so far this year — a whopping 21 under! He was asked what he thought of the severity Butler presents:

"I think it's good for golf. Some courses are so easy that it's just becoming a putting contest. It's not going to be a putting contest here. Beautiful ... hard ... really tough, really tough," said Trevino of Butler. "The greens are small, the fairways are narrow, the rough is high ... It's going to be fantastic ..."

As the man tabbed the favorite by host professional Ernie Ball, Trevino wouldn't admit to being numero uno. But possibly the straightest driver on the tour did add this: "Driving's the key."

Besides hitting 'em straight, U.S. Open champ Irwin has as his objective this week "to take a whole bunch of pars." He said this as he walked off the ninth green after carding his ninth straight par in yesterday's Pro-Am. "It's tight. You don't have many miss areas."

Hale's becoming one of the more well known players, but Randy Erskine is one of those young players who's just trying to reach the break even point. A co-medalist at Arlington Heights' Rolling Green Country Club qualifying round Monday, he's hoping to cash in again here to improve upon his $8,000 earning figure.

"I wouldn't be a bit surprised if it's over par," said the 1970 Big Ten champion, of the winning score. Erskine's played in 17 tournaments this season on courses that have seen 10 and 15 strokes under par being commonplace. "It's just as soon see it (four events) played on a course like this," he added.

Easy trip to Western

More so than in the past, the trip is a short one to the Western Open this year. And all future opens as well.

Starting this week, the Western will always be held at Butler National Golf Club — only a half an hour away from the Herald area.

The quickest route from the Northwest Suburbs is down the Tri-State Tollway (I-294). Take it south, exiting at Cermak Road, (22nd Street). Head west to York Road and turn left (south) on York. Public parking ($2 per car) is located just south of the club on York Road.

Wednesday through Friday ticket prices are $7 with Saturday and Sunday admission being $8. Children under the age of 14 are admitted for half price.

'Slam' keys Wheeling's triumph; Mount Prospect posts 4-0 victory

A grand slam home run by Wheeling's Ken Margalski highlighted a 10-hit attack as the Wheeling American Legion team edged Arlington, 6-5, Tuesday at Wheeling High School. It was Wheeling's eighth straight win.

Margalski struck in the third inning of a scoreless duel between Arlington pitcher Carl Pederson and Wheeling's Willie Kozel. The bases-loaded blast followed a double by Jeff Brisson and walks to Carl Pfister and Bob Burke. Margalski's line shot over the fence in right field came with two out.

Kozel couldn't stand the prosperity, though. After wiggling out of jams in the first three innings, twice with the help of timely double plays, the little Wheeling left surrendered three runs in the fourth. A base on balls and doubles by George Vukovich and Brett Frase produced two runs, and the rally was capped by Rance Aguirre, who singled home a third run.

Wheeling made it 5-3 in the bottom of the fourth on an RBI single by catcher Paul Groot after Kozel reached on an infield hit and advanced to second on a ground out.

Jeff Hantsch replaced Kozel on the mound for Wheeling after a leadoff single in the fifth and the big righty tolled the rest of the way on a yield of two hits to earn the win. And his teammates got him an insurance run in the sixth that turned out to be the winning margin. After two were out, Arlington reliever Dar Townsend was touched for consecutive singles by George Kaage, Groot, and Burke.

Arlington sent across a pair of runs in the seventh on a walk to pinch hitter Tom Good, a single off the bat of Joe Ripplinger, and a couple of infield outs. Wheeling's win gives them a 6-0 record at the Ninth District Legion standings and it drops Arlington's mark to 1-3 in the league. Coach Gerry Grybash's Wheeling squad had taken a nonconference win, 10-5, over Northbrook on Monday.

Ken Margalski

JOHNSON BAFLES NORWOOD PARK

Norwood Park finally got a hit off Mount Prospect's pitching, a single in the fourth inning, but it was the only one of the night as Gordon Johnson celebrated his return to Legion baseball with a 4-0 shutout.

Norwood's hitting experiences against Prospect have been anything but robust. In their first meeting Buddy Hughes fashioned a no-hit 1-0 effort. In Tuesday's game Johnson retired the first 11 batters before allowing Pat Loftus to single. No runner advanced beyond second the entire game.

Johnson had just returned to the Mount Prospect lineup from college and continued the Prospect pitchers' tradition of good hitting by singling in a run and scoring once himself.

That other Prospect tradition of no hitting from any other position was discarded for the time being. Prospect's four runs were the most they had scored since an 8-4 loss to Wheeling on June 18.

Prospect jumped on Norwood starter Jack Fulara for three runs in the first two innings.

John Strybel opened the game by drawing a walk, stole second and went to third on Jim Anderson's single. Mike Quade then laid a bunt down the third base line that Marty Crowley one-handed easily to catcher Jeff Hart.

Strybel had gotten too late a break on the bunt and Hart was waiting for him with the ball when he crashed into the stocky catcher. Strybel had the wind knocked out of him.

Anderson went all the way to third on the play and scored moments later on a wild pitch.

Strybel took out a measure of revenge in the second inning when he doubled home Gref Pfaff, who had singled, and Johnson who had reached on a fielder's choice.

Pfaff figured again in the final run of the game when he doubled in the fourth and came home on Johnson's single.

The win moved Prospect ahead of the league with a 3-2 record.

They will host the Des Plaines-Arlington entry tonight at Forest View.

LIONS, PARK RIDGE TIE

Baseball games ending in rare ties are usually disappointing for both teams, but the 6-6 sister kisser between Logan Square and Park Ridge Tuesday night at Maine South High School had to be a particularly bitter pill for the visiting Lions to swallow.

As darkness that eventually ended the contest closed in, Logan Square took the field in the bottom of the seventh with a one-run advantage, just three outs away from recording their first Ninth District win against three setbacks.

But it wasn't to be. Undaunted, Park Ridge retaliated against Lion reliever Steve Bobowski as Ron Parker reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on a crucial passed ball by Dave Minchewicz. Dave Patterson's safety then drove in the tying marker before the umpire stepped in.

Logan Square had fought back from a 5-3 deficit with a trio of runs after loading the bases on an error and two walks by Post 247 starter Jay Liggett. Bill Harrison came on in relief issuing yet another pass to force one in, and Mark Hartley's third hit of the game, a two-run

There's that little boy in Ali

NEW YORK — Inevitably, the morning after has to follow the night before and, like so many other transgressors before him, Muhammad Ali looked at things a little differently when he awoke last Sunday morning.

He didn't have a hangover because he doesn't drink, but he was palpably, genuinely, sorry for what happened Saturday night.

Sorry he had said some of the things he did about heavyweight champion George Foreman. Sorry that what he said had caused the Boxing Writers' Dinner to deteriorate into a dangerous glass flying brawl, and sorry that he had talked too much.

Maybe you'd never believe you'd ever see the day Muhammad Ali would ever admit he talked too much, but Sunday was the day.

"I talked outta turn, and I talked too much," he said. "I was off course."

He said it without any of the usual Muhammad Ali marshmallow either. He said it like a man who honestly believed and meant what he was saying. At least that's the impression he gave me.

George Foreman, who defends his title against Ali Sept. 24 in Zaire, was being honored by the writers Saturday night as Fighter of the Year. He was being presented with the Edward J. Neil Award and Ali was to be the guest speaker. Ali violated rule number one by speaking too long, nearly 20 minutes. He took care of rule number two as well by demeaning Foreman.

"I'm sorry it happened," Ali said.

"I apologize to George Foreman and to all those people who were at the dinner, I apologize for getting on him, talking about him, and bringing him down as a champion. That probably got him upset. Still he had no right to grab my jacket and rip it off."

"I say a lotta things and do a lotta things for promotion, publicity and so on, but I wouldn't be so bold as to do what he did. Not that bold to rip a person's jacket off. That was a big move. That took a lotta nerve."

"Where I was wrong, where I made a mistake was talking about him not being a good champion, not having a hard punch. The whole dinner was to honor him, not me. I shoulda kept that in mind. It's just that I was thinking about the fight in September, and when I got up to speak, naturally I wanted to say things to help it. I wasn't really thinking that much about the dinner being in his honor. I'm sure kings, presidents and politicians go to dinners honoring their adversaries and they don't agree with everything that's said, but they just sit there and don't raise any fuss. That was my mistake. I said some things I shouldn't have."

During all the time Ali was talking at Saturday night's dinner, Foreman, according to those who were there, said nothing. All he did was glare at Ali in icy silence. When Foreman got up to leave, he was holding the plaque given him and he told the audience he appreciated the award, but said he'd had enough of Ali.

Ali impulsively grabbed the plaque from Foreman and held it behind his back. Foreman asked for it back and when Ali refused, the champ went right after it and that was when he ripped Ali's jacket. All then tore Foreman's jacket and literally yanked the shirt off his back.

By this time, both fighters were being held back in a scene reminiscent of Ali's scuffle with Joe Frazier in a TV studio before their last fight in January. There were some glasses on the table in front of Ali and Foreman, and Ali, who thrives on chaotic excitement, latched onto a couple of goblets and flipped them in Foreman's direction.

No blows were struck although Ali said Foreman did make a move to hit him when both were being restrained. When Ali returned to his hotel, there was a phone call from Herbert Muhammad, his manager. Herbert Muhammad had heard about the trouble and told Ali he was wrong in having done what he did.

Ali admitted he was wrong.

At no time during their eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation did Ali show any fear at all of Foreman. He acted as if he considered him one of his sparring partners.

"That's my trouble," Ali said. "I'm not afraid of nothing. My first thought when he ripped my jacket was this was a bully move to undo all I had said and to put fear into me. I wanted to show him I'm a bigger bully. I wanted to be bolder than him. He has been going around saying he'd keep his cool, but he blew it."

Muhammad Ali is 32, but still has some little boy in him.

He agitates an opponent, seldom realizes how much a master he is at it, and then is honestly surprised when the opponent reacts.

The things sometimes get out of hand. Ali is sorry. Honestly sorry. That's the little boy in him, too.

Diekman, 1973 La Grange Lady Club Champion; Kathy Sharpener, Big Forest Country Club; Lois Drafke, nine-time Illinois State Champion; Coreen Martin, Deerpath Golf Club; Paula L. Shearer, Hilldale Country Club; and Beverly Metzger, vice chairman of the 22nd U.S. Women's Open.

Salt Creek joins entries for 8th Paddock Olympics

Salt Creek Park District has been added to the list of eight other park districts participating in the 8th annual Paddock Olympics in July, according to tournament chairman Steve Whittier, sports supervisor of Palatine Park District.

"We're determined to make this year's Paddock Olympics the best yet," said Whittier as he completed plans for the event expected to involve more than 1,000 youngsters.

Mount Prospect Park District will host the tennis and softball competition Tuesday, July 23.

with Palatine Park District hosting all other events Wednesday, July 24. This is a new approach for the Olympics in order to spread the work load.

Each participant in the Olympics will receive a Paddock Olympics patch. In addition, almost 800 ribbons will be awarded for 1st through 5th places in each of the events.

Park districts participating include Arlington Heights, Elk Grove, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Salt Creek, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

No. 17 frustrates hurlers

No American League pitcher has been able to win more than 16 straight games. Joe Wood of the Red Sox did it in 1912 and Schoolboy Rowe of the Tigers tied the mark in 1934. The major league record, set in 1912, is 19 by Rube Marquard of the New York Giants.

single, then gave his mates their short-lived lead.

The Lions had drawn first blood in the third as Art Hoesterey walked and a balk and two outs later was singled home by Pat Rooney.

Park Ridge promptly tied it after Jeff Schwarz drew a base on balls, stole second and waited across on Harrison's double off starting hurler Kevin Kelley. In their next at-bats, Park Ridge used Paterson's double to left-center to score Parker who had singled.

The teeter-totter scoring saw Logan Square move ahead in the fifth when a pair of runs blossomed as a result of another Hartley single, Bob Wagner's two-bagger, a sacrifice fly by Mnichowicz and an RBI single by Jim Bucaro.

Once more the hosts staged an uprising with three in the fifth to set the scene for that crucial seventh stanza.

An infield hit and error plus a walk set up a run-producing base hit by Don Lowy. Tony Reibel's sacrifice fly accounted for another and Lowy came home when Parker's grounder got through Bobowski at first.

Both teams squandered numerous scoring opportunities with Logan Square leaving 10 men on base while Park Ridge, 2-1 in district play, was guilty of stranding five.

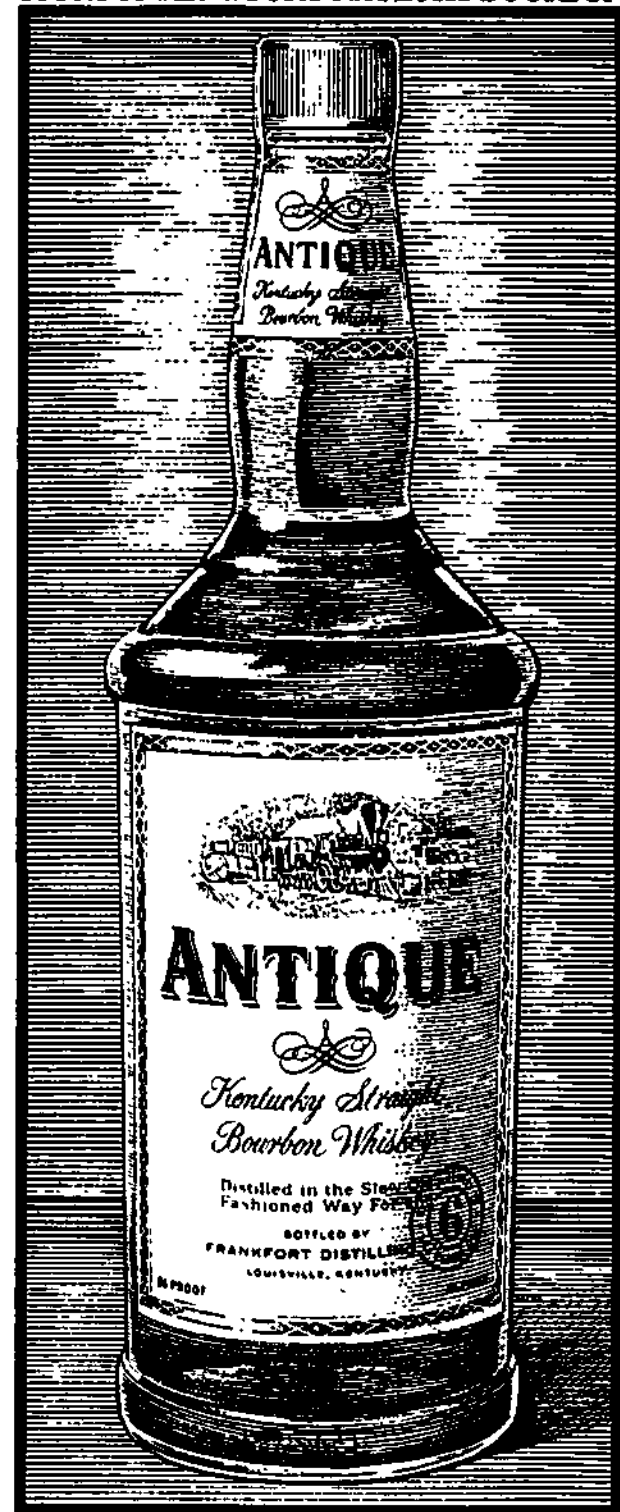

The contest will be completed at a future date yet to be determined.

Ryun refuses to accept defeat

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK — After the last race of the recent pro indoor track season, a race in which he ran last, Miller Jim Ryun, wheezing like a lean bull, staggered out of the arena and disappeared into the concrete underbelly below the Madison Square Garden stands.

One wondered if his fading click of cleats played taps for the end of Jim Ryun's poignant career, again.

He had retired in 1971 after having lugged for three years the burden of being considered a loser in the 1968 Olympics, after struggling with hay fever in outdoor tournaments, foul air in indoor tournaments, migraine headaches, the inability to finish races let alone win them. He retired then at the ripe old age of 24, and, soon after, unretired.

Ryun is still the world record holder in the mile, having run his 3:51.1 in 1966. He is at once one of the saddest and one of the most triumphant athletes in American history.

His gaunt face registers pain and little joy. Even in relaxed moments this intense, dedicated athlete seems to gird himself for battle. Perhaps now the bellows had burst, and Ryun would just keep running, on the momentum of his jet stream, to hop his plane and be gone. Track writers remember how, after some losses, he has leaped fences to avoid them, how at other times they have chugged down a street in pursuit, he felt, of his delicate privacy.

But Jim Ryun on this last night of the pro track season was just jogging up and back among the stacked boards from the circus of another day, jogging to snatch back his breath. Then he sat down on a folding chair and answered questions openly from a couple reporters. Intermittently, he coughed and spit.

"I just couldn't reach down deep when I needed to," he said of his performance. "I just couldn't suck air. Maybe I shouldn't have been here at all, with the migraines and the hay fever I've been suffering from, and all that junk in the air here."

But he is a professional now, one of the big names on the International Track Association tour; he knows he cannot be as aloof as when he was an amateur. And when his name is introduced, he invariably draws the greatest ovation — now he is the "sentimental" favorite.

"I hear the cheers," he said, breathing heavily still, "and it's hard to face up to when you run last."

"You see, I run because I still want to make times, and not strictly for the dollars and cents of it."

"Say, what was my time tonight?"

Someone said, "4:10.9."

"Better than last year in the Garden," he said, with soft smile. "Last year I ran 4:11 flat."

"People ask me how I take defeat," he continued. "I take it like I took victory — in stride. I'll be working in four kids' camps this summer. One thing I'll be telling the kids is that you have to be able to face both."

Ryun, however, like many athletes, takes defeat by not accepting defeat. That is, he can turn a loss into a personal triumph. It is the difference between resilience and despair. Listen:

"In 1968, when I lost to Kip Keino in Mexico City, I still won the race that counted — against the sea-level runners. I ran a 3:37 for 1,500 meters at 7,600 feet. There's not a lot of air up there, you know."

"I never trained at such high altitudes. Kip ran that high all his life."

"But the rest of the country didn't accept that. I didn't expect them to. People were never able to accept me when I started losing. But when you're on the inside you see things other people don't."

In 1972 at Munich, Ryun fell at the start of the 1,500-meter race and was finished.

"It was a victory just to be there," said Ryun. "A lot of people wrote me off, thought I would never even make the team. Then I ran a 3:52.8 mile solo. That surprised a lot of people."

Ryun is even preparing himself not to be let down when his mile record is broken, as he is certain it will be. "I want it to be," he said. "If it isn't, then the sport is stagnating. Nobody wants that. I love the sport too much for that."

He says since he is only 27 years old he has several good years ahead in running. This summer, besides the boys' camps and making some appearances for track such as at the Dewar's Celebrity Tennis Tournament in Las Vegas, he will begin running 20 to 25 miles a day to get in shape for next season.

"I put a great deal of pressure on myself," he said, "but I've come to realize that if you compete well against yourself, that's half the victory. Looking back on my career, I wouldn't say it's been all frustrating. No, all that pain makes victory — when it comes — all the sweeter."

Jacobsen after 2nd amateur title

Tommy Jacobsen of Schaumburg, voted Top Illinois Gopher of the Year and winner of the 1973 Chick Evans Amateur Championship, will be defending his winner's crown in the Chick Evans Classic to be held Aug. 13-16 at the Indian Lakes Country Club in Bloomington.

This 72 hole, (0-7) qualifying handicap contest will bring together many of the top amateurs in the state and from other areas as well. The Iniquitous course at Indian Lakes has been selected for this year's championship contest. It is a good, solid challenging course of 6995 yards, par 72. Deep sandtraps, long fairways, four par 5 holes and water hazards more than make this a test course.

A new Teenage Tournament will be held at the Mount Prospect Country Club Aug. 5-9. Trophies and prizes will be awarded for the six lowest scores in each of three flights of play accommodating three age groups.

The winner and runner-up in the 17-19 year old age group will qualify for play in the championship classic. All winners and runners-up will be guests of the Association at the awards presentation dinner.

Entry blanks may be obtained by writing the Chick Evans Amateur Golf Association, P.O. Box 11444, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Tournament preference must be specified.

Wisconsin trip for Babe Ruth league team

The Palatine Cubs summer baseball team will travel to Janesville, Wis. this weekend for a four-game series with last year's Wisconsin State Babe Ruth Champs — the Janesville Red Sox.

The Cubs, currently leading the Woodfield Babe Ruth League with a 7-1 season mark, will play two games on Saturday, June 29 and a doubleheader on Sunday afternoon, June 30. Saturday's games are scheduled for 4 and 8 p.m. Sunday's doubleheader is set for 1 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Games will be played at the city's Babe Ruth Park and the night game Saturday is set for Riverside Memorial Field.

Palatine manager Denny Porter is expected to use his three starters — Kevin McKenna (2-1), Tim Prokof (3-0) and Mike Benz (2-0) for three of the games. And John Comerford or Rick Henson could get the call for the fourth.

The Cubs also announced that they have entered the National Invitational Baseball Tournament in LaCrosse, Wis. scheduled for July 11 through the 14. Some 200 of the country's best teams will be in competition.

UOP subsidiary to expand

Procon Inc., an engineering and construction subsidiary of UOP (Universal Oil Products Co.) in Des Plaines, recently announced plans for expansion of operations in Houston, Tex. Consolidation of various staff groups into the Houston Operations office was also announced by Lawrence McQuade, president of Des Plaines-based Procon. The Erhart division of Procon has operated in Houston since 1966. "Enlargement of our Houston organization will enable us to meet projected business growth in the Gulf Coast area, and realignment of management will strengthen our services to clients with projects managed in Houston," said McQuade. John I. Hill was appointed vice president for Houston operations.

Wieboldt's directors elected

At a recent annual meeting, Wieboldt Stores Inc. shareholders elected all directors recommended in the management slate.

At its meeting following that of the shareholders, the board of directors declared a regular quarterly dividend of seven cents on the company's common shares as well as the regular quarterly dividend on the company's preferred shares, both payable July 1 to holders of record as of the close of business on June 17. All present officers of the company were reelected to their respective positions.

Union Oil declares dividend

The board of directors of Union Oil Co. of California declared a dividend of 48.5 cents a share on the common stock and also the regular 62.5-cent quarterly dividend on the company's preferred shares.

Dividends on both the common and preferred will be payable Aug. 10, to shareholders of record July 10.

He will become AT&T's chief financial officer. James E. Olson, president of Indiana Bell Telephone Co., was elected president of Illinois Bell, effective July 1. Brown was elected by the AT&T board of directors; Olson by Illinois Bell's board. John W. Arbuckle, vice president of operations for New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., is the new Indiana Bell president.

HUD widens counseling

As a step to cut down on foreclosures on Federal Housing Administration insured mortgages, Chicago-area director John Waner of the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development announced expanded counseling service for homeowners. A four-hour session for all buyers under Section 235 and Section 221(d) 2 is offered, in addition to counseling for buyers in default of mortgage payments. For added information, call 353-4979.

Montgomery Ward offering telephone ticket service

Montgomery Ward and Co. introduced to the Chicago area a unique telephone-order ticket service called Teletix, announced A. A. Hollis, operating manager for Ward's Chicago metropolitan district. "With this fully computerized system, customers are able to order reserved seats for theater or sports events with one phone call," Hollis explained, "and even confirm an exact seat location rather than just taking what they get. A live operator, not a recorded voice, answers the phone; she can answer questions and tell you exactly what seats are available for your performance choice by checking the computer."

If the customer is a Ward's Charge-all credit account customer, the operator will ask for the account number and the cost of the tickets may be charged to the account. The tickets will be mailed to the customer's home. An advantage offered Charge-all customers is the ability to purchase tickets up to the day before the actual performance. Because they are prepaid, the tickets can be held for pick-up at the box office.

If the customer is not a credit account customer, the tickets will be printed and held in file for four days awaiting the customer's check or money order before further processing. When payment is received, the tickets are mailed to the customer's home. If payment is not received in four days, the tickets will be "unsold" and returned to the system to be made available to other customers. For information call 329-1333.

Chicago households in national survey

A sample of households in the Chicago area will be included in the nation-wide survey of home upkeep and improvement expenditures conducted by the Bureau of the Census.

Forrest P. Cawley Jr., director of the bureau's Data Collection Center in Chicago, announced that householders will be interviewed during the period, June 27-July 10.

The survey is taken four times yearly to provide a continuing measure of this segment of America's economy. The sample of households here are among the approximately 6,000 throughout the United States that will be asked about alterations, repairs, and additions to their homes.

Total expenditures for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties amounted to $18.8 billion (seasonally adjusted annual rate) in third quarter 1973, up from the rate of $17.0 billion from the second quarter.

Information reported to the Census Bureau is held in strict confidence by law. The reports published are in terms of totals only. No information that would identify any individual or household is ever released.

Canada reproduces Olympics in metals

The Canada Post Office, for the first time in its history, will offer for sale precious-metal reproductions of the three Olympic Action stamps issued April 17, 1974.

The three stamps will be reproduced in pure silver (1 1/2 Troy ounces of .999 fine silver), burnished bronze (1 1/2 ounces) and fine gold (2 1/2 Troy ounces of 24 karat gold). Each set is serially numbered, hallmarked and inscribed with the quality of precious metal it contains.

Cost of the bronze set is $20, the silver set, $50 and the gold, $750. Mixed sets containing one bronze, one silver and one gold stamp sculpture are $300 each. The sets will be available through Aug. 7 only. Customers ordering the silver or mixed sets must indicate whether they prefer a polished or antiqued finish.

Purchasers should send their remittance (by international bank draft, in Canadian funds, payable to the Receiver General for Canada) to Metal Stamp Sculptures, Canada Post Office, P.O. Box 8890, Ottawa, Ont., Canada K1G 3J2.

Funds will be used to finance the 1976 Summer Olympics in Canada and to provide financial support for amateur athletes and the training of Canadian athletes for these games.

THE UNITED NATIONS Postal Administration is offering a 20-by-23 1/2-inch multi-color poster illustrating many UN stamps in a circular montage around a globe, also composed of UN stamps.

The poster is available for $1.50 plus a 50-cent handling charge from Stamp Poster, United Nations Postal Administration, United Nations, N.Y. 10017.

SOME U.S. first-day cancellation statistics: the 10-cent Cross Flags stamp, 341,528; the 12-cent international surface postal card, 138,500; the 18-cent international airmail postal card, 132,114.

IRISH POSTAGE stamps in the present definitive series will, in the future, be printed on un-watermarked paper, including three this year.

Scheduled for release are a 20p stamp sometime this month, a 5p in early August and a 3 1/2p in early-October.

Stamps are available from The Controller, Philatelic Section, GPO, Dublin 1, Ireland. Send your remittance by international bank draft in Irish funds.

First day of issue services are not available on these releases.

Stamps in these denominations printed on watermarked paper will remain on sale until stocks are exhausted.

Address your questions in care of this column to Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.

Indian-head nickel has many designs

The famous Indian-head or "Buffalo" nickel is the only one of our five-cent pieces completely devoid of heraldic symbols and referred to as the "typically American design." It is also the only one of the 117 type coins issued by the United States to be entirely catalogued, bought and sold, or filed under its reverse rather than obverse device.

Two different designs were issued between 1913 and 1938. The first had the buffalo standing on a mound with the denomination in relief. This proved highly unsatisfactory due to the wear on the value, so it was redesigned in 1913 placing the buffalo on a straight line plane with the words FIVE CENTS protected against undue wear.

James E. Fraser designed this popular

Collecting coins by Mort Reed

nickel using three Indian chiefs in a composite profile for the obverse: Chief John Big Tree, a Seneca; Chief Two-Moons, a Cheyenne, and Chief Iron Tail, a Sioux.

A fourth model, Black Diamond, posed for the buffalo reverse. He was a magnificent specimen of plains bison born and raised in the New York's Central Park Zoo from 1893 to 1915.

IN UNCIRCULATED condition, this piece displays an unusual sculpture design that pretty well accounts for its tremendous popularity. But due to obvious differences between the first 1913 Type and the second 1913 Type, both are almost mandatory in a type set or consecutive series collection.

The entire 69-piece series contains only three notable mint varieties: the two-feathered Indian with a small feather tip missing at the nape of the neck (A); the 1918 over 1917 double date or overstrike; and the 1937 three-legged buffalo with the front-right leg (B) missing.

Care should be taken in buying or trading either of the two-feathered or three-legged varieties since it is possible to remove those components almost without notice.

The 18 over 17 specimen is the highest value coin in the series. The outline of the numeral "7" is plainly visible behind the overdate "8," but the complexities of this "error" makes it improbable to duplicate.

COLLECTORS SHOULD be advised that an acid process has been used in the past to revive worn dates in the search for the 18 over 17, but this is considered a form of reconditioning, unacceptable at all levels of collecting, which makes the coin valueless. Such a coin should be avoided at all costs.

Investors have several options open to them in purchasing beautiful specimens of the Type VI series from 1913 through 1938. But due to the sensitivity of this design to wear, the services of an expert consultant are highly recommended.

The natural unfinished sculptural effect may not indicate wear where it should and a circulated coin could easily pass as an uncirculated piece. The need for authentication cannot be stressed too strongly.

Reviews of both types of the 1913 Buffalo nickel and the three-legged specimen resulted in the following 20-year estimated value profiles for investors.

Prime-time ruling brings some juggling at NBC

HOLLYWOOD — NBC announced Wednesday it was dropping two programs from its fall TV schedule because of last week's court decision cutting back the number of hours the three commercial networks can use in the prime evening hours.

The two programs, MGM Enterprises' "Second Start," which stars Bob Crane and Universal TV's "Sunshine" series may be rescheduled in January, a network spokesman said.

As part of the same revision, the spokesman said the Walt Disney series has been moved from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and "The Rockford Files" starring James Garner which had been scheduled for Sundays will be switched to Friday to replace the two dropped programs.

NBC's REALIGNMENT of its fall schedule was necessitated by last Tuesday's U.S. Court of Appeals ruling in New York that cut the number of hours ABC, NBC and CBS could use between the hours of 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. CDT prime time.

The court ruling centers around a 1971 FCC access ruling limiting the three networks to no more than three hours of programming during the hours of 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Earlier this year, the FCC modified the access ruling permitting the networks to use an added hour on Sunday and a half hour on Saturday.

THE NETWORKS, acting on this ruling, made up their fall schedules with the added hours. However, a group of TV

by Frank S. Swertlow production companies that sell syndicated shows to the networks for use during those hours not used by the networks brought suit to stop the FCC ruling. They contended that the revised ruling would cause them serious harm if it went into effect.

Last week, the appeals court made its decision which in effect cancels the revised FCC plan and forces the networks to drop the added shows. NBC is the first network to announce its changes. ABC and CBS are expected to disclose their plans within the next few days.

Kemmerly Real Estate

Beginning its 14th year of service in the northwest suburbs, Kemmerly Real Estate is opening its 10th and 11th offices. They are located at 425 S. Bartlett in the Streamwood Shopping Center and at 1435 S. Roselle Rd. in the Schaumburg-Roselle area.

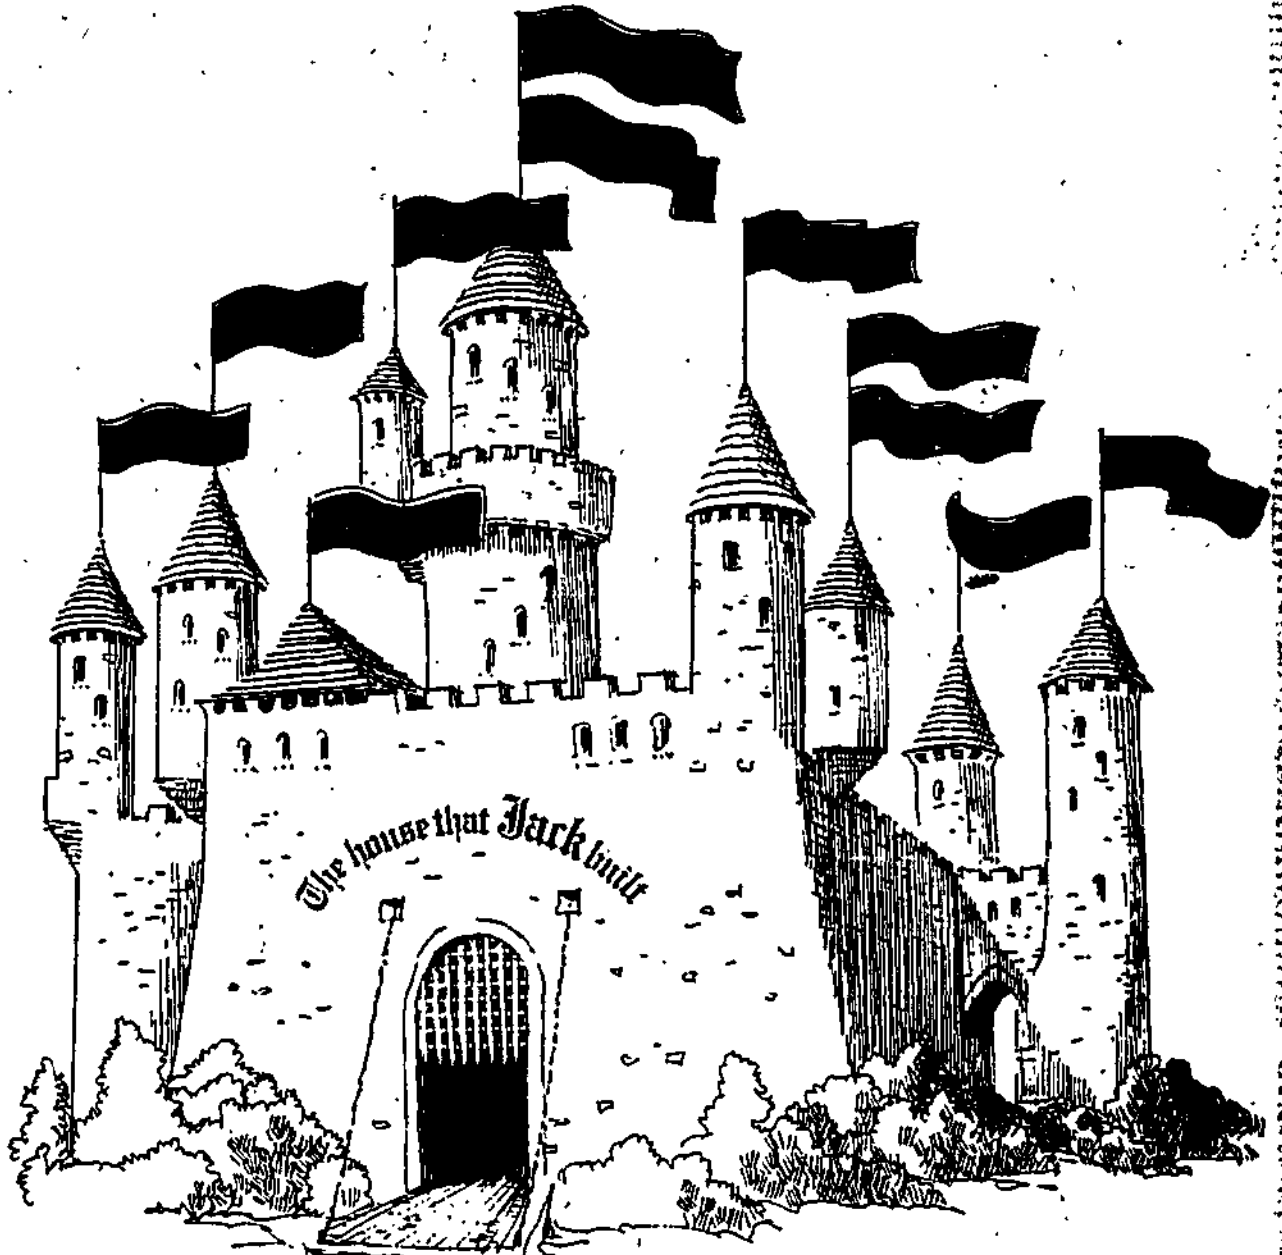

Merrill Packard will manage the Streamwood office and Fred Dutner will manage the Schaumburg-Roselle office.

Thirteen years ago May 15, Jack Kemmerly opened his first office on Northwest Highway in Palatine. Since then, "with the aid of good salesmen, satisfied customers and the MAP Multiple Listing Service," Kemmerly has averaged opening nearly an office per year in an effort to keep up with the needs of the real estate market and the fast-growing northwest community. Covering the extensive area with 11 offices provides Kemmerly Real Estate with its own multiple listing service within a multiple.

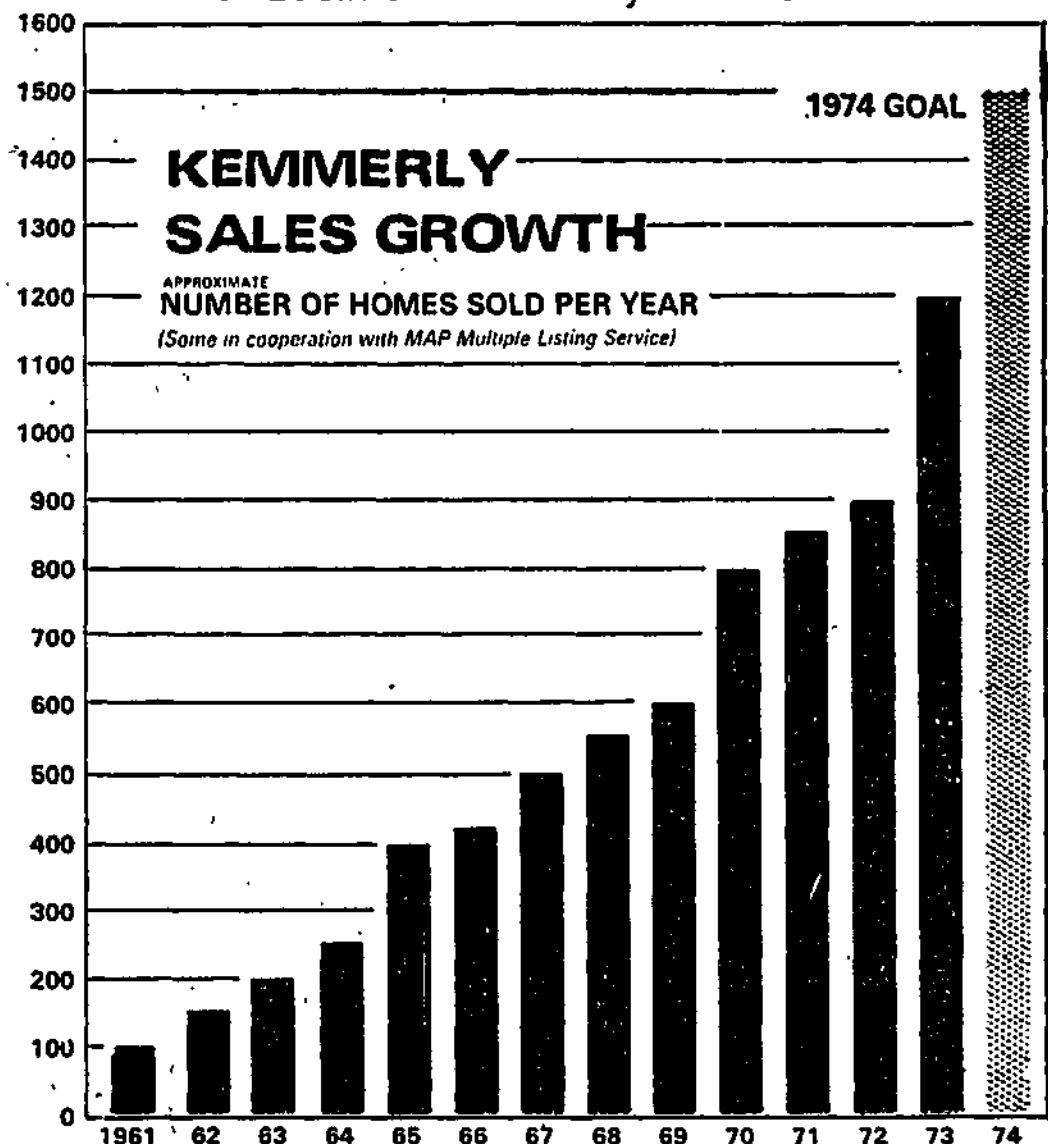

The firm has always tried to have attractive offices in good locations as a convenience and pleasure to Kemmerly customers. The more than 80 salespeople, the majority of whom are brokers, understand the customer's needs and provide the efficient and satisfying service that makes house buying a pleasure and not a burden.

Extensive advertising in local and metropolitan newspapers, the Eastern Airlines magazine, The Kansas City Star and Christian Science Monitor plus the direct mail Showcase of Fine Homes gives good exposure to Kemmerly's listings.

Perhaps because he was a former school teacher and enjoys young people, Jack Kemmerly has always supported many civic activities and children's groups, including Little League teams, bowling leagues and softball teams.

Merrill Packard
Broker

Packard, a broker-salesman at the 701 E. Golf Rd. office in Schaumburg, will head the new Streamwood office opening July 1. The Hoffman Estates resident has been actively engaged in real estate for five years and has taught the real estate course at Conant High School for two years.

Fred Dutner
Broker

Dutner will take over the new Roselle-Schaumburg office. He is presently manager of the Central Arlington Heights office and has been associated with Kemmerly for nine years. He teaches the sales license course at Harper College and has also taught real estate courses in Dist. 211 and Dist. 214.

Modene Agency ranks second

The David J. Modene Agency, 500 W. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, ranked second in overall insurance sales among 78 Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) agencies throughout the United States for the month of May, according to the AAL home office in Appleton, Wis.

AAL is a fraternal life and health insurance society. It has more than one million members throughout the U.S. and ordinary life insurance in force exceeds $6.5 billion.

Modene, who recently became an AAL general agent, began his AAL career as a district representative in 1968, serving Lutherans and their families in the Rochester, Minn., area. A graduate of the University of Minnesota, he consistently qualified for numerous AAL awards. He had been an officer of the Rochester Association of Life Underwriters before assuming his general agent responsibilities in the Chicago area, and is now a member of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters.

Modene and his wife Judith have two sons, David and Jonathan. They are members of Christ Lutheran Church, Palatine.

Westfield reports sales of Colonial Square units

ACCORDING TO Westfield Associates, the developers, more than 60 per cent of the condominiums have been sold at Colonial Square, a development near Volz Park in Arlington Heights. The three colonial square buildings are named for the Virginia mansions of early American presidents — the Mount Vernon, the Monticello and the Montpelier.

Baird & Warner announces May sales in pace with '73

Baird & Warner, Inc. has reported that sales in May were running about neck-and-neck with year-ago results.

Dollar volume for the month was $23,808,184, a slight decrease from the $25,211,198 last year, but more than enough to push the company across the $100 million mark for the year at $110,135,645.

The dollar flow for the company's sales division was generated by 414 sales participations in May, compared with 419 a year ago.

Sales production remained fairly steady for both the residential and the commercial/industrial sales divisions.

Robert G. Walters, vice president and general sales manager, residential division, reported 374 sales and a dollar volume of $20,909,610 for the month versus 376 participations and $19,675,632 last year.

Total sales for the company for the five months ending May 31 amounted to 1,888 units and a dollar volume of $110,135,645 compared to 1,903 sales and $111,620,160 last year.

Paced by Barrington, with $1,654,567, seven of the company's 29 branch offices surpassed $1 million in sales in May. The others are Lake Forest, Winnetka, Arlington Heights, Downers Grove, Glen Ellyn and Geneva.

More than 60 per cent of the condominiums have been sold at Colonial Square, 910 W. James St., in Arlington Heights. Westfield Associates, the developers, report that 80 per cent of the purchasers are either present or former residents of Arlington Heights.

The condominiums are located across from Volz Park. Over 25 per cent of the condominium purchasers regularly walk to the train and commute to jobs in the Chicago Loop.

The three Colonial Square buildings are named for the Virginia mansions of early American presidents. The Monticello, the Mount Vernon and the Montpelier are two-story, antique brick and masonry with the colonial theme expressed through shutters, pillars and cupolas.

Five floor plans are offered, and all have two bedrooms. Since the buildings were constructed about nine years ago, they include features which are uncommon in many homes built more recently. For example, the units contain from 1,000 to 1,200 square feet of living space, all units have ten windows for outstanding natural light and cross ventilation, and every kitchen has two windows and a private back door. In addition, all interior doors and trim are natural oak, all units has gas hot water heat and each condominium has wood double-hunt windows with attached combination storm windows and screens.

Prices range from $33,900 to $35,900 and include wall-to-wall carpeting, kitchen flooring, frost-proof refrigerator-freezer, gas range with continuous clean oven and air conditioning. Mortgage financing is currently available with 20 per cent down. Models are open seven days a week from noon until 8 p.m.

One-story building sold in Elk Grove

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates announces the sale of the one-story 17,110 sq. ft. building located at 1000 Nicholas Blvd., Elk Grove Village, to Mine Safety Appliances, Inc. The reported sales price is $265,000.

Mine Safety Appliances has been a long time resident of Elk Grove Village and the purchase of this building represents an expansion of nearly double their present facility.

Sole brokers in the sale transaction were James H. Dana and Vernon F. Schultz of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates. Attorney for the seller was Howard Walker of Curtis, Marks & Katz and Charles L. Albright Jr. for Mine Safety Appliances, Inc.

Construction now underway on Phase II of development

Construction has started on Phase II at Lake Barrington Shores, the 510-acre adult-oriented recreation community in Lake Barrington. The new phase will comprise 104 residential units both of Country Homes and Manor Houses.

According to the developers, Lake Barrington Associates, Phase I has been 75 per cent sold, accounting for over $5 million in sales since seven furnished models opened last October. Initial occupancy is scheduled for fall.

The new phase will be comprised of the same models built in Phase I. The Phase II homes will be located just south of the first phase, along the eastern edge of the lake.

The Country Homes at Lake Barrington Shores have two or three bedrooms, and only two homes per structure. All have full dining rooms, basements, many of them opening to outside patios, and attached garages.

The Cragmore model, a two-bedroom, two and one-half bath; townhome provides comforts of a single-family home, but requires less maintenance.

The Dennison, a three-bedroom, two and one-half bath home, appeals to people who like more traditional styling. The Fenimore is the largest townhome with three bedrooms and a library. It has a fireplace in the master bedroom suite.

The Gardner model features a cathedral ceiling and balcony overlooking the living room. This three-bedroom, two and one-half bath home has the master suite located on the first floor.

The Manor Houses are one or two-bedroom homes in two-story buildings with four units per structure. The two lower level houses are single-level while the upper homes have second-story lofts, reached via spiral or conventional staircases.

The Country Homes are priced from $79,900, while the Manor Houses are priced from $55,900.

A 35-acre private forest preserve is maintained on the Lake Barrington Shores property and adjoins many of the homes.

Membership in the Lake Barrington Shores Recreation Center is automatic for all residents. When completed, its facilities will include one or more swimming pools, tennis courts, arts and crafts rooms, lounge, whirlpool, snack bar, men's and women's lockers and a large community meeting room.

There will also be a private 18-hole golf course. The original Bartlett home on the property will be renovated and redesigned for the clubhouse. Membership will be optional.

Another feature is the manned gate house at the Route 59 entrance to the community with 24-hour security for all residents. Also, a shopping court is being planned at the north end of the property for the convenience of residents.

Over 50 per cent of the homes have been sold to present residents of the Barrington area, with the balance from other northwest suburbs and the North Shore plus a few from out-of-state. The average age of the buyers is 45 years old, and only 18 school-age children will be living in the development to date.

Lake Barrington Associates, the developers, is a partnership of James Building Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of James Investment Corp., and Amoco Realty Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Lake Barrington Shores is located on Route 59 at Miller Road, four miles north of the town of Barrington, and ten miles from the Barrington Road exit of the Northwest Tollway (I-90). Furnished models and the sales information center are open weekdays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. and on Sundays from noon till 6 p.m.

THE GARDNER (right) and the Fenimore (left) are two of the model homes featured at Lake Barrington Shores. More of the two models will be built during construction phase II, which is already underway. The townhome structure contains two homes per building. The Gardner has three bedrooms and a balcony which overlooks the two-story living room. The Fenimore has three bedrooms and a library with a fireplace.

Rubloff negotiates Schaumburg lease

Over $500,000 in recent real estate transactions was announced this week by Arthur Rubloff & Co.'s Industrial Division.

Among the transactions was the leasing of nearly 7,000 square feet to A. W. Industries in Schaumburg's recently completed office and distribution center located at 1230-32 Remington Rd. William Lederer of the Rubloff organization was sole broker. The lessor was Lederer Realty Co. A. W. Industries will use the northwest suburban facility for office, warehousing and light manufacturing. Term rental was approximately $35,000.

Dunbar Lakes gets award for energy-saving standards

The Dunbar Lakes condominium development in Schaumburg recently was presented the Northern Illinois Gas Company's Energy Conservation Award for voluntarily displaying high standards of energy conservation construction.

The award was presented for Dunbar's "use of energy conservation as a standard construction practice, including use of storm windows and doors a minimum of three inches of wall insulation and six inches of ceiling insulation." In ceremonies officiated by NI-Gas home building representative and Dunbar Lakes sales manager Vincent Carullo.

In addition to storm windows and doors, other features offered as standard include fully air conditioned units; wall-to-wall carpeting, attached garages and fully appliance kitchens with continuous cleaning ovens, frost-free refrigerator-freezers and pre-wiring for television and telephone installation. Many have full basements and family rooms.

Recreational facilities include swimming pool, tennis courts, play fields and three man-made lakes for sailing in the summer and skating in the winter.

Because of the sales, Phase three development at Dunbar Lakes, consisting of 20 villas and 48 townhomes, has been opened for fall occupancy. There are three model villas, all two-bedroom, starting at $28,900 and six townhome models, starting at $36,900, each including full basement.

When completed in 1978, the 5-acre Dunbar Lakes development, located at Schaumburg and Plum Grove Road in Schaumburg, will have 1,716 two and three, bedroom townhomes and four-plexes.

Why not panel a room?

Wondering what to do this weekend? You could panel a room.

That's about the time it takes for a competent do-it-yourselfer to panel the walls in an average-size room.

The fact that installation is a simple task is one of the reasons for wall paneling's popularity as a home improvement project. Availability of prefabricated vinyl veneer panels — which take hard use and little care — in a variety of eye-appealing wood grain designs is another.

For successful paneling application, manufacturer's directions must be carefully followed. Here are some suggestions:

Make sure walls are "true" and that all rough spots are sanded down before applying panels directly to dry lath or plaster walls. When applying panels to stud walls, spaces greater than 16 inches on center will require horizontal backing as well as backing behind panel edges. On brick, veneer, masonry or concrete walls, apply furring strips backed by polyethylene sheathing before installing panels.

To acclimate panels to room conditions, stand them horizontally around the room and let air circulate around them for 48 hours before installation.

To allow for natural expansion, butt panels lightly together, according to the manufacturer's directions. Leave at least one-quarter inch between the panels and floor; one-eighth inch between the panels and ceiling; and, on large panel expanses, leave a small space at the end of the wall. Molding is used to cover these spaces.

Either adhesive or nails may be used, but they should be the type suggested by the manufacturer or building supply dealer for panel application. Ordinary cement or fasteners will not do a good job.

Attention to manufacturer's directions and use of proper materials will help give the paneled room a professionally-finished look.

was presented for Dunbar's "use of energy conservation as a standard of construction practice" which included the highest rating wall and ceiling insulation plus the provision of storm doors and windows as standard features instead of extras.

FOREST ESTATES

A charming residential area set along gently meandering, softly lit streets in a wooded section of the Northwest suburban community of Palatine: far enough removed to escape urban congestion, but convenient enough to all that the metropolitan areas have to offer.

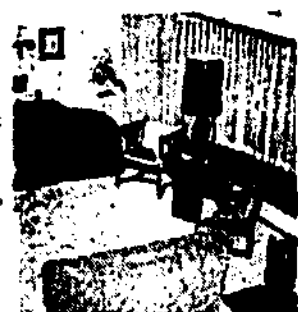

Builder's own home especially designed with spaciousness, livability and comfort in mind.

This prestige split level has many outstanding features for gracious living: 3 full baths, a curved woodburning fireplace in the family room plus wet bar. The kitchen includes a full line of appliances. There are four bedrooms in all and the master bedroom has its own private bath and balcony.

Spaciousness is enhanced by the two story beamed cathedral ceiling in the living room and dining room. The screened porch is carpeted, there is also a den and recreation room. The entire house is air-conditioned plus has plush shag carpeting over the entire home. $97,600.

Mortgage funds available in FHA and VA loans

Mortgage money is non-existent in today's marketplace, right?

"Wrong. Funds are available through FHA and VA loan programs for both construction and permanent loans."

So reports Marshall C. Dennison, president and chief executive officer of Associated Mortgage Companies, Inc., a Philadelphia-based national real estate financing and servicing organization.

"With construction costs spiraling, it makes good dollars and cents for prospective home buyers to seriously consider purchasing now with the aid of FHA and VA financing," Dennison observes.

He points out that both the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans' Administration have accelerated their application processing times. For the house shopper who wants to become a homeowner, approval currently requires only a few days rather than many weeks.

As for builders breaking ground on projects cross-country, the present stall in new construction can be alleviated by use of the FHA 7 1/2 per cent, 40-year term financing. There are still 7 1/2's available. When these run out, 8's will then be offered, Dennison adds.

HUD recently reported that expansion of the Tandem Plan is designed to provide financing for an additional 100,000 housing units beyond the 200,000 authorized in January of this year.

He notes further that today's sluggish market — both in sales and in starts — is in large part psychological.

"When people read that there is no mortgage money available, they tend to stop looking for funds."

"When builders hear that there is no interim or permanent financing to be found, they become reluctant to move into large-scale projects."

The result is a negative housing scenario that is becoming increasingly difficult to counteract," Dennison explains.

"But the fact is that despite the present money availability tightness in the conventional mortgage sector, there is money available through FHA and VA programs.

"And with today's inflationary pressures, 'buy now — build now' can mean substantial savings for homeowners and builders," Dennison concludes.

Construction firm gets energy award

Arthur J. Greene Construction Co. received the first dedicated builder award in the Palatine area for energy and water conservation.

The firm has equipped its houses with hot and cold water faucet controls estimated to save up to 7,000 gallons of water and corresponding heat energy.

The award was presented by Morgan Spangle, territory manager of Moento, manufacturer of the faucet system.

Arthur J. Greene Construction Co. is developing Hunting Ridge and Crestmoor in Palatine.

Truly fine living in a home designed and built for you.

Saleswoman rejoins Annen & Busse staff

Charmaine Anderson has recently rejoined the real estate sales staff of George

Charmaine Anderson

L. Busse & Co., 12, East Busse Ave., Mount Prospect.

She had been actively engaged in real estate sales for about seven years when she decided for personal reasons to take a leave of absence for a few years.

Since her family responsibilities have lessened, she is returning to a full time career in real estate.

A one time resident of Mount Prospect, she now resides in Arlington Heights with her husband, Bob, and daughter, Mary.

Why our rents are 20% lower.

If you could rent a brand new apartment today at 1972 prices, would you do it? You bet! With prices what they are today, a savings of more than $600 per year in rent is worth looking into. How can we offer you such a saving?

First our financing was arranged more than two years ago when interest rates were low (Would you believe 6 1/2%?)

Second our construction contracts were let 15 months ago when prices were 20% less than today.

Third we have eliminated superfluous amenities such as saunas, conversation pits and putting greens, so that you are not paying for something that you never use.

We do, however, offer everything you expect in a quality apartment community. Included in the rents below are wall-to-wall carpeting, heating, central air-conditioning, parking and membership in our private swim club. Solid, sturdy brick construction (concrete floors so you can hear your neighbor) and 22 beautiful landscaped acres to roam in.

Versailles-on-the-Lake tells results of resident profile

A resident profile of the Versailles-on-the-Lake apartments at Schaumburg tells the picture of apartment dwellers as a highly transient group of people.

Twenty per cent of the apartment residents have been there since Donald J. Scholz & Co. first opened the development at Golf and Plum Grove roads in February, 1972. Sixty per cent have lived at Versailles more than one year. The remaining 20 per cent are new residents or those just completing their first year's lease.

The community has attracted couples in the 30 to 50 year age bracket. Adult singles have moved into the one bedroom and studio apartments. These are in the 30 to 40 age bracket with a separate singles group of men and women in the over fifty age group. In almost all instances, according to Betty Felix, manager of the property for Scholz, the present residents have come from a home environment.

"They have either sold their home in our immediate area, or been transferred from out-of-town where they previously owned a home. Versailles definitely attracts the mature, sophisticated resident accustomed to the privacy of a single family home," she says.

Mrs. Felix finds that residents' employment is equally divided between Loop locations and local industry and offices. "The courtesy bus makes it possible for them to be one-car families with great mobility."

The grounds of the Versailles-on-the-Lake apartments at Schaumburg are sodded and landscaped with flowering trees and shrubs. Versailles Club, on an island surrounded by the lake and lagoons, has both formal and informal recreation rooms overlooking the sundeck and the outdoor pool.

At the present time, an $8,000,000 Phase II is being built to the west of the Phase I buildings. There will be eight additional three-story buildings on the 14 acres and tennis courts and pool. The buildings will have efficiencies, studios, one bedrooms with dens, two- and three-bedroom apartments. Pre-leasing for future occupancy can be arranged at either the Schaumburg or Oakbrook Terrace Versailles apartments. Furnished models are on display at both locations. The Oakbrook Terrace apartments are just west of Midwest Road on Butterfield in the suburb.

All Versailles-on-the-Lake apartments have carpeting and under draperies and sliding glass patio doors. All two- and three-bedroom apartments have electric fireplaces and a built-in bar, mirrored closet doors and full-wall mirrored vanities are included in most apartments. Underground parking is also available. Additional outdoor parking is provided.

All appliances (including disposal and a dishwasher in the two and three bedroom units) are included. Washer and dryer outlets are installed in the larger units. Heat, air conditioning, water and parking are included in the rent. Rents range from $200 for a Schaumburg studio apartment to $425 for an Oakbrook Terrace three bedroom.

Northwest Quinlan and Tyson reports $7 million in transactions

The Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area office of Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, set a quick sales pace for the first four months of 1974, according to Marvin W. Kamps, vice president and northwest regional manager and office sales manager.

For the 120-day period, the 14 sales representatives in the office participated in transactions with gross sales in excess of $7 million, which represents a 24 per cent increase over the same period of 1973.

Kamps also stated that gross sales of $2,190,000 in April set a one-month record for any Quinlan and Tyson northwest office.

Over the past 28 months, Quinlan and Tyson's Arlington Heights office has had gross sales in excess of $33,500,000.

Sales figures include exclusive Q&T transactions and those in cooperation with other MAP Multiple Listing brokers.

$2 million in sales topped during May

The Arlington Heights, 220 E. Northwest Highway, and Mount Prospect, 21 E. Prospect Ave., offices of Baird & Warner, Inc., have surpassed $2 million in real estate sales in a single month.

According to Robert G. Walters, vice president and general sales manager, residential division, the combined offices had total sales of $2,155,000 in May.

Selling real estate requires expertise

The real estate sales person who once upon a time tried to get along on good looks, charm and glittering generalities for a sale has gone the way of the radiator, wringer washer and single bathroom. Either the individual has gotten out of real estate or has become a more articulate spokesman for his company.

This observation comes from Alvin Kaplan, vice president of Meister-Neiberg Co., developers of condominium apartments in the Raintree Community of Glen Ellyn and Lake of the Winds in Wheeling.

"The salesman has had to become more sophisticated because the customer has become more knowledgeable about real estate," said Kaplan, who has 15 years experience in real estate sales. "Years ago, when the housing boom had just started, the salesman was dealing primarily with a first time buyer. But now, that same customer is coming back as a third or fourth time buyer."

"It isn't likely that a salesman is going to talk someone today into a $70,000 house. Instead, he must sell himself and show that he has a thorough knowledge of the building market. In this manner, he is creating confidence in his company and product."

As for handling technical questions, Kaplan said:

"Whether he's showing a house or condominium apartment, a salesman must know his product and this includes the technical side. Customers are asking about the thickness of the floors and walls and are concerned about insulation. They are very energy conscious. A salesman isn't doing much to help his credibility or the reputation of his company if he can't give the customer a direct answer."

Kaplan feels a real estate salesman and a psychologist have a lot in common:

"To sell real estate, an individual has to be able to understand the customer and detect his needs. After a while, the salesman feels he has had the people on the couch because he knows the family history. In this way, he discovers pertinent information, such as a mother-in-law will be living with them. This, in turn, will affect their housing needs."

"A salesman also soon learns that there's a big difference between selling to someone from the area and to someone who is being transferred to the area. The local resident doesn't have to be sold on the area because he knows more about it than the salesman. He's interested only in the product, whether it be a house or condominium, and that's where the selling takes place."

"In comparison, the person being transferred into the area feels lost. He has to be sold on the community and everything that goes with it. Needless to say, the product is also important to this type of buyer but it's really secondary to what the area and community have to offer."

The 97-acre Raintree Community, which includes single family homes and apartments, features a planned 300-unit complex of condominium apartments. Two of four buildings, each containing 75 apartments, have been completed and feature four models and six floor plans, ranging in price from $34,000 to $55,500.

Recreational and social facilities are offered to Raintree residents through the Bath & Racquet Club, which includes a fully-equipped clubhouse, tennis courts and swimming pool.

The Raintree Community is located between Butterfield and Roosevelt Roads in Glen Ellyn, 340 South Park Blvd., just west of Illinois St.

Lake of the Winds in Wheeling features 300 luxury condominium apartments in a four-building complex. The first of these four-story buildings will be ready for occupancy July 1.

The purchase price of a condominium, ranging from $24,850 to $41,500, includes membership in the Lake of the Winds Bath & Racquet Club. Recreational facilities include a fully-equipped clubhouse, tennis courts and an outdoor swimming pool. Several man-made lakes are also on the 20-acre site, which has been designed to conserve 60 per cent of the land as open space.

Realtor-developer group gets new member, veep

Theodore A. Wierbowski, partner, Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., has been named a member of the new realtor-developer committee of the Chicago Real Estate Board. Realtor Richard L. Blaurock, vice president, Seay & Thomas, Inc., has been elected chairman of the new realtor-developer committee.

The committee's formation and Blaurock's appointment were made during the administration of retiring CREB president Bernard Katz, and announced recently by newly-installed CREB president Leo J. Sheridan, Jr.

Wierbowski, a graduate of Loyola University, lives in Palatine and is also an active member of CREB and the Home Builders Association of Chicago.

The new committee he will serve on will actively respond to the many needs of Realtors in the Chicago area who are involved in the specialized field of development. It will keep Realtor-developers informed of new legislative actions affecting their large-scale projects and also will be involved in monitoring new requirements of governmental offices such as the Environmental Protection Agency.

Also serving as members of the committee are: Steven L. Amdur, Steven L. Amdur Realty Co., Inc.; Gene R. Beak, Arthur Rubloff & Co.; Willard A. Brown, Sr., Arthur Rubloff & Co.; Victor N. Goulet, American Invs-Co. Realty, Inc.; Alan J. Imblinder, Kenroy, Inc., Realtors; Daniel A. Langner, Urban America Property Counselors, Inc.; Mort H. Oman, Oman Associates, Inc.; Eugene Ross, Seay & Thomas, Inc.; Bernard N. Sack, Sack Realty Co.; William E. Seawall, William Seawall, Inc.; Jared B. Shales, Arthur Rubloff & Co.; C. Robert Sutherland, Palm & Sutherland, Inc.; John A. Whitney, Comsite Properties, Inc.; and Sol Zisook, Salk, Ward & Salk, Inc.

In addition to collecting and transmitting information, the committee will seek to establish liaisons with local, state and federal officials to help guide them in establishing laws that would benefit the public through workable regulation of developers. Courses, seminars and other workshops programs are also contemplated as possible functions of the committee.

Blaurock, a CREB member for nine years, said the committee will probably have an organizational meeting in the near future to establish an efficient system of distributing responsibilities among committee members. He indicated the committee is the first of its kind in the entire metropolitan area.

Increase in mortgage ceiling hurts families, says exec

A Chicago real estate official warned that confusion about the impact of raising the ceiling on mortgage interest rates to 9 1/2 per cent or repealing the Usury Law altogether may make home ownership inaccessible to vast numbers of middle-income families.

"Either through misunderstanding or manipulation, many persons have come to the conclusion that the proposed new ceiling on conventional mortgages would become a new fixed mortgage interest rate. And this simply is not true," said Robert G. Walters, vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc. and general sales manager, residential division, for the diversified real estate organization.

"People are forgetting that since the present ceiling of eight per cent on mortgage interest rates in Illinois came into existence, actual mortgage rates have ranged from four per cent to the maximum of a per cent. The rate at any particular time is determined by a variety of economic factors operating in a free market. This will still be true if the ceiling is either raised or eliminated. Interest rates will be determined by competitive factors in a free market," Walters continued.

He pointed out that extraordinary but hopefully short-lived inflationary pressures have pushed interest rates to their maximum currently, but that even the maximum rate of interest on a mortgage loan is no longer viable in Illinois. "Right now it's costing lenders, particularly the savings and loan industry, more to borrow money in the form of savings deposits or from home loan banks than they can recover at the present interest they can charge on a mortgage. They simply can't afford to make mortgage loans at eight per cent interest."

"The result," continued Walters, "is that we are starting to face another mortgage drought where Illinois lenders, to be able to make a mortgage loan at all, are requiring down payments of 30 to 40 per cent and high service charges on those loans. Many families who have been saving to buy a home and might have been able to do so with a normal 20 per cent down payment and low service charges find that they can't swing it now."

Walters noted that if the allowable rate of interest were raised it would at least make it possible for many families to obtain mortgages.

"If you look around you today you'll see that most working-class people have most of their savings in homes. All other things aside, buying a home has been an excellent investment for such families because the value of real estate appreciates steadily. If we persist in making it impossible for mortgage lenders and prospective borrowers to find a middle ground for doing business together, we are in effect denying families who want and need it the most access to home ownership."

Walters continued: "The issue is not whether raising the maximum interest rate possible on a conventional mortgage is going to price many people out of the market. This will not occur in a free market. But if you tie the lenders hands so that he's forced to jack up the down payment and service charges on the loan, you're actually blocking out people who could still be in a position to buy a home even if their monthly interest payments were raised."

"Some states have gone as high as 11 per cent and are able to issue mortgages. People who think nine per cent is too much to pay — if that is where interest rates will go — still have the right to postpone a purchase until the interest rates drop. But right now you're telling people, in effect, that even if they are willing to pay nine and one-half per cent you still can't do business with them in Illinois. You're denying them that choice to buy their own home at current prices that many can still afford. In other words, you're telling families who have preferred to invest their savings into owning a home, rather than stocks or bonds or other kinds of investments, that they no longer even have the freedom of choice."

"In the long run this will hurt a lot more working people than it will help. Where's the benefit of imposed ceiling on monthly payments for a house that you can't buy?"

Helmer gets realty award from institute

At last month's meeting of the Institute of Real Estate Management in Chicago, Nicholas J. Helmer, a vice president of

Nicholas J. Helmer

Real estate in 6 different languages offered by Annen & Busse employe

Nancy Olek, sales associate with Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors in their Palatine location, makes a habit of speaking people's native language.

As a matter of fact, she speaks six languages fluently: German, French, Italian, Portuguese, English, and her Mother tongue, Spanish.

Nancy, serving with Annen & Busse since 1972, has been called on by her fellow associates within the firm and also by associates from the other real estate firms to come to their aid in communicating with folks who speak a language foreign to most of us. She enjoys the opportunity as she thinks the most difficult thing about multi-linguistics is that one doesn't get to use the languages often, enough.

Nancy, her husband and her daughter have lived in the northwest suburban area for the past eight years. She is a graduate of San Andres University in Bolivia and spent two years as an interpreter for the International Relations Branch at the UN.

30-hour real estate course continues throughout July

An educational program to help prospective real estate salesmen qualify for state licensing examinations through classes in convenient locations throughout Illinois will continue in Arlington Heights in July.

The Illinois Association of Realtors and Real Estate Education Co. of Chicago will co-sponsor a series of classes at the Arlington Park Towers, Route 53 and Euclid Rd., Arlington Heights, starting Monday July 8, according to Richard Herb, vice president of Real Estate Education.

Herb pointed out that this 30-hour course in the basic real estate transactions has been approved by the state superintendent of public instruction and by the Department of Registration and Education. It also qualifies under the veterans educational benefits program, he said.

Under new Illinois licensing requirements that went into effect last October, candidates for real estate salesmen's licenses must have completed a state-approved 30-hour course in basic real estate transactions prior to registering to take the state exam. Completion of the course in Arlington Heights will enable students to register by the state's August 8 deadline to take the license exam in September, Herb said.

Tuition of $100 includes textbooks and other classroom materials. Classes will be conducted July 8, 9, 11, 15, 16, 18, 22, 23, 25 and 29 from 7 to 10 p.m.

MGM salutes two for top sales

Beryl Harrison and Helene Levy, a MGM Realtors' sales team, have won the firm's Salesman of the Month Award for May. The two women completed ten sales totaling $501,000, according to Robert B. Green, president of MGM.

Ms. Harrison, a resident of Des Plaines, and Mrs. Levy, who lives in Skokie, have been working as a team for eight months. Mrs. Levy, a former English teacher, has been selling real estate for over two years. Ms. Harrison who attended the University of Illinois, and is completing her second year as a real estate saleswoman.

Condos at Wilshire Green set in seven-story buildings

After a period of pre-sales from a Preview Center, furnished models have just been opened on the second floor of the seven-story building of condominiums being built by the J. H. Snyder Co. in the near western suburb of the Village of Indian Head Park.

The J. H. Snyder Co. operates as a joint venture partner of the Loews Corp. and this assemblage of homes is one of a group of Loews/Snyder Environmental Communities being constructed from coast to coast.

The furnished units include a two bedroom model, two models with two bedrooms and den and another model with three bedrooms. The models have been furnished in different and distinctive styles by Robert Minix Associates, a California decorator firm. Also available for inspection are eight additional unfurnished models.

The Wilshire Green club, condominiums, according to Elliott B. Badanes, Chicago Division Manager of the J. H. Snyder Co., will consist of four seven-story buildings, each with 104 units, in the location of the former Acacia Country Club. The buildings, which are both fire resistant and sound-control engineered, and clubhouse were designed by the Chicago architectural firm of Baranick, Conte & Associates, AIA. The land plan and preliminary landscape plan were created by Wimmer, Yamada, Iwanaga & Associates, ASLA, of San Diego, Calif. The detailed landscape plan was prepared by Wayne Mucci Associates of Chicago.

To further enhance the environmental aspect of these club condominiums, the J. H. Snyder Co. has completed a million dollar recreation complex centered about a 13,000 sq. ft. clubhouse. By way of outdoor activities, Wilshire Green presents a huge, free-form pool and two tennis courts. The clubhouse itself incorporates an indoor swimming pool with whirlpool, men's and women's saunas, an elaborately equipped co-ed exercise room, a teen lounge, a social lounge and adjoining card room, billiard room and cocktail lounge.

The club condominiums themselves range from one bedroom units priced at $34,900 to three bedroom units priced up to $59,900, and their areas range from 842 sq. ft. to 1,537 sq. ft.

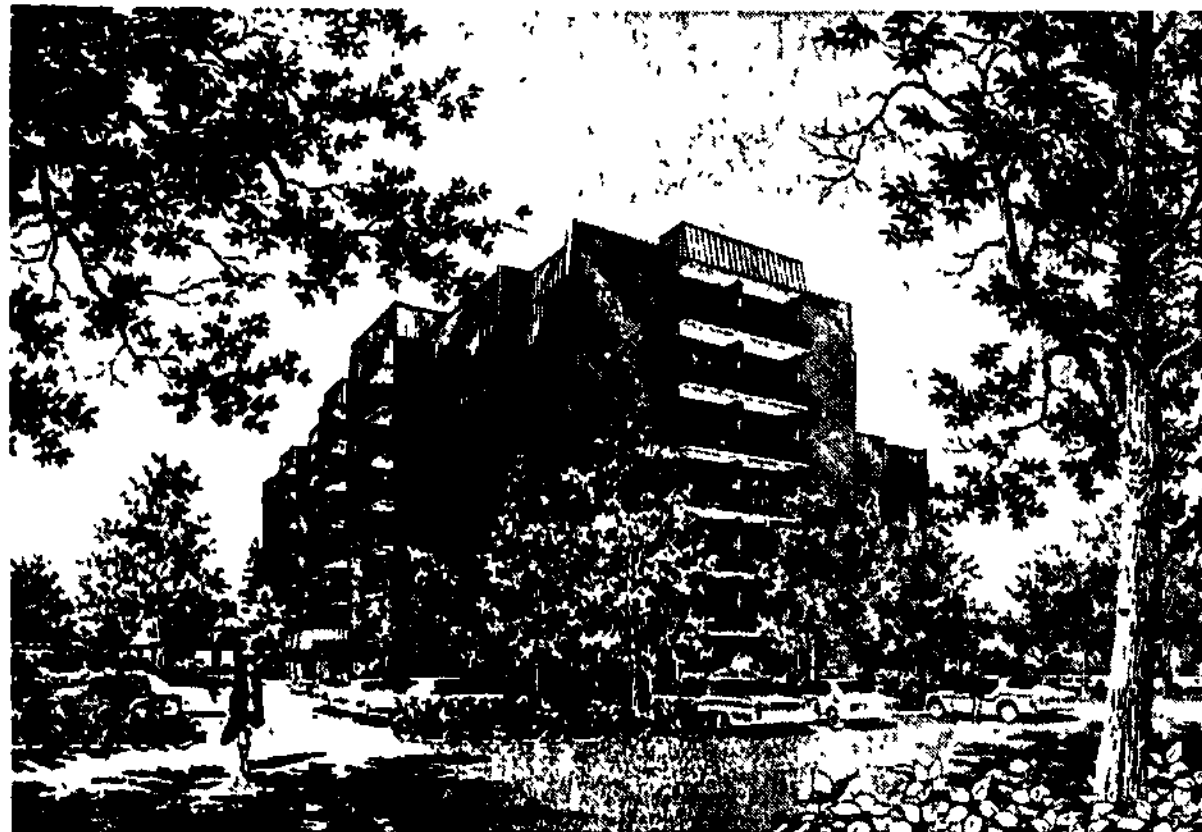

All but the one bedroom units include two full baths, one with a five ft. stall shower, and one with a tub and shower. Eat-in kitchens are featured in every unit. Each unit contains its own laundry facilities, and is supplied with a complete General Electric appliance package including a washer, dryer, side-by-side refrigerator-freezer, dishwasher and garbage disposer.

Wilshire Green includes one indoor parking space in the prices of the condominiums. Ample additional outdoor parking is provided.

Other features of these condominiums include thermopane floor to ceiling windows and a full balcony or terrace for each unit. They also offer oak wood cabinets, full carpeting, cultured marble vanities in all baths, individually controlled heating and cooling, and a telephone activated security system.

Wilshire Green is located in the Hinsdale-LaGrange area at the intersection of Wolf and Joliet Roads in Indian Head Park.

FURNISHED MODELS of two-bedroom, two-bedroom and a den and three-bedroom condominiums have opened at Wilshire Green, located at the intersection of Wolf and Joliet Roads in Indian Head Park near West-

Premier presentation of course for realtors to be held at Marriott

The premiere presentation of NIREB's sales 1 course, flagship of the new NIREB sales series, will take place in Chicago at the Marriott Motor Hotel, July 1 and 2.

Sales 1, called "The Power of Personal Awareness," reaches out to study the core of human behavior as it relates to salesmanship by providing insight to develop the potential of the professional salesperson. Coordinated lecture, discussion, reading and class participation emphasize not only an understanding of behavior theory, but the ability to apply these principles to the real buyers and sellers who confront the salesperson when he returns to the office.

Open to all Realtors and Realtor-Associates, as well as other interested parties, successful completion of Sales 1 will be credited toward an eventual NIREB designation in the area of Professional Salesmanship. The tuition is $60 for NIREB members, $75 for Realtors and Realtor-Associates, and $100 for others. Registration for Sales 1 may be made through NIREB's Department of Logistics, 155 E. Superior St., Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Announce tradesman of month

Dave Harding of Chicago has been selected May "Tradesman of the Month" by Realty Co. of America, Inc. This award is given each month to an employee of one of REALCOA'S suppliers or subcontractors.

Harding specializes in excavating and is employed by Raja Excavating, Plainfield.

Harding will receive a multi-band, duo-power radio, and Raja Excavating will receive a plaque commemorating the citation.

REALCOA initiated the "Tradesman of the Month" Award four years ago as a means of promoting and honoring craftsmanship, efficiency and cooperation among the tradesmen working on its projects. Each month a new "Tradesman" is selected, and the twelve monthly winners become eligible for a major annual award given at a banquet attended by representatives of unions, municipal officials, members of the press and REALCOA officials.

Annen & Busse salutes four for May sales

Annen & Busse, Inc. Realtors named their top sales associates for the month of May from each of their four locations at a recent sales meeting.

Alan Macdonald, working Arlington Heights office; Muriel Hogarty, Mount Prospect office; Earl Maize, Schaumburg office, and Don Jeschke, Palatine office, were honored.

Participating through the MAP Multiple Listing Service, Annen & Busse topped $3½ million in real estate sales transactions during the May period.

Annen & Busse are charter members of the MAP Multiple Listing Service, as well as members of the Homes for Living Network, a national multi-list organization having representatives in all 50 states and Puerto Rico, serving the buying and selling needs of transferring families across the nation.

Dymond & Anderson adds to sales staff

Marcia Troch has recently joined the staff of Dymond & Anderson Realty & Construction Co., Realtors in Mount Prospect, as an associate broker.

Marcia Troch

This announcement was made Monday by Mr. Donald J. Dymond, a broker partner of the Mount Prospect firm.

Mrs. Troch has been active in the M.A.P. multiple listing area prior to joining Dymond & Anderson Realty & Construction Co. She is a former school teacher in District 25, and past president of the Ivy Hill Civic Association. Mrs. Troch has been a resident of the area for the past nine years.

She currently resides with her husband and daughter in Arlington Heights.

Gould's electronics lab opens in Rolling Meadows on Golf

Opening of the Gould Electrical and Electronic Laboratory in Rolling Meadows has been announced by Dr. Robert Carnahan, director of Electrical and Electronic Research, Gould, Inc.

The new facility is located on the 40-acre site of the company's international headquarters currently under construction. Called Gould Center, it is on Golf Road, approximately one-quarter mile east of Highway 53.

The three-story, 60,000-square foot building is the first in the projected complex to be completed. A 10-story tower with 300,000 square feet of offices is under construction. Athletic and recreational facilities, smaller buildings, a lake and park will complete the campus-like complex.

Gould initially will occupy 30 per cent of the office tower; the remaining space will be available for lease and will offer dining rooms, an auditorium and meeting rooms.

The Electrical and Electronic Lab is expected to employ 60 people by next year. Currently reporting to Dr. Carnahan are Dr. David Klewit, manager, sensors and devices; Dr. L. Paul Dague, manager, electronics and controls; and Dr. Thomas C. Tisone, manager, physical electronics.

Gould Inc. is a broad-based developer and manufacturer of electrical, electronic and industrial products. Current annual sales exceed $700 million.

NOW! ..... EXCLUSIVE NHIS Guaranteed Home Protection Plan...Helps Buyers and Sellers!

How the NHIS Guaranteed Home Protects You!

An NHIS Guaranteed Home is a resale home which has been inspected and warranted by National Home Inspection Service, Inc. Since its founding in 1968 NHIS has inspected over 10,000 homes and is acknowledged to be the country's foremost independent home inspection service.

The NHIS Inspection Warranty includes: 1. The CENTRAL HEATING SYSTEM and its components 2. The CENTRAL COOLING SYSTEM and its components 3. The PLUMBING SYSTEM and its components 4. The ELECTRICAL SYSTEM and its components 5. The STRUCTURAL SOUNDNESS OF THE ROOF 6. The structural soundness of the EXTERIOR AND INTERIOR WALLS, CEILINGS AND FLOORS 7. The structural soundness of the FOUNDATION 8. The structural soundness and the absence of chronic water penetration of the BASEMENT

Should NHIS fail to detect any defect in these major structural mechanical and electrical elements of the house, NHIS will be able to the home owner for payments up to $25,000.00. Undetected defects, which cost in excess of $100.00 to repair or replace, discovered within either eighteen months of the inspection date or twelve months of the closing of the sale of the home will be covered by the NHIS Inspection Warranty.

Who Makes NHIS Inspections?

Extreme care is exercised by NHIS to secure highly qualified professional inspectors. All NHIS inspectors are carefully screened and selected on the basis of their educational and professional experience. Each inspector is fully trained by NHIS to perform inspections employing proven detection and evaluation techniques pioneered and perfected by NHIS. Inspectors are continually updated on the latest developments in the home construction maintenance field by the NHIS technical training staff.

What is included in the NHIS Report?

Each customer is presented with the copyrighted NHIS CONFIDENTIAL INSPECTION REPORT which includes: • The NHIS Inspection Warranty • A Thorough Evaluation of the major elements of the home • A Certificate of Termination • Exclusive NHIS Homeowner's Information Guide which contains invaluable information on preventive maintenance, cutting heating and cooling costs, fire prevention, home security and other related items.

Benefits to the Home Seller

The NHIS inspected and warranted home is more attractive to the prospective buyer. In addition, the NHIS Guaranteed Home Protection Plan provides important protection for the seller against any low bid brought by a disgruntled buyer since the prospective buyer is appraised of the true condition of the property before the sale. Since the Warranty is effective as of the inspection date, it also protects the home seller against major repair expenses during the interim between the inspection date and the actual date of closing.

Benefits to the Home Buyer

The NHIS Guaranteed Home Protection Plan provides peace of mind for the home buyer by revealing the exact condition of the home to be purchased and by assuring that the home buyer will not incur any major unforeseen expenses for repairs for a period of one year after title is assumed from the previous owners.

Exercise

Physical activity, as every mother knows, is a baby's game. But her role in it need not be limited to chasing after and picking up. Mother-child exercises can be immensely rewarding for both participants.

THE MORE AN infant uses his muscles, the more coordination he'll have, enabling him to channel his strength rather than flailing about.

LYING ON mother's legs and being raised in the air encourages development of arm, leg, back and stomach muscles.

SHARED EXERCISE is not only healthful, it's fun. A baby can sense involvement and affection.

Plush playpen can serve all ages

by JEANNE SCHREIBER

Haven't you always wanted a red velvet playpen?

Sure, you have — and what's more, you can have one. In the time it takes to sew it up and stuff it with foam.

Stitched-and-stuffed furniture is fast replacing ottie castoffs in the plush pads of the swinging singles. And even more settled types are stitching-and-stuffing chairs, sofas and even playpens for summer cottages and teenage rooms.

If you're considering a stuffed-furniture project, don't start till you read these hints from sewing experts at DuPont. In addition to sewing information, they've even prepared a cost breakdown, so you'll know how much your red playpen will set you back. Once you follow the steps you may want to buy less expensive materials to sew.

Basically, the playpen is made of a standard single or double bed mattress, slipcovered and fenced in by a fat stuffed ring.

PATTERNS FOR THIS furniture call for muslin for a lining, fabric for the outer covering, and shredded polyurethane foam to stuff the ring. Since this is a major investment, if you buy a mattress, both in money and in sewing time, you will want to select ingredients which will produce good results, and maintain a brand-new appearance for a long time.

For the outer covering, a luxurious knit velour of Qiana nylon guarantees satisfaction — it's machine washable and dryable, holds its shape, wears like iron and performs like the miracle fabric it is.

The pattern calls for simply stitching up the muslin liner and stuffing it with foam. The experts recommend stay-stitching each piece of the muslin liner to a matching piece of quilted Dacron fiberfill, to give the raft a more tailored look and help keep the foam from shifting position. The shredded foam by itself tends to give a lumpy effect. STAY-STITCH IN contrasting thread, about three-quarters of an inch in from the edge and make all markings on the face of the lining fabric.

The Qiana covering is closed with Velcro strips and is easily removed for laundering.

Following is the cost breakdown for a single-mattress playpen. Note that the highest cost is for the fashion fabric; a less expensive material such as denim may be substituted; other choices are: fake fur, suede cloth, corduroy or canvas.

SEW UP A TOTAL environment by making a playpen for a baby, bed-lounge for teens or a conversation pit for the grown-ups in your family.

COST BREAKDOWN (PRICES ARE APPROXIMATE)

Dacron polyester and cotton liner	45-inch wide, $2.50	14 yards	$35
Dacron fiberfill II	90-inch wide $5 for 3 yard bag	7 yards (3 bags)	15
Quilting type by Stearns & Foster	89 cents, one-pound bag	70 bags	62.30
Polyurethane foam	46 inches wide, 1-inch wide, $2.25	19 yards 9 1/4 yards	123.50 20.82
Knit velour of Qiana nylon Velcro
TOTAL			$258.62

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Your retirement home

Make it comfortable and maintenance free

by DOROTHEA BROOKS

Age 55 for most of us is still far from retirement, but it's a time when planning for that big day should be well under way — financial planning, preparing for productive use of time and deciding where and how to live.

Almost 40 million people in this country today are 55 or older. Within the next decade, this figure will rise about 7.5 per cent to 47 million.

Salvatore Balsamo, Chicago architect who has designed retirement communities nationwide, believes a house for mature couples "should be well equipped to carry its owners through comfortable, maintenance-free retirement years when the emphasis should be on relaxation and new interests — not ownership aggravations."

Balsamo offers the following checklist for people interested in investing in a house to carry them through their retirement years:

- Location. Is the community where you plan to settle convenient to public transportation, churches, shopping centers and medical facilities? Is it within easy commuting distance of friends and relatives? Many retirees move a great distance away from their familiar environment, only to return with a major case of homesickness.

- Neighbors. Do they share similar interests? Are they within the same age group and likely to become good friends? Although most retirees do not wish to be isolated from the younger generation, a community of peers located near mixed age communities may be most satisfactory.

- Social-recreational programs. Does the community provide for social and recreational events, organized or otherwise? Are there facilities to match your interests?

- Outdoor maintenance. Does the community handle landscaping, snow shoveling, lawn mowing, etc? Many people are buying condominiums, which insure this amenity maintenance package. If not, are the house and grounds planned for easy upkeep?

- Outdoor safety. Are sidewalks well-illuminated at night? Are ramps, in lieu of stairs, used wherever possible?

- Security. Does the community provide adequate patrols by local police or private guards? Is there a local telephone "hotline?"

In the house itself, Balsamo suggests certain safety-convenience features.

First, he urges, be sure there is adequate room. You don't want more space than you need to clean and maintain, but many people discover too late the value of an extra bedroom — as a den or hobby center, a guest room.

The major traffic area should be on one floor to eliminate unnecessary stair climbing. If the house is two-story, the second floor should be primarily for times when the family comes to visit. You should be able to close it off and forget it if you want to.

An attached garage provides convenient entry during inclement weather. The door should be equipped with an electric eye or be easily lifted.

Especially helpful, Balsamo says, are building adaptations such as door latches, used instead of knobs to provide easy and convenient access. They are helpful to individuals with arthritic hands. Electrical outlets placed at convenient heights, rather than baseboard level, eliminate unnecessary bending. Bathroom accidents can be avoided by installing safety grips in bath and shower stall areas, non-slip floor covering.

As with exteriors, interior decoration should feature easy care materials and furnishings should be chosen to require minimum upkeep.

Where possible, extra wide doorways — at least 32 inches — will accommodate wheelchairs should this become necessary. Ramp entries, rather than stairs, might be considered also for the same reason. Omittting door sills will help with a wheelchair, also, and in any event will eliminate a source of falls.

"Basically," Balsamo says, "the retirement home should be as maintenance-free as possible. People enjoying the benefits of a longer life will find it even more enjoyable and productive when they've carefully planned their lifestyle in advance."

Free canning, freezing workshop set for July 2

If you are planning to can or freeze foods for the first time, or for the first time in years, the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service has planned a workshop just for you.

All persons interested in learning the correct "how to" processing methods of preserving foods, are invited to the free workshop on canning and freezing of fruits and vegetables Tuesday, July 2, from 9:30 a.m. to noon in Mount Prospect Community Center, 800 See-Gwun.

Dorothy G. Landgraf and Shirley L. McCann, University of Illinois Cooperative Extension home economists, will conduct the workshop.

The Home Extension specialists believe that because food costs continue to spiral upwards, the homemaker is faced with a real challenge to stay within her food budget. They think that out of necessity, the homemaker is now, more than ever before, willing to utilize any available economizing technique to keep meal costs within her normal range without depriving her family of flavor and nutrition.

WHETHER SHE harvests her own or purchases the food when it is in abundance, the home canner will find that canning is an economical do-it-yourself project to be proud of. Home canning is a highly rewarding experience.

Included in the extension's workshop will be information on selecting containers, the various methods of food preservation, the types of spoilage and common problems that face the home canner. Discussed will be properly storing canned foods, how to check for spoilage, tips on canning for persons on special diets, blanching, scalding, selecting vegetables and fruits for canning and/or freezing.

Using the pressure cooker in canning will also be discussed, as will the "dos and don'ts" in canning and freezing of foods.

On the subject of freezing foods, homemakers will learn what wraps to use, what to do if food is partially thawed and what steps to take should the home freezer become inoperative.

Questions concerning food preservation will be answered by the home economists.

Literature will be distributed along with a listing of booklets available to the home canner and included will be the addresses to which she may write to secure the booklets.

Seating at the Mount Prospect Community Center is limited and the home economists ask that readers call the extension office in Des Plaines at 298-5007 and leave name and the number of places they wish reserved.

A new textile on the market

Consumers can thank the energy crisis for a new knit fabric called "Natural-spun." A blend of cotton and polyester, it will help to fill the void created by shortages of manmade fibers.

Marjorie Mead, University of Illinois Extension textiles specialist, explains that the new blend consists of 60 per cent cotton and 40 per cent polyester. In other words, cotton predominates whereas polyester formerly was the "dominant" fiber in such blends.

Natural-spun makes use of the best of cotton's qualities of comfort and wear and polyester's qualities of strength and easy care.

The ratio of 60 per cent cotton to 40 per cent polyester was determined by extensive testing that covered every aspect of fabric performance. Researchers tested absorbency, air permeability, resistance to static, shrinkage, durable-press appearance, crease retention, burst strength, stretch, snagging and pilling.

Natural-spun has penetrated both the men's and women's clothing markets that are based on doubleknit fabrics.

300 congratulate pair

Three hundred guests congratulated Barbara Kay Gieffers and Ronald Bruce Olson during their wedding reception at the Villa Olivia Country Club May 25.

Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Warren Gieffers, Palatine, and Ronald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Olson, Mount Prospect, were married in St. Matthew Lutheran Church, Barrington, in a late afternoon candlelight, double ring service.

The couple met when both were employed at Harper College. Barb, a '69 graduate of Fremd High School, studied at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, and at Harper where she was employed in data processing. She is now with Bruning, Schaumburg.

Ron earned a B.S. degree from George

Williams College in Downers Grove in 1970, attended police institute training schools specializing in police community relations. He is employed as the police community relations officer at Harper.

BARBARA'S MAID of honor was Debra J. Hedges of Mount Prospect, and her matron of honor was Mrs. Gerelyn Walters, a cousin from Monmouth. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Geraldine Madej, Palatine.

The groom's brother, Larry, Longwood, Fla., was best man. Ushers were C. Timothy Bradley, Des Plaines, and Ronald Dutner, Palatine.

The couple honeymooned on the east coast of Florida for two weeks and are now making their home in Hoffman Estates.

Patricia Buck, bridegroom go on a camping honeymoon

It was a camping honeymoon for five days in northern Wisconsin for Patricia Jayne Buck and her bridegroom, Don Vernon Henriksen. Married June 1, Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd James Buck Jr., 1101 Dogwood Lane, Mount Prospect. Don is the son of the Vernon Henriksens of Woodhull, Ill.

The couple were married June 1 in St. Hilary's Episcopal Church in Prospect Heights with a luncheon reception for 60 in the Sheraton-O'Hare Inn.

The pair met four years ago at Culver Stockton College, Canton, Mo. Patricia graduated from Wheeling High School in 1969 and in 1973 from Culver where she was affiliated with Alpha Xi Delta Sorority. She is now a social worker at St. Mary's Hospital in Galesburg. Don, who became affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity is also employed in the Galesburg area and the couple are making their home in nearby Woodhull.

FOR THE NOONTIME, double ring service Patricia chose a floor-length gown of dotted swiss trimmed in white eyelet and pink grosgrain ribbon. A cathedral veil was attached to her picture hat, and she carried pink and white baby roses, daisies and mums.

Her sister, Janet, was maid of honor, and her sister, Barbara, was bridesmaid. Both wore pink and white checked gowns trimmed in pink grosgrain and carried carnations and corn flowers, in shades of pink with white baby's breath.

Jack Danskin, Gary, Ind., was best man, and ushers were the groom's brother, Brent, and Jeff Stockwell, Millbury, Mass.

Laurel Sorensen

Laurel Sorensen gets nursing scholarship

Laurel A. Sorensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sorensen of Rolling Meadows, has been awarded the annual nursing scholarship of the Rolling Meadows Nurses Club.

Laurel will be attending Marycrest College, Davenport, Iowa.

Consumer agency bill in danger

Another Senate filibuster is threatening to kill the Consumer Protection Agency bill, thanks to efforts by the National Association of Manufacturers. A similar bill met the same demise two years ago.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, would provide a consumer lobby in Washington to balance the leverage enjoyed by industry, which hires highly paid lobbyists to push its views.

But the NAM has sent letters to companies in 15 states whose senators the trade association considers crucial in successfully filibustering the bill to death in July. The letters urged that pressure be put on these senators to support Sen. Sam Ervin, D-North Carolina, in killing the bill.

The NAM in a booklet entitled "Questions & Answers for Consumers/Customers," describes itself as an organization of firms which "develop and engage in sound programs for the advancement of the economic well-being and social progress of the American people."

THE BOOKLET also declares that "protection of customers is of vital concern to industry..." But the organization has long been against the consumer protection agency and other consumer legislation, believing that changes should be made through "proper dialogue," between consumers and business, "not by government control or legislative fiat."

Other trade associations and businesses who publicly mouth sympathy for consumers but are privately strong-arming Congressmen to defeat the CPA bill include: the National Association of Food Chains, the National Association of Grocery Manufacturers, and the Ford Motor Co.

It has been reported that several supermarket chains which have developed strong pro-consumer programs would like to support the bill, but don't dare to because of the position taken by the trade associations to which they belong.

MEANWHILE, another trade association is engaging in some self-criticism, a rare event indeed in any industry. A member of the Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel (MACAP) has chastised the industry for not living up to its own guidelines for product warranties.

by Monica Wilch Perin.

"The appliance industry is not universally meeting its own 'truth-in-disclosure' guidelines in product warranties," said Dr. Elsie Fetterman, family economics specialist at the University of Connecticut.

Dr. Fetterman studied 106 appliance warranties and found that 39 per cent did not meet industry guidelines on clarity of language and 41 per cent did not adequately explain what a consumer must do in case of a warranty claim.

MACAP is sponsored by the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association and the National Retail Merchants Association.

THE APPLIANCE industry also got an unflattering report card from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which just announced results of a two-year study of major appliances. MIT found that washers, dryers, refrigerators, TVs and other appliances still have a high break-down rate and high repair costs, despite some improvements in reliability.

The study found that consumers in 1972 spent nearly one-third as much to repair their appliances as they spent on purchasing them in the first place, and they spent more than one-third the purchase price to run the products.

Along with the need for improved product reliability, the report suggested that manufacturers tighten up on warranty abuses and fraudulent repair claims.

Coolants deter spoilage

Dear Dorothy: It's been explained to me why you don't repeat many things, but sometimes you really ought to. I think a lot of people would benefit, as I have, from the tip about taking along a package of frozen refrigerant to keep dairy and meat products cold while shopping. At first I thought this was a little "out," but promptly found one of the freezer packs in a store nearby and I've found it wonderful. Now I can drive around without that gnawing fear I'm staying out too long and that certain things may spoil on me. Do run it again.

— Martha Costigan

You're persuasive, Martha. For those who don't know, poultry, fish and seafood are prime objects for spoilage; and now that we're into the warm days, these coolants are really an important aid for many of us who tend to loiter a little as we shop.

Dear Dorothy: I can't seem to get the grease off my painted doors, especially the front door, where the members of my family put their hands around the little peephole. I've tried everything. Can you help? — Mrs. C. J. Pierce

It sounds as if the stain is under the paint. Grease spots on plastered walls have to be covered with either shellac or foil before they can be painted or the stain comes through. Sometimes the same thing happens with wood.

Dear Dorothy: My fireplace andirons have a coating of rust on them. They are solid iron and appear to be in good shape. How can I remove the rust, and can I paint them later? — Mrs. Lucy Tinsley

The rust ought to come off by scrubbing with No. 3 steel wool and kerosene. After they are clean, you can apply stove blacking or paint them with the paint specially made for iron andirons.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Susan Ramsey June bride

The First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights was the scene June 1 for the wedding of Susan Lynn Ramsey and Terry Andrew Tregear. Susan, daughter of the Gordon Paul Ramseys, 1111 Francis Dr., Arlington Heights, and Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tregear, Alpena, Mich., met while attending Northern Michigan University.

A graduate of Arlington High School, Susan is a senior at Northern Illinois University studying child development and family relations. Terry has a degree in geography planning from Northern Michigan University.

For her wedding the bride wore a white silk organza gown with a high neckline and bishop sleeves and trimmed in Alencon lace and seed pearls. Her cathedral-length mantilla, also edged in Alencon, was attached to lace Camelot headpiece. She carried Amazon lilies, stephanotis and ivy.

MATRON OF honor was Mrs. Linda Biggott, Arlington Heights, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Connie Carlson, Milwaukee, sister of the groom; Julie Oberwetter, North Riverside; and Gale Redmann, Franklin Park. They wore gowns of yellow dotted voile with long full sleeves, ruffled hemlines, and white lace. Their bouquets were nosegays of yellow daisies, purple bachelor buttons and ivy.

Best man was Duane Williams, Detroit, and groomsmen were John Ramsey, brother of the bride; Larry Tregear, Marquette, Mich., brother of the groom; and Van Asunto, Milwaukee. Allen Carlson, Milwaukee, brother-in-law of the groom, was an usher and ring bearer was James Ramsey, 9, brother of the bride.

A reception was held on the Garden Terrace of the Regency Hyatt House. The couple then honeymooned for a week on Paradise Island in the Bahamas.

The couple are residing in Milwaukee this summer and will live in the Arlington Heights area beginning next fall.

Loves go honeymooning

A two-week honeymoon at the Playboy Club and the Abbey in Wisconsin was included in the wedding plans of Marlene Denise Chapman and Kenneth Richard Love.

Married June 1 in St. Paul Lutheran Church, Melrose Park, Marlene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman, 8 Lonsdale Road, Elk Grove Village, and Ken is the son of Mrs. Dorothea Love, Des Plaines, and William Love, Northlake.

For the 3 p.m. double ring service Marlene chose a gown of Cluny and venise lace. Her veil was elbow-length, and she carried a bouquet of red and white roses with baby's breath.

Pam Mueller, Elk Grove, was maid of honor wearing a yellow halter gown with matching jacket and yellow picture hat. Her flowers were yellow and white roses, daisies and stephanotis. Bridesmaids were Cheryl Chapman, sister of the bride; Cindy Hatch and Elaine Parr, Elk Grove; and Jeri Rasmussen, Buffalo Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Love

THEIR GOWNS WERE in apricot, styled like the maid of honor's and their flowers included apricot roses. Their picture hats were also in apricot.

Barry Anthony, a cousin from Des Plaines, was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Larry of Skokie; the groom's brother, William, Des Plaines; two cousins, Bud Tolp, Des Plaines, and Randy Tolp, Chicago; and Mark DiGrazia, Chicago.

A reception for 160 guests was held at the Navarone Steak House, Elk Grove.

The new Mrs. Love is a '73 graduate of Elk Grove High School, employed by Breaker Confections, Itasca. The groom also studied at Elk Grove High and he is with Duda Corp., Elk Grove.

Des Plaines couple married

Donna Duwe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Duwe, 1878 Campbell Ave., Des Plaines, and James Amling were married in a double ring ceremony May 19 at the First Congregational Church of Des Plaines.

Maid of honor for the 3:30 p.m. service was Jackie Duwe, sister of the bride. Gail Searfoss, Des Plaines was bridesmaid.

James, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Amling, 824 Jeannette St., Des Plaines, chose his brother, John, as his best man. Keith Self, Chicago, ushered the 100 guests to their seats.

Following a reception at the Holiday Inn of Des Plaines, the newlyweds left on a two-week honeymoon in the southeastern states.

Donna, a 1973 graduate of Maine West High School, is employed by H. Goodman & Sons, Inc., Des Plaines. James graduated from Maine West in 1971 and also attended the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Next on the agenda

DES PLAINESE HOMEMAKERS

Although it has dispensed with formal meetings during the summer months, the Des Plaines Homemaker's Unit has planned a number of summer activities.

Members will join Riverview Homemakers as guests at a luncheon at Hobbs House, Long Grove, Friday. Two picnic-type potluck dinners have been planned, the first to take place at Margaret Moebling's home in Prairie View, July 11. The second will feature bingo games for white elephant surprises at the home of Jean Sloss in Palatine on Aug. 8.

The Willing Workers 4-H Club recently held a reunion in Williamsburg, Iowa, and Des Plaines Homemaker Haline Huck was invited as a member of 48 years standing and one of the four remaining original members.

Newlyweds study in Honolulu

Beth Byrne and her bridegroom, Bruce Keswick, are both '73 graduates of the University of Illinois, Champaign, and as newlyweds they are in Hawaii completing their education.

Beth, daughter of former Mount Prospect residents Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Byrne, now of Tucson, Ariz., and a '69 graduate of Wheeling High School, is a graduate student at the University of Hawaii. She is a teaching assistant at the University High School.

Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Keswick of Hot Springs, Ark., received his masters degree from the University of Arkansas this year and in the fall expects to earn his Ph.D. from the University of Hawaii.

THE PAIR'S wedding took place May 25 in St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel at the University of Arizona, and was followed by a buffet dinner reception for 60 guests in Tucson's Territorial Club.

Beth's sisters, Geraldine Diaz-Peterson, Champaign, and Kathleen, Tucson, attended her. Lisa Keswick, 2-year-old niece of the groom from Mullett Lake, Mich., was flower girl; she was escorted by the groom's nephew, 2-year-old John Paul Schaefer of Denver, Colo.

William G. Keswick Jr., Mullett Lake, was his brother's best man and ushers were Richard A. Schaefer, the groom's brother-in-law; Mike Byrne, brother of the bride; John Meek, Bloomington; and Anton Sterba, Anaheim, Calif.

Jaycee Wives install officers

Mrs. Barbara Burkart was recently installed as president of the Des Plaines Jaycee Wives. The Jaycee Wives and Jaycees held a joint installation of officers at the O'Hare Inn.

Kathy Fabian, last year's president, presented Fire Chief Don Corey with a check for $378.88 to be used in the new paramedics program. The Jaycee Wives earned $278.88 through their garage sale last April and the remainder came from the group's treasury.

Mrs. Burkart administered the oath of office to Mrs. Linnea Cooper, vice president; Mrs. Majli Thome, secretary; and Mrs. Eileen Schur, treasurer.

Maschinski

The engagement of Linda Lee Simon to Bradley David Carlson is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Simon, 223 S. Kennelott, Arlington Heights. Linda and Bradley, son of former Mount Prospect residents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Carlson, Reedsburg, Wis., are planning a Sept. 7 wedding.

Linda is a '74 graduate of Arlington High School and is employed by Lytton's at Woodfield. She plans to attend the University of Wisconsin at Baraboo. Brad is a '71 graduate of Forest View High School. He also graduated from Northwood Institute at Midland, Mich., and is associated with his father in the Carlson Pontiac-Cadillac Agency in Reedsburg.

Deborah E. Claffy's engagement to Joseph J. Damore is announced by her father, Raymond P. Claffy, Chicago. Deborah and Joseph, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Damore, 1087 Greenridge, Buffalo Grove, are planning a July 20 wedding.

A graduate of Wheeling High School, Deborah works for Trans-America Realty, Wheeling. Her fiancé also graduated from Wheeling High and is employed by Jewel, Wheeling.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maschinski of Schaumburg announce the engagement of their daughter, Peggy, to Charles Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mueller of Arlington Heights. A late July wedding is planned.

Peggy studied at Conant High School and is employed as a medical assistant at the Irving-Itasca Clinic, Itasca. Charles is a graduate of Hersey High School and Harper College and is employed with Harper College.

Brothers, sister take part in Susan Larson's wedding

Rita Lynam
Rita Lynam of Arlington Heights and Raymond J. Bloudeau Jr. of Chicago Ridge are planning a Sept. 2 wedding in Evanston.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Lynam of Wilmington, Rita, a graduate of Goldey Beacom Junior College, Wilmington, moved to Chicago in 1970 to study at Loyola University. She is employed with KAP Graphics in Chicago.

Ray is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Bloudeau, formerly of Des Plaines, now residing in Chicago Ridge. A graduate of Notre Dame High School for Boys, he received his bachelor's degree from Loyola University of Chicago and is presently studying there for his doctorate in history of education.

When Susan Larson became the bride of Glenn Heffner June 1, her two brothers and her sister had featured roles in the five o'clock service. Her brother, James, one of the groomsmen, sang, and her brother, Russell Jr., one of the candlelighters, played both the guitar and the violin.

Sister Marta was one of the bridesmaids as were the groom's sisters, Janis and Leigh; also a future sister-in-law, Louise Mueller of Glenview; and Patricia Drenka of Chicago. Janis Kinsley, Arlington Heights, was maid of honor and the groom's brother, Donn, was best man.

Other groomsmen were Mark Van Rixel and Thomas Armesy of Milwaukee; James Owen, Madison; and Richard Mather, Brighton, Mich.

Susan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Larson, Arlington Heights, and Glenn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Heffner Jr., Barrington, were married in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights. The service was candlelight and double ring.

A dinner reception for 150 guests was held in Lancer's Restaurant, Schaumburg, after which the newlyweds honeymooned for eight days in Acapulco, Mexico.

Since June 10 the new Mr. and Mrs.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Heffner

Heffner have been residing in Palatine. Mrs. Heffner, a graduate of Arlington High School, studied at Harper College.

The groom earned a B.S. degree in business administration from Northern Michigan University in 1973. Both the bride and groom are employed at Western Electric, Rolling Meadows.

New pest guide available

The 1974 revised edition of "Housewife's Guide to Fighting Garden Pests," Bug Booklet No. 3, is just off the press. It lists the organic alternative to chemical sprays for more than 90 common garden pests, an increase of 40 over last year's bug book.

The new garden aid is easier to use than my previous offerings because you don't have to know the names of any bugs to find out how to get rid of them. To use my new guide, you simply run down the list by description until you hit upon the bug that fits the identification of whatever it is that is "bugging" your plants.

Example: 1) humped greenish caterpillar with white lines, 2) small, dark colored bugs that cause brown patches on lawns, 3) striped greenish-yellow beetles on cucumbers with black stripes, 4) bronze-yellow beetle that attacks beans, marked with 16 dots and often confused with ladybugs 5) half-inch long bug that looks like a mini-armadillo when he rolls up 6) teeny bug that makes damage looking as if it were shot

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

full of holes on cabbages. These are just a few of the pests that are currently bothering area gardeners as noted at my recent garden lecture in Arlington Heights. They are 1) cabbage looper 2) chinch bug, 3) cucumber beetle, 4) Mexican bean beetle, 5) pillbug, 6) flea beetle.

MY NEW BOOKLET tells you how to get rid of them all — simply, easily and safely, without using pesticides that affect the taste of garden vegetables and harm the soil. It also has a few remedies for pesky mammals, and for fungus, mildew, crabgrass and other annoying stuff. This booklet has been popular with Paddock readers since the publication of the first one in 1972.

Cost of the revised "Housewife's Guide" is 35 cents. To obtain your copy please send your request, plus the 35 cents and a stamped self-addressed envelope to "Bug Booklet," Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 290, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

And speaking of organic bug control, I've been looking into the product Dipel, used to control caterpillars biologically

(not a chemical pesticide). Inquiring as to whether Dipel would harm a child who may inadvertently, as children do, eat it, the Abbott Laboratory product manager said, "No." The scientists at Abbott say it doesn't taste good either. Dipel has been fed to human volunteers. It has been tested on quail, trout, bees, earthworms, and plants. Birds and praying mantis feeding on caterpillars infected with the bacteria have shown no ill effects. Lab animals given doses up to 10 per cent of their total diet have exhibited no toxic effects.

ALSO THE QUESTION of pumping additional bacteria into the soil comes up. Since an acre of land contains many tons of bacteria, the addition of half an ounce of actual spores of Dipel adds no burden to the biodegradation process I'm told.

Dipel was first discovered in a natural insect population. It works on leaf-chewing caterpillars exclusively — the unique anatomy of a caterpillar — or a highly alkaline hind gut to be specific — is the necessary fatal key.

Illinois homeowners can use it on tomato hornworms, cutworms, cabbage loopers, sod webworms, corn earworms, codling moth on apples, inchworms on trees, tent caterpillars — a very significant group of garden "spillers."

I thought I would look into Dipel for you, because of the easy availability of this product to homeowners in garden centers, nurseries, etc., this year.

One other positive note: The Abbott Laboratory people, producers of Dipel, are planning to improve their label of directions by including drawings of caterpillars for people who cannot read — and there are a lot of people who use insecticides who don't read labels — even those who can read!

More Lutherans served by Modene Agency "idea men"

Robert Hartness, Libertyville; Martin Fredrick, Palatine; Fred Hammer, Mt. Prospect; Marvin Kinney, Elk Grove; Duke Lancaster, Northbrook; John Reiter, Des Plaines; George Takaki, Chicago; Fred Thomas, Arlington Heights; George Douglas, Park Ridge; Richard Gracemill, Des Plaines; Carl Hinz, Morton Grove; Ronald Kloss, Arlington Heights; Victor Peterson, Chicago; Kenneth Schroeder, Mt. Prospect; Arthur Teschke, Prospect Hts.; David J. Modene, Palatine.

The David Modene Agency team of "idea men" representing Aid Association for Lutherans provided fraternal life insurance services for more Lutherans and their families in 1974 than ever before. It's their job to come up with practical family security ideas based on sound life and health insurance protection.

March of Dimes poster boy says his defect was asset

by MARIA GARCIA

In Neal Harrington's view, the affliction that made him the first March of Dimes poster boy had a lot to do with his becoming a self-made millionaire at age 44.

"As far as I'm concerned, I prefer to be like I am," Harrington said. "If I had to be born again, I'd be born exactly as I am. I think I have an asset."

Harrington was born with a deformed right leg — not from polio, but something close enough to polio so that doctors used him in polio research. With his leg brace, he became the first March of Dimes poster boy in 1936, when he was 6.

Doctors also told him the only way to avoid dragging around a useless leg for a lifetime was to have it amputated and replaced with an artificial one. Young Neal turned them down.

"I decided to stick with what I'd got," he said. He went on to learn how to swim, bowl and play golf.

HE ATTENDED two universities, discovered he was a flop as an insurance salesman, went to work for a shipping company and after five years quit to found his own shipping firm.

His defect was the "asset" which drove him to the top, as head of one of the South's largest steamship agencies.

Harrington and Co., started nine years ago, now handles the loading, unloading and other shipping-related business of more than 50 per cent of the passenger and cargo ships that dock at Miami's seaport. Harrington has branches in 10 other ports and represents 46 steamship companies worldwide.

The son of a toll booth co-taker on Miami's Venetian Causeway, Harrington has fond recollections of his early brush with the famous. He remembers particularly being the guest of honor at President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday party at the old Roney Plaza Hotel in Miami Beach. He also "hobbled," he said, in Orange Bowl parades with movie star Mary Pickford.

HARRINGTON KEEPS abreast of developments in polio research. Although the disease now can be prevented, Harrington says, the progress in helping those already afflicted or born with defects such as his is in the area of artificial limbs.

"Psychologically, I don't think they can do any more today than they could before," he said, adding that it still is up to the individual to conquer his own problem.

He has won the battle himself. "I have no regrets, no remorse," he said. (United Press International)

Lutheran General has Family Hour

From 8 to 9 every evening, fathers may hold, feed and help care for their new babies on the obstetrical floor of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

The new program, known as Family Hour, is intended to help develop a family feeling before mother and baby leave the hospital. The nursing staff instructs both mom and dad in the baby's care and feeding, and reassures them by answering any questions new parents may have.

"Fathers no longer are treated almost as outsiders," said Vivian O'Donnell, supervisor of obstetrical nursing at Lutheran General. "After all, they want to hold and care for their baby, too. We have had an enthusiastic response to the new program not only from new parents but from couples who have other children."

SWEEPSTAKES

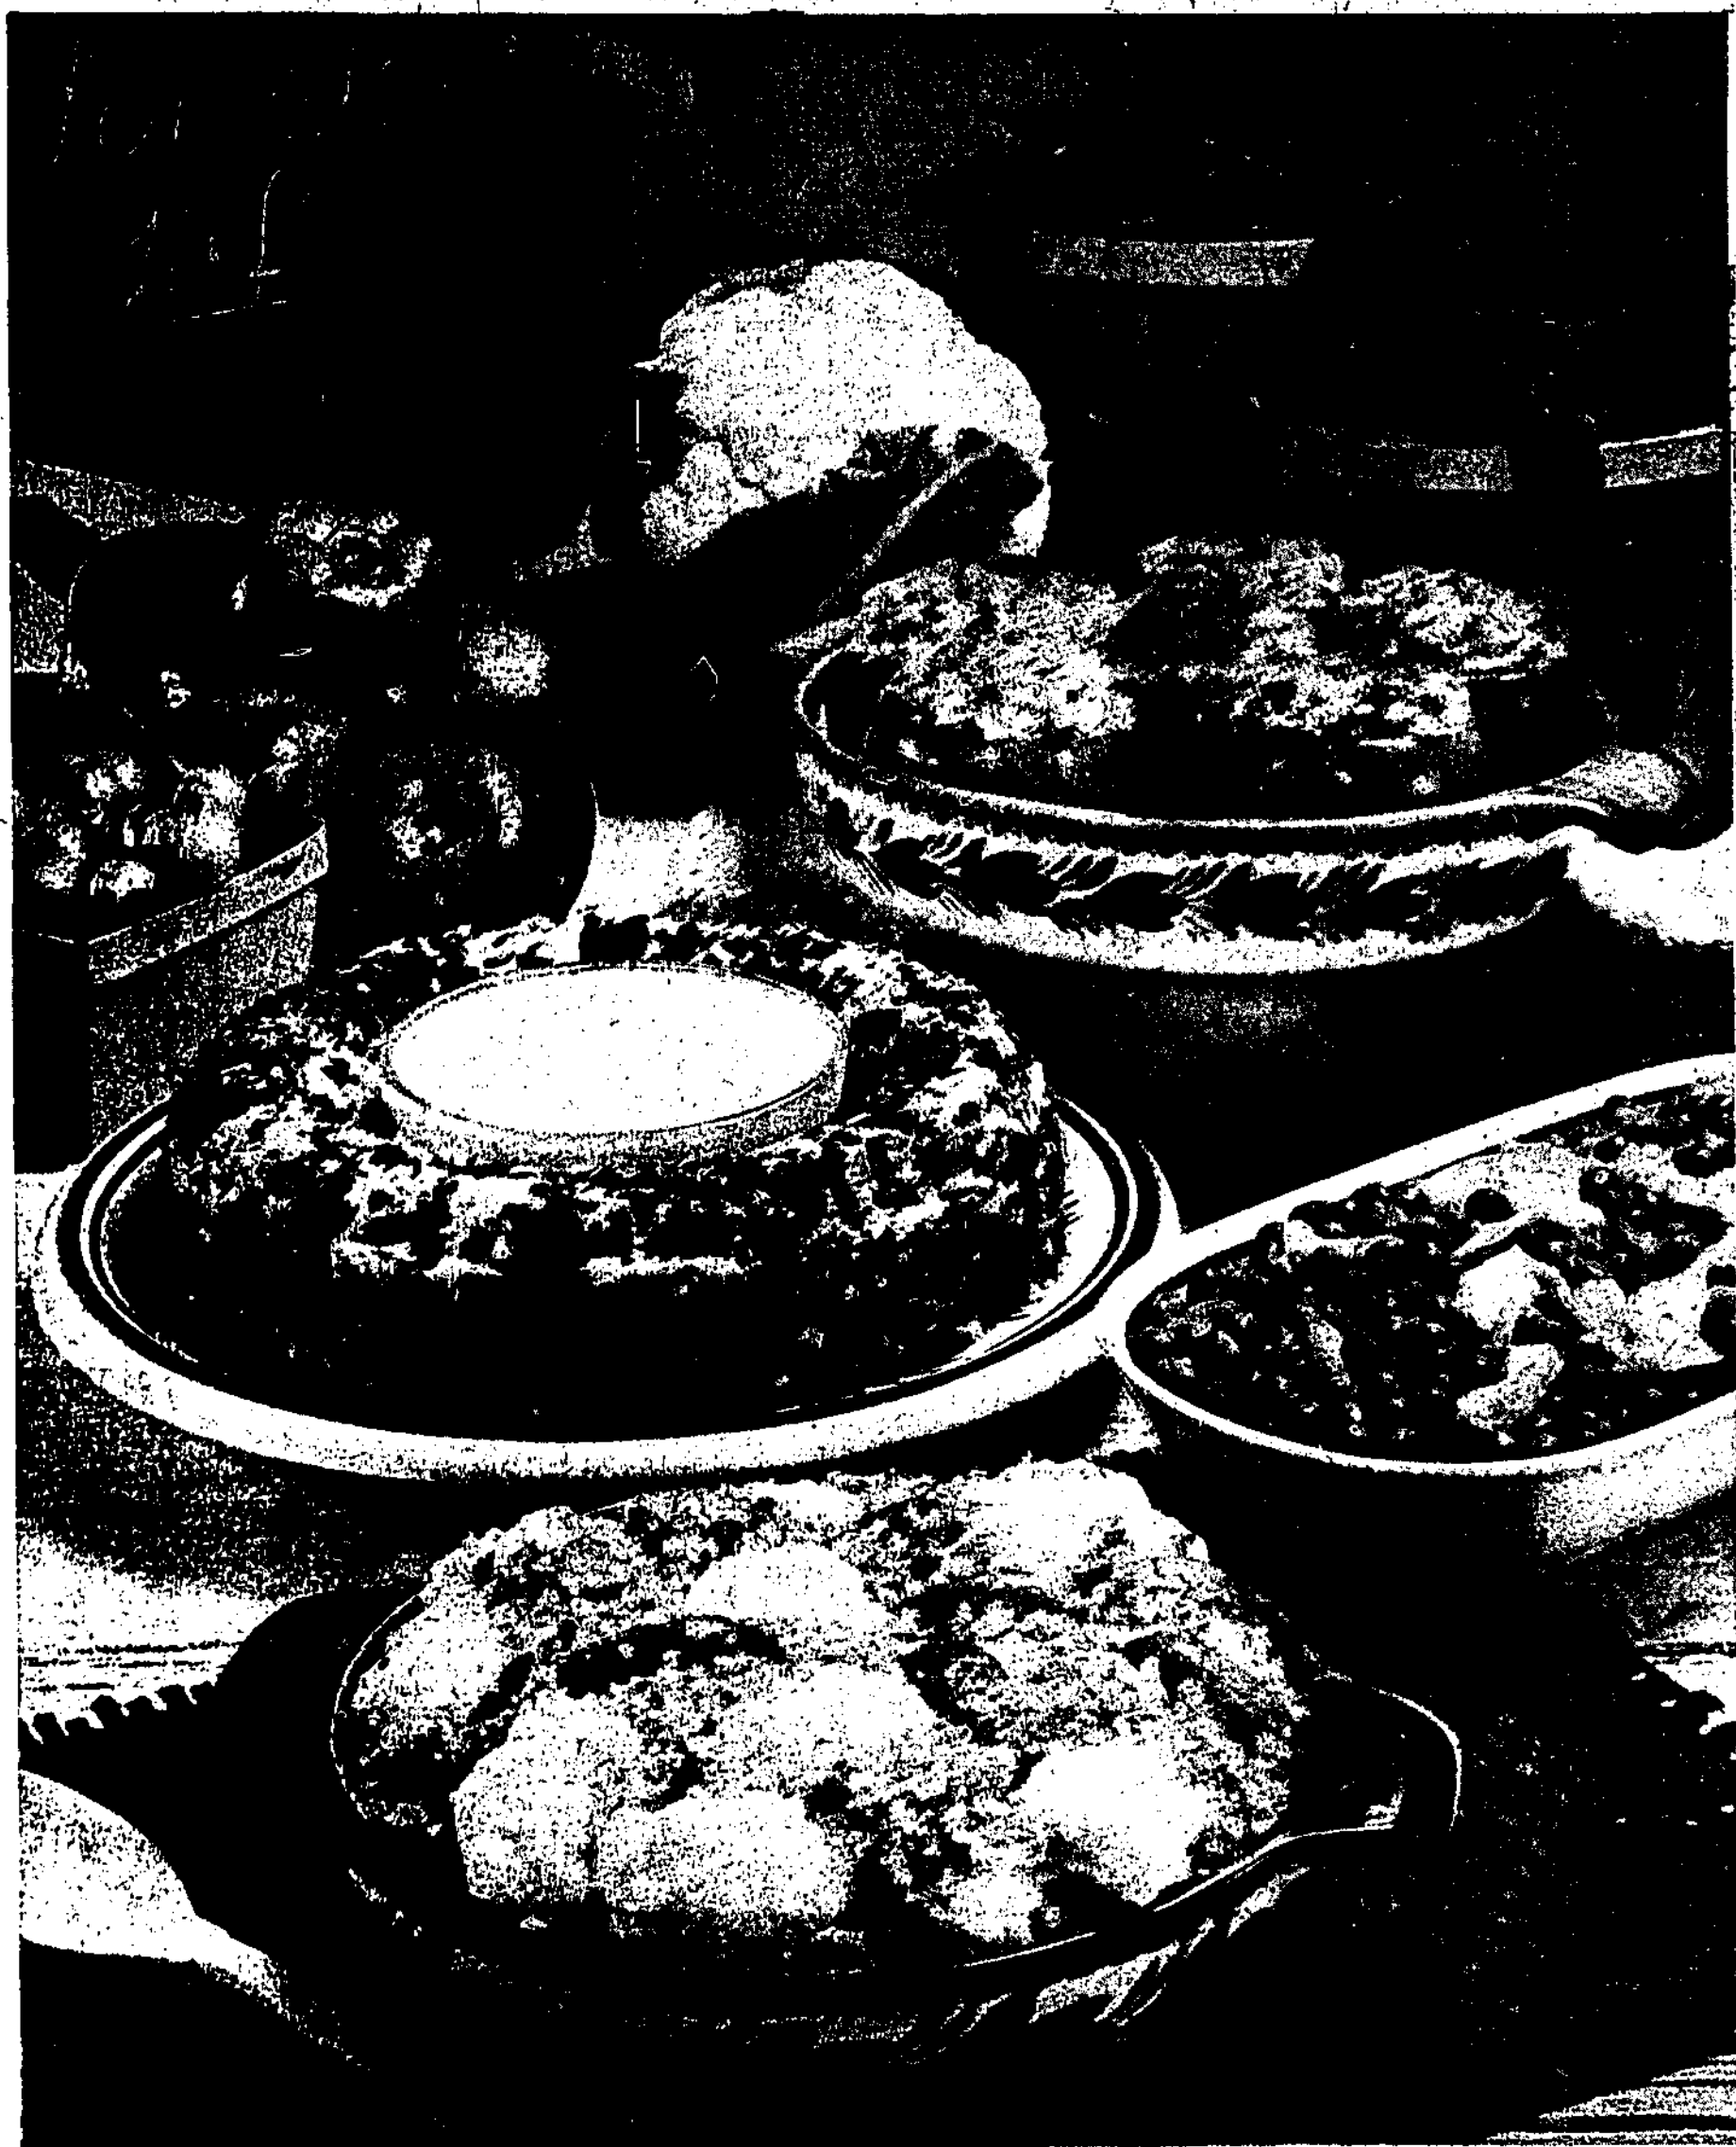

The French consider vegetables a culinary joy, as well as a nutritional necessity. Highly esteemed, vegetables are often served as a separate course after the entree, or, for a light meal, as the main course.

Unfortunately vegetables have been sorely neglected in America. Three or four common varieties dominate our meals and usually they are overcooked and unseasoned.

Being perfectionists in the kitchen, the French give vegetables the extra attention they deserve. Whenever possible they are purchased fresh in the local marketplace and cooking methods are designed to retain their full color, flavor and nutrients. Variety in preparation insures that vegetables are never a bore. Prepared with care and a little creativity, vegetables can do much to enhance even the simplest meal.

Tomatoes Provencale, a classic dish, is easy and ever so good; or combine tomatoes with cauliflower, Swiss cheese and bread crumbs for a pleasing blend of flavors. Lettuce, popular in France as a vegetable as well as in salads, is delicious braised with fresh peas and seasoned with scallions and summer savory. For special occasions, a Spinach Timbale with Cheddar Sauce will make a noteworthy addition to your table.

TEACH YOUR VEGETABLES FRENCH

TOMATOES PROVENCALE

- 6 large firm tomatoes
- Salt
- ¾ cup freshly-made fine bread crumbs
- 3 tablespoons softened margarine
- 3 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 clove garlic, minced

Cut tomatoes crosswise into halves. Sprinkle cut surface with salt.

Blend together bread crumbs, margarine, parsley and garlic. Spread over cut surface of tomatoes.

Broil slowly about 6-inches from source of heat for 25 minutes, or until tender and lightly browned. If desired, garnish with additional parsley. Makes 6 servings.

CAULIFLOWER AND TOMATOES AU GRATIN

- 2 cups water
- 1 ½ teaspoons salt
- 1 head cauliflower (about 2 pounds), cut into flowerets
- ½ cup margarine
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese
- ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 3 medium tomatoes, peeled, seeded and cut into strips ½-inch wide

Bring water and 1 teaspoon salt to a boil in a large saucepan. Add cauliflower, cover and return to a boil. Reduce heat and cook about 15 minutes, or until cauliflower is tender. Drain; set aside.

Melt margarine in a small saucepan. Stir in cheese, bread crumbs, celery salt, remaining ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper. Sprinkle ½ of crumb mixture over bottom of a shallow 1 ½ quart baking dish. Arrange cauliflower and tomatoes over crumbs. Top with remaining crumb mixture.

Bake at 375 degrees about 20 minutes until golden brown. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

BRAISED PEAS WITH LETTUCE

- 2 cups shredded lettuce
- 2 cups shelled fresh peas (about 2 pounds in pod)
- ¼ cup sliced scallions
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon crushed summer savory leaves
- ½ teaspoon white pepper
- 3 tablespoons margarine, cut up

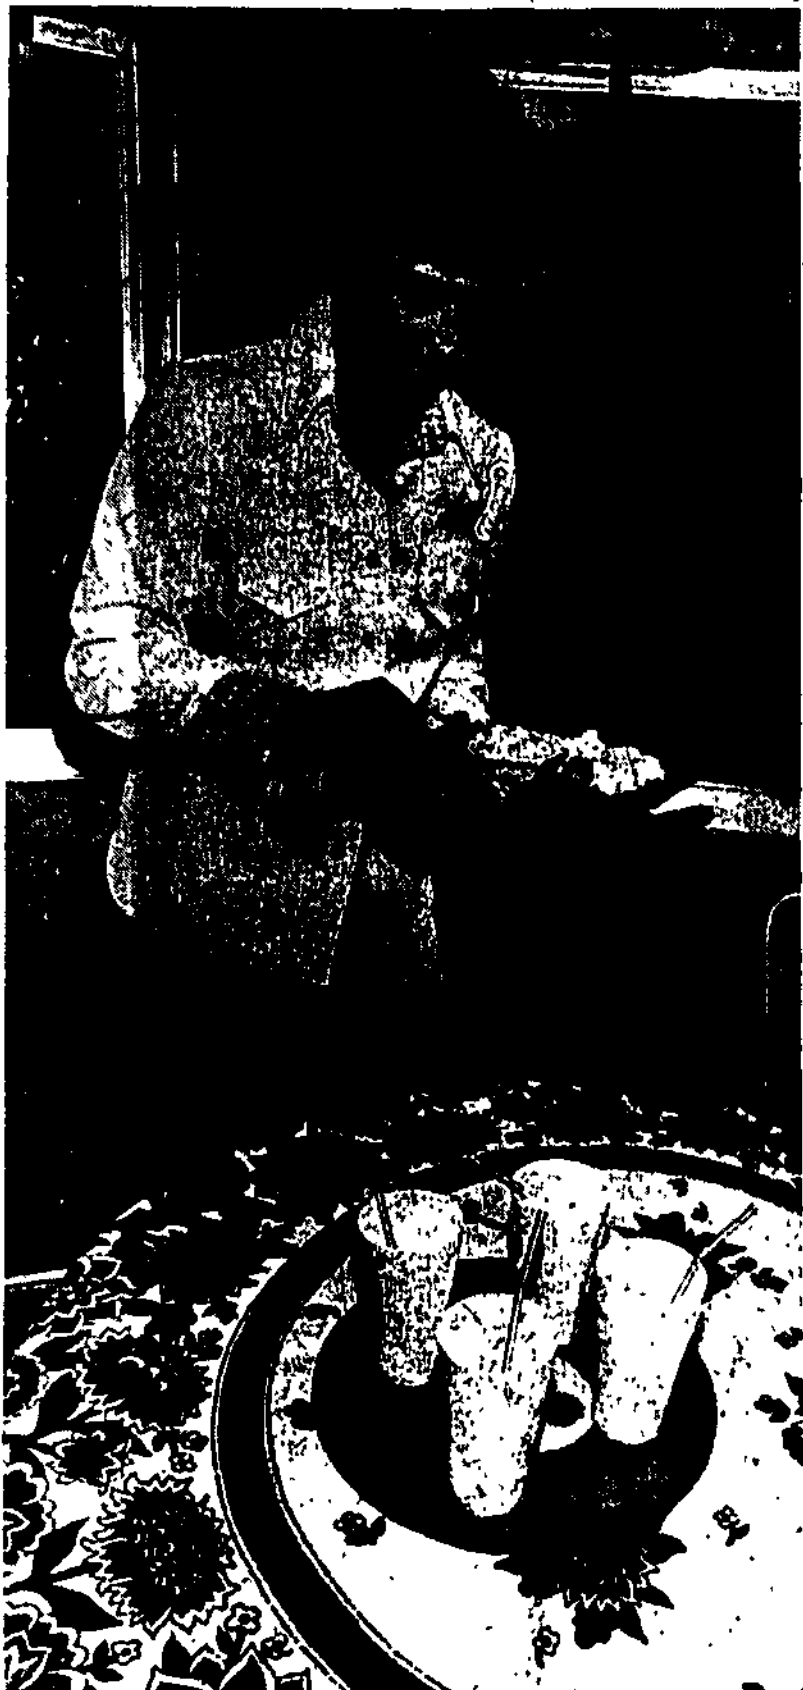

Place 1 cup shredded lettuce in a saucepan. Top with peas and scallions. Sprinkle with sugar, salt, savory, and pepper. Dot with margarine. Top with remaining cup of shredded lettuce. Cover; cook over medium-low heat 15 to 20 minutes or until peas are tender. Makes 4 servings.

SPINACH TIMBALE

- 8 eggs
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 ½ cups milk, scalded
- ½ cup heavy cream
- 2 packages (10-ounce) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
- 1 tablespoon margarine

In large bowl, beat together eggs, onion, salt and pepper. Gradually stir in milk, cream and spinach until well blended. Pour in a 6 ½ cup ring mold greased with 1 tablespoon margarine. Set in a pan of boiling water. Bake at 325 degrees about 45 minutes or until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Run a knife around edges of mold to loosen; unmold onto warm platter. Serve with Cheddar Sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CHEDDAR SAUCE: In heavy saucepan, melt 6 tablespoons margarine. Blend in ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Cook over low heat, stirring until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat and gradually stir in 2 cups milk. Return to heat and bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook 1 minute longer. Remove from heat and stir in 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese until melted.

LUSH SLUSH and fresh vegetables with curry dip are regulars on Mrs. Virgil Wendt's warm weather menus.

Mrs. Virgil Wendt

Her menus please summer appetites

by LOIS SEILER

A screen house installed on the patio makes outdoor dining a pleasure for the Virgil Wendt family in Mount Prospect. Bugs are no longer bothersome, and the grill is located nearby for outdoor barbecues.

Karen Wendt's collection of summertime recipes also contribute to the family's eating enjoyment. One appealing menu features marinated flank steak or London Broil and a tangy German potato salad and a light, fluffy cheese cake for dessert.

During summer months the Wendts favor a refreshing drink called Lush Slush, which they often serve for cocktails or to drop-in guests. It consists of a sugar syrup and green tea combined with orange juice, lemonade and brandy or bourbon. Karen makes a big batch, keeping the slushy mixture on hand in the freezer. A few scoops are put into tall glasses which are then filled with 7-Up. The liquor can be omitted so that the drink may be served to children.

As appetizers with Lush Slush Karen suggests fresh vegetables with a curry dip, along with one or two less pungent hors d'oeuvres. She mixes salad dressing with curry, dry mustard, wine vinegar and onion salt at least an hour ahead for the flavors to blend. A variety of fresh, crisp vegetables are used for dipping.

The flank steak is marinated at least eight hours before Virgil cooks it on the grill. The marinade has an extensive list of seasonings which blend together to give the meat an exceptionally good, but not overpowering flavor. An added attraction of this marinade is that it can be used over and over again. Karen has kept it up to a year in the refrigerator until there was too little left to be useful.

Tucked inside a gift at Karen's bridal shower several years ago was a recipe for potato salad from an elderly German lady. Karen has made the salad countless times, and always with success. Three eggs and dry mustard give it a golden color, vinegar and sugar add a tangy sweet-sour taste, with crisp bacon and onion contributing more flavor. Garnished with fresh parsley, it may be served hot or cold.

With this entree and German potato salad, Karen often serves a watermelon filled with fresh fruit. Chablis or softened ice cream may be ladled over the top. A simple platter of sliced tomatoes may be substituted, or a hot green bean casserole.

Her dessert choice is a refrigerator cheese cake, where only the crust need be baked. The filling simply consists of whipped Milnot, lemon gelatin, cream cheese and sugar, all blended together. It is an airy and refreshing summertime treat.

Formerly chairman of the Mount Prospect Newcomers Gourmet group, Karen considers cooking a hobby and especially enjoys Oriental cuisine. Currently her efforts are directed towards caring for their baby son, Matthew, 3 months, and daughter Ginger, 8, along with work in the Uptown ghetto as chairman of the Uptown Care Committee and secretary of the local advisory board for the Chicago Uptown Ministry.

LUSH SLUSH

2 cups sugar
7 cups boiling water
4 green tea bags
2 cups boiling water
1 12-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate
1 12-ounce can frozen lemonade
2 cups brandy or bourbon (optional)
7-Up
Pour 7 cups boiling water over sugar; stir and let cool.
In another container, pour 2 cups boiling water over tea bags and let cool.
Combine both mixtures and add orange juice, lemonade and liquor. Freeze at least 48 hours. When ready to serve, put the two ice-cream scoopsful of the slush into a tall glass and fill glass with 7-Up. Serve with a straw. Serves 20 to 25.

CURRY DIP

1 cup Miracle Whip Salad Dressing
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon wine vinegar
1 teaspoon onion salt
Combine ingredients and stir well until blended. Let set in refrigerator at least one hour before serving. Serve as a dip for carrot sticks, cauliflower, green pepper, celery and radishes.

MARINADE FOR FLANK STEAK OR LONDON BROIL

1 1/2 cups salad oil
3/4 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons dry mustard
2 1/4 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon freshly-ground pepper
1/2 cup wine vinegar
1 1/2 teaspoons dried parsley flakes
2 crushed garlic cloves
1/3 cup lemon juice
1 flank steak or London Broil (boneless top of prime round)
Combine all marinade ingredients in a large jar and mix well.
If flank steak is used, score meat. Place in a pan or casserole and cover with marinade. Let stand in refrigerator at least 8 hours, turning several times. Grill to desired doneness over gray coals. Marinade can be stored in refrigerator and used over and over again.

GERMAN POTATO SALAD

1 cup sugar
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup water
3/4 cup vinegar
1 heaping tablespoon flour

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 pound crumbled crisp bacon
1 small onion, chopped (optional)
5 large cooked, cooled and diced potatoes
Mix sugar, eggs, dry mustard, water, vinegar, flour, salt and pepper together with wire whisk. In a cast iron or electric skillet, cook ingredients together, stirring constantly, until thick. Add bacon, onion and potatoes, simmering over low heat until potatoes are heated through. Serve hot or cold, garnished with fresh parsley. Serves 6.

CHEESE CAKE

Crust:
38 graham crackers, crushed
1 stick margarine or butter, melted
3 tablespoons sugar
Mix ingredients together and pat most of it into the bottom of a 9 by 13-inch pan, saving 1/3 cup for topping. Bake at 350 degrees for ten minutes. Cool.

Filling:

1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 can cold Milnot
1 large 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup sugar
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Place in freezer to cool to the consistency of egg whites.
Chill a large bowl and beaters. Whip cold Milnot until thick, about 15 minutes.
In a separate bowl, beat cheese with sugar.
Whip gelatin with electric mixer until foamy. Add cream cheese and gelatin mixture to whipped Milnot and blend well with electric mixer at slow speed.
Pour filling into cooled crust and sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Let set 24 hours in refrigerator before serving. Serves 16.

Berry blinis and sangria, new idea for dessert guests

A way to save money when entertaining is to have friends and neighbors in for dessert. This can be after dinner during the week or mid-afternoon on the weekend. A berry blini stack of thin crepes (blinis) layered with sliced strawberries (or other fresh fruit in season) and sour cream or whipped cream is easy to make and not as expensive as serving several persons a complete menu. Serve a refreshing tea sangria before, during or after such a scrumptious treat. This is a non-alcoholic version of the Spanish wine-fruit drink and is most refreshing in hot weather.

TEA SANGRIA

1 (24 ounce) bottled red grape juice
3 tablespoons instant tea
1 orange, sliced
2 lemons, sliced
Ice cubes
1 (16 ounce) bottle lemon-lime carbonated beverage
In large pitcher, combine grape juice and tea. Add orange and lemon slices. Refrigerate until serving time. When ready to serve, add ice cubes and lemon-lime beverage. Pour over ice in tall glasses. Makes 6 servings.

BERRY BLINI STACK

2 eggs

1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons melted butter
2/3 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 quart fresh strawberries, sliced and sugared
1 pint sour cream

In medium bowl, beat eggs and yolk thoroughly with hand beater. Add butter, milk and vanilla; beat again. Mix flour, salt and sugar together. Add to egg mixture; beat until smooth. Heat a little butter or salad oil in 8-inch skillet or griddle. Drop batter, about 3 tablespoons and tip skillet to spread evenly. Cook, turning once, until light brown on both sides. Batter makes about 7 blinis. On serving dish, place a blini and top with a few spoonfuls sour cream and sweetened berries. Repeat layers saving a little sour cream and berries for garnish. To serve, cut in wedges.

(Note: Blinis may be served rolled in traditional crepe style. Drop batter to make 6-inch rounds and allow 2 per serving.) Makes 6 to 8 servings.

World food reserves decreasing

by BERNARD BRENNER

Lester R. Brown, a widely quoted authority on world food supplies, has given up bacon and eggs for breakfast and cut his personal meat consumption about one-third by using substitutes.

Brown, a senior fellow at the Overseas Development Council here, is under no illusion that his change of diet will do anything to alleviate the spectre of famine in southern Asia and sub-Saharan Africa this year if world harvests fail to meet present forecasts.

His voluntary belt-tightening is a personal declaration, an example of what the well-fed Western nations should be doing at a time when "the world is likely to be highly vulnerable on the food front in the years ahead."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., says Americans should use less fertilizer on their lawns so farmers in India would have more to grow wheat. A. H. Boerma, director general of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization, says that by mid-year, the world's food reserves will be down to a three-week supply.

If all Americans substituted grains, vegetable protein and other foods for one-third of their meat and poultry consumption, Brown estimates, there would be a net annual saving of 30-35 million tons of grain now used to feed animals. And a mere one million tons of grain would feed six million Indians for a year, he said.

FOR AMERICANS, the near future looks comparatively good. There will be short supplies of some foods this summer, especially canned vegetables, and prices will be higher than last year. But Agriculture Department specialists say there will be no problem getting enough to eat.

"Shortages? If you mean having less than somebody would like to have at a price he considers appropriate, yes, we'll have that," said Dr. Don Paarlberg, the department's chief economist.

"But if you mean nutritional deficiencies, the answer is no. We'll have enough tons of food. I see no prospect that we'll have any food lines."

Jerry V. Holden, a computer specialist at the Agriculture Department, said the data he is seeing suggests America will see "food lines, much the way there were gas lines last winter, if not this summer at least within the decade." But Larry V. Summers, another government food economist, in a separate interview estimated per capita U.S. food supplies would be higher this year than last, and that includes meat, fish, poultry and dairy products.

Grain supplies will be up, too, if farmers harvest predicted record crops of 2.2 billion bushels of wheat and 6.7 billion bushels of corn — and if crop failures abroad do not spark a new round of price-boosting exports.

George Koch, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, agreed. Koch said Americans need not fear a general food shortage this year although prices will be unpleasantly higher. He predicted a pinch in processed fruits and vegetables over the next few months, which means someone shopping for a large can of one vegetable may have to settle for a small can of another. But the outlook for the developing world is far grimmer. The reasons are incredibly complex, and give the precarious balance of world supply and demand, even the most insignificant factor a year ago becomes crucially important today.

The disappearance of anchovies off the Peruvian coast last year produced a rush on U.S. soybeans as a protein substitute for feeding cattle, and quadrupled the price of soybeans at one point. The Arab oil embargo and soaring fuel prices put the cost of fertilizer almost beyond the reach of some poor countries struggling to feed themselves.

"The poor nations, and the poor people within nations, are in an especially dangerous predicament," Brown said.

Paarlberg, ordinarily an optimist about the world's ability to feed itself, conceded that wide areas of Asia, Africa and parts of South America will be "in considerable jeopardy" this year without big harvests.

Spaghetti and ground beef for economical party dish

Pasta parties help stretch the food dollar. In planning a menu for a large family or for a number of guests consider serving spaghetti with a different twist. Top the pasta with a stuffed beef roll — 1½ pounds of ground beef makes eight servings. Top with a tomato sauce and serve with a large salad and fresh fruit for dessert.

SPAGHETTI WITH STUFFED BEEF ROLL

1 egg
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
Salt and pepper
½ cup beef bouillon
1½ pounds ground beef
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
4 carrots, halved and cooked
1½ cups sliced celery, cooked
½ cup chopped parsley
2 slices bacon, diced
½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon dark brown sugar
½ teaspoon thyme leaves
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
1 cup water
1 pound spaghetti
2 tablespoons salt
4 to 6 quarts boiling water

Beat egg in large bowl with mustard, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Add bouillon, beef and bread crumbs. Mix until combined. Turn onto large sheet of waxed paper. With moistened hands pat into a 14x10-inch rectangle. Arrange carrots and celery over the meat; sprinkle with parsley. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, peeling off waxed paper while rolling. Place seam side down in shallow roasting pan. Seal ends of roll. Bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour. Meanwhile, prepare spaghetti sauce. Brown bacon in large saucepan over medium heat; remove with slotted spoon and set aside.

Add onion and garlic and saute in drippings until lightly browned. Pour off excess fat. Stir in sugar, thyme, tomato sauce, 1 cup water and bacon. Bring sauce to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes more. Brush some of sauce over beef roll during last 10 minutes of baking period. Keep remaining sauce hot to pour over spaghetti.

During last 15 minutes of baking time, cook spaghetti. Gradually add spaghetti and 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve spaghetti with sliced beef roll and sauce. (Note: Allow meat to stand 5 minutes for easier slicing.) Makes 8 servings. Orange Celery Slaw

Celery salads for healthful diets

We moderns eat too many soft and over-refined foods, according to a team of English medical researchers. "Fiber-depleted diets," they say, not only contribute to numerous diseases of the gastrointestinal tract, but on the way down, help cause some dental and gum diseases.

The recommendation is that we should eat more fiber-rich foods, raw vegetables and fruits, whole grain products — foods which require chewing.

The two following recipes featuring celery will add healthful roughage to your diet. Celery is teamed with orange sections, raisins and salted peanuts for Orange Celery Slaw. This unusual salad makes a delicious treat for lunch.

Mix celery with sliced cucumbers and scallions and dress with a well-seasoned sour cream dressing for a crunchy change-of-pace salad.

Orange Celery Slaw
6 cups thinly sliced celery
1 tablespoon grated orange peel

1 cup orange sections, sliced
½ cup raisins
½ cup salted peanuts
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon salt

In a large bowl lightly combine all ingredients. Serve immediately on lettuce leaves, if desired. Yield: 8 cups.

REFRESHING CELERY SALAD

4 cups diagonally sliced celery
1 cucumber, peeled and sliced
¼ cup sliced scallions
¼ cup salad oil
1 tablespoon white vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ cup sour cream

1½ tablespoons catsup
In a medium bowl toss celery with cucumber and scallions; cover and chill.

Combine oil, vinegar, salt, garlic powder and black pepper; mix well. With a fork or wire whisk beat in sour cream and catsup until smooth. Spoon over celery salad just before serving; toss gently. Yield: about 4 cups.

Fresh vegetables for summer meals

Vegetable gardens are flourishing throughout the country as more people 'grow it themselves' to save money. Also, the green thumb wave is an attempt to regain a closeness with nature and experience flavors of truly fresh vegetables. When not eaten raw, zucchini and carrots from your garden make delightful cooked dishes.

BAKED CARROTS

2 tablespoons margarine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
3 medium carrots
1 tablespoon water

Chopped parsley
Melt margarine. Stir in lemon juice and salt. Pare carrots, then cut into ¼-inch strips about 3 inches long. Arrange in small baking dish; add water. Pour margarine mixture over carrots.

Cover. Bake in 350-degree oven until carrots are tender, 50 to 60 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 2 servings.

PANNEED ZUCCHINI

2 medium zucchini (about ½ pound)
1 tablespoon corn oil
1 small onion, sliced
1 fresh tomato, peeled and cut up

1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon crushed dried basil

Scrub zucchini and cut into 1-inch slices. Heat corn oil in medium skillet. Sauté onion until lightly browned. Add zucchini, tomato, salt, pepper and basil. Cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes or until zucchini is tender. Makes 2 servings.

Choose ice cream for summertime desserts

Ice cream, the most popular summer dessert, is a good source of protein. It is an excellent source of vitamin A and B, plus calcium and phosphorus. But ice cream is not the dish for dieters. It contains about 148 calories per half cup, about double the number of calories in a comparable serving of whole milk.

Still, Americans consume an average of 15 quarts of ice cream per person annually. We can choose from about 7,000 different brands and an estimated 500 different flavors, reports UPI news service.

Of the 500 flavors — from such off beat ones as chile con carne, sauerkraut and gum drop to vanilla, the regulars remain the most popular. Vanilla continues to outsell every other flavor, say industry sources. It accounts for half of all the $1.5 million worth of ice cream sales a year in the U.S. With chocolate and strawberry, it makes up two-thirds of all sales.

ICE CREAM can be used in an endless variety of desserts. Served plain, it's always a refreshing treat, but in such classics as baked Alaska or cherries jubilee, it's sheer elegance.

Ice cream petits fours, from the "Farm Journal Freezing and Canning Cookbook," make pretty, dainty desserts for spring and summer parties.

It's also a dessert that can be made ahead of time and kept in the freezer for unexpected guests.

On a chilled metal tray, set over a pan of ice, cut half-gallon bricks of ice cream into 24 squares, or 18 diamonds, or 16 rectangles. Place on individual pieces of waxed paper. Freeze firm at least 24 hours.

Whip two cups heavy cream, divide in fourths. Tint one a delicate pink, one green, one yellow; leave one white.

WORK ON CHILLED tray over ice. Remove ice cream from freezer one piece at a time; frost with whipped cream; decorate with tiny candies or colored sugar in pastel colors, nuts or whipped cream designs. (You can leave some petits fours unfrosted and roll sides in tinted coconut or finely chopped nuts.) Return to freezer immediately so they will hold shape.

When petits fours are frozen firm, transfer to cupcake papers; package in flat box. Freeze until serving time.

Chicken with worldly flavor

This tasty dish ideally fits the title because the way of cooking it is borrowed from so many sources. It has garlic and Parmesan cheese for the Italian, wine for the French and dill for the Scandinavian. Call it what you want, you will enjoy eating it.

ELECTRIC CHICKEN

2 chickens, about 1½ to 2 pounds each, quartered
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1½ teaspoons crumbled dill seed
1½ teaspoons crumbled basil
2 medium onions, chopped
Claret wine, to cover (or bouillon)
1 tablespoon Angostura aromatic bitters
Salt and pepper
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup melted butter or margarine

Rub chicken pieces with garlic, dill and basil. Place pieces into large earthenware or glass bowl. Add onions and claret (dry red) wine to cover. Add Angostura and dill gently. Refrigerate overnight or marinate at room temperature for 2 hours.

Remove from marinade, drain and season chicken on both sides with salt and pepper. Place chicken pieces skin side down on a broiler rack as far from the source of heat as possible. Broil until chicken is brown, about 20 minutes. Brush with marinade every 10 minutes. Turn and brown skin side up, brushing with marinade every 10 minutes, about 15 minutes. Mix Parmesan cheese and butter and spread mixture over chicken pieces. Broil another 5 minutes or until cheese is lightly browned. Serve garnished with parsley and asparagus spears. Makes 8 servings.

Raspberry Yogurt Pie

Keep dessert cool with chilled berry pie

Pies rank with cakes as one of the favorite desserts throughout the country. When they're as easy to make as this Raspberry Yogurt Pie, they could conceivably dislodge cakes from first place on the list.

Yogurt is added to chilled gelatin with berries and meringue for the fool-proof filling. Enclosed in a vanilla-wafer crumb and melted butter crust, the result is a delightful close for any hot weather meal.

Once you've tried this combination, others are easy variations. Strawberry gelatin with strawberry yogurt comes to mind readily, but so do cherry, peach and orange since there are flavored gelatin to match the yogurt. To make cooking truly creative, you may then want to fashion combinations like cherry gelatin with peach yogurt or pineapple yogurt with orange gelatin. The variations are infinite.

Celery salad for any season

This is the time of the year to take advantage of a natural abundance of green celery. Millions and millions of ribs and whole stalks are beginning to arrive from Florida fields. During late fall, winter and spring months Florida supplies about 50 per cent of all the celery which reaches the market.

Below is a recipe for a Hot Celery Salad, a sweet-sour German type salad which is delicious with meats, fish or fowl or can serve as an appetizing accompaniment to a cheese souffle or rabbit or to a platter of sandwiches. It's tempting also as a "solo" with a slice of buttered toast or some hot biscuits.

Hearty Celery Fish Soup is another great use for celery. It couldn't be more one-two-three, requiring about 20 minutes' cooking time. Or, you could cook it in advance to the point of adding the sour cream, and store it in the refrigerator until final reheating along with the sour cream.

HOT CELERY SALAD

- 1 stalk celery
- 4 slices bacon, diced
- 2 cup minced onions
- 5 teaspoons sugar
- 2 teaspoons flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 cup water
- 1 cup white vinegar
- 1/2 cup sliced radishes
- 1 cup chopped parsley

Separate celery into ribs; trim ends and remove leaves. Cut ribs into 1/2-inch slices (makes about 6 cups); set aside. In a large saucepan saute bacon until crisp. Add onions; saute for 2 minutes. Add reserved celery; saute for 5 minutes. In a small bowl blend sugar, flour, salt and black pepper with water and vinegar. Blend into celery mixture. Cook and stir for 2 to 3 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens. Remove from heat and stir in radishes and parsley. Serve hot, garnished with celery leaves if desired. Yield: 4 to 6 portions.

HEARTY CELERY FISH SOUP

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 4 cups sliced celery
- 1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes, broken up
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground white pepper
- 1 pound fish fillets, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream

In a large saucepan melt butter. Add onion and celery and saute for 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, water, parsley, salt and white pepper. Bring to boiling point and stir well. Add fish; stir gently. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes or until fish is cooked and celery is tender. Remove from heat and stir in sour cream. Reheat but do not boil. Yield: 4 portions.

Quiche, salad and wine for perfect light meal

Julia Child, the famous TV French chef, has observed that "A Quiche hot out of the oven, a salad, and a cool bottle of white wine — there's the perfect light meal." I agree heartily and find a great deal of pleasure experimenting with Quiches, which are custards, dressed up in party fashion, and baked open-faced in a pie shell.

This recipe from the Flynn kitchen may be baked in a nine-inch pie shell for four dinner portions, or in eight tart shells as an appetizer for a full-course meal. Bake the shell or shells and allow to cool.

Chop 4 tablespoons onion and saute very gently in 2 tablespoons butter. Don't brown. Cool. Drain and pick a 6-ounce package of frozen crabmeat and chop coarsely a dozen medium sized cooked shrimp.

Mix the buttered onions, crabmeat, shrimp and 4 ounces of grated Swiss cheese. In another mixing bowl, beat 2 eggs well, then add 1 cup milk, 1/3 cup sour cream, 1/4 teaspoon finely grated lemon peel, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, and 1 tablespoon dry vermouth. Salt to taste and add a dash of pepper.

Combine the two mixtures and fill pie or tart shells and bake in a 350-degree oven for approximately 35 minutes. Turn up oven for a few minutes to brown top, if needed. Serve piping hot.

ITALIAN SALAD GOES well with the quiche. On a large platter place a bed of bibb lettuce leaves. Atop the lettuce put slices of fresh tomato (beefsteak or big boy are excellent varieties for salad), thin slices of peeled fresh cucumber, and equally thin slices of red onion.

Sprinkle the vegetables lightly with oil and vinegar dressing, thin with dried oregano, salt and pepper.

Whether you serve the meal with a cool bottle of white wine, as Julia suggested, is up to you. But it's good!

Do you have a favorite quiche recipe, or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. For personal reply, please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Yogurt tops gelatin

Fruit flavored yogurt makes a tasty topping for an easy dessert, molded fruit gelatin. Simply beat the yogurt with a fork, and spoon a small amount atop the gelatin. Blueberry yogurt is good on lemon flavored gelatin; strawberry yogurt atop pineapple flavored gelatin, orange yogurt on top of orange-pineapple gelatin.

If you don't like eating soggy sandwiches on your picnic, or any other time for that matter, spread the bread with butter all the way to the edge. It acts as a sealer for the filling as well as enhancing the flavor of the sandwich.

At what kinds of meals do families have guests? In a 1973 survey, 94% said that having relatives and friends in for dinner was at the top of the list. It was the same percentage for having friends dropping by informally. Picnics and outdoor barbecues were also high on the list.

Calcium, that mineral often hard-to-get in palatable quantities, is supplied easily by dairyfoods. These amounts of dairy food have about the same amount of calcium: one cup of milk (whole, skim or buttermilk); 1 1/4 cups of ice cream; 1 1/2 ounces of Cheddar cheese or 1 1/3 cups of cottage cheese.

Remove radish tops

Radishes won't go soft on you so quickly if you cut off the tops before storing. You won't get as much smell from cooking salmon if you first cover the fish with lemon juice and refrigerate it for about an hour.

A small amount of vinegar added to the water when cooking rice will reduce the likelihood of sticking.

Always store potatoes in a cool, dry place to avoid greening.

When tasting soups or gravies during cooking use a wooden spoon and you'll be less apt to burn your tongue.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A National "Target Buy" is a temporary manufacturers price reduction that all Chicago-land markets receive... But National passes the savings on to you in addition to advertised specials.

Of course National offers you a wide array of weekly specials... but in addition — you'll find "Target Buys" on many of the items you need and use each week. National's "Target Buys" represent month-long savings (or while supplies last) on the kind of items you want for summer living. Stop in... save while you can with National.

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referendum should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud. THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunctions against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

Board may be enlarged from present 9 members.

by STEVE FORSYTH
SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board. DEUSTER SAID A similar board

Village expected to protest Bugner Farm development

by JOE FRANZ

Buffalo Grove is expected to pass a resolution opposing the Bugner Farm development, proposed for unincorporated Lake County, village officials said Wednesday.

The 464-unit townhouse project has been proposed by Chesterfield Development Corp. for a 45-acre tract on Weiland Road, south of Busch Road.

Village officials contend the density is too high, recreation facilities and storm water detention are inadequate and the proposed donation to local school districts by the developer is too low. According to Village Pres. Gary Armstrong, the village will ask the Lake County Board to insist the developer meet all of Buffalo Grove's standards in these areas.

The developer has asked for a zoning change on about two-thirds of its property to permit the townhouse units. The request is being considered by the Lake County Zoning Board of Appeals. Village officials Tuesday voiced their objections to the zoning board.

VILLAGE MGR. Daniel Larson said if the county zoning board approves the change, the village board probably will pass a resolution opposing the project and present it to the Lake County Board prior to its review of the development. Village board members this week said they would vote for the resolution if all of Buffalo Grove's requests are not met.

If the village files of formal objection to the development, which would be called Indian Head, it must pass the county board by a three-fourths majority.

Under a resolution passed in 1972, the village would require the developer to donate about $125,000 to local school districts if the project was being annexed to Buffalo Grove. This amount would include about $125,000 for Aptakisic-Tripp School District 102 and about $30,000 for High School Dist. 125.

Chesterfield has offered Dist. 102 about $35,000 and is not planning to make a donation to Dist. 125. Thus, if the project was being built in Buffalo Grove, the donation would be about $160,000 short of the requirement. The donations are designed to absorb the impact the additional population will have on the school.

FRED HILLMAN, executive vice president of Chesterfield, said that since his firm is not building in Buffalo Grove, it is not obligated to satisfy its resolution. Although, Chesterfield would not consider meeting the resolution, Hillman said he would be willing to negotiate with Dist. 102.

"I think Dist. 102 knows that our offer was a starting point. We are willing to sit down and negotiate, in fact we're anxious to do so," Hillman said.

He would not speculate on how much his firm would be willing to increase the donation to Dist. 102.

The same village resolution that provides for donations to schools also requires cash or land donations to the park district. "We're not planning a donation to the park district," Hillman said. "That's because we're going to provide a lot of recreation facilities and open space, more than the park district would provide."

Again, he said, he does not think his firm is obligated to meet the resolution since it is building outside the village.

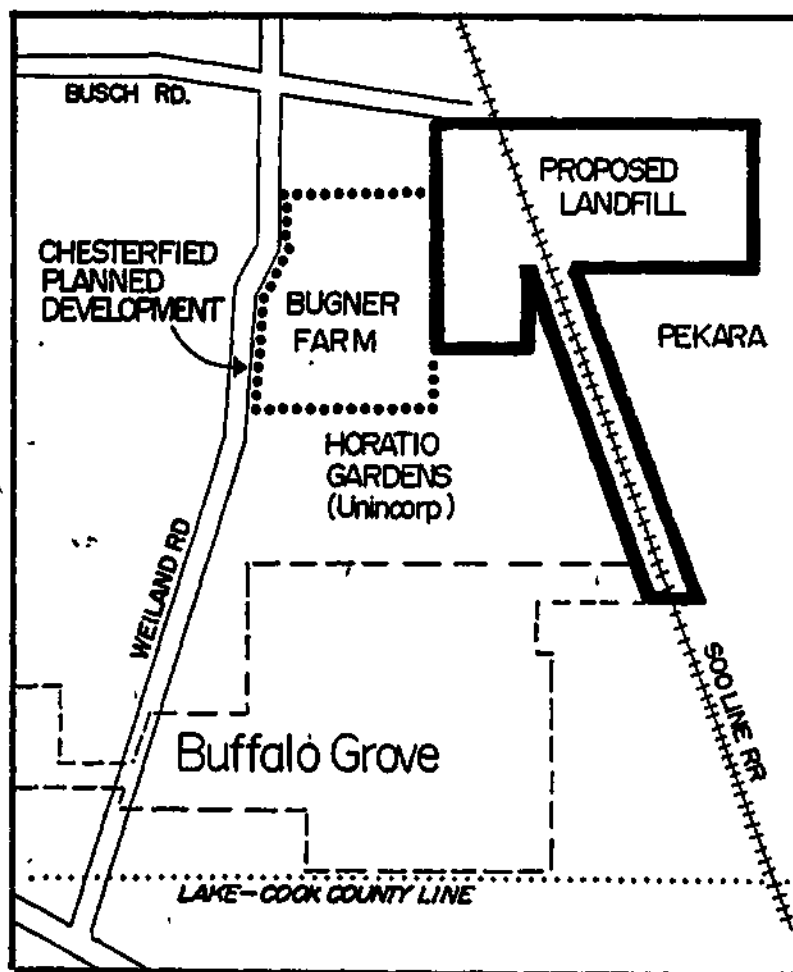

UNDER CHESTERFIELD'S proposed plan, it would build about 10 units to the acre. Buffalo Grove officials have asked that the density be lowered to between about four and eight units to the acre.

The village also has asked that more storm water detention be provided to prevent flooding problems. Officials have asked that the ordinance be met. The village has much stricter requirements than the county in this area.

Buffalo Grove officials have expressed interest in having the project annexed to the village. That, however, is not possible at the present time since the property does not adjoin the village limits, a legal requirement for annexation.

HILLMAN SAID his firm is anxious to build and cannot afford to wait until the

Larson taking job in Wilmette?

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson of Buffalo Grove apparently has interviewed for the village manager post in Wilmette.

Larson, however, continues to deny reports and says he has no intention of leaving Buffalo Grove at this time.

Trustee Randall Rathjen told The Herald last week that Larson's apparent job hunt was the topic of a closed executive session after the regular board meeting.

Daniel Larson

Wilmette Village Pres. Warren Burmeister would neither confirm nor deny reports Wednesday that Larson had interviewed for that municipality's head administrative post. Wilmette Village Mgr. Armon Lund has submitted his resignation effective Dec. 31.

"We are seeking a village manager and are interviewing people," Burmeister said. "We are attempting to retain confidentiality so as not to jeopardize the applicants' positions with their present municipalities."

"I think it's very unfortunate what has happened here. I think you can tell by what I've said, what the answer is to your question concerning the Buffalo Grove village manager," Burmeister told The Herald.

Larson, 28, has been employed at his present post since July, 1971. Prior to that he worked for the villages of Hoffman Estates and Northbrook.

Larson's salary in Buffalo Grove is $18,500 a year and is scheduled to be increased to $20,600 Aug. 1. The village manager post in Wilmette pays $25,000 a year.

Meeting Tuesday on playgrounds

A meeting between School Dist. 96 and Buffalo Grove Park District officials will be held Tuesday to discuss plans for playgrounds adjoining Willow Grove and Twin Groves schools in the Lake County section of the village.

According to joint agreements with School Districts 96 and 21 serving Buffalo Grove, the park district is responsible for developing playgrounds in return for use of school facilities for park programs.

James Duncan, Dist. 96 Board of Education president, and the principals of Twin Groves and Willow Grove have voiced complaints about the playgrounds at the two schools. Drainage problems make both so muddy they are unusable much of the time.

Duncan has cited the park district for a lack of cooperation and called for improvements to be made before school resumes in September.

Dist. 96 Supt. William Hiltzman Wednesday said he was hopeful plans for the playgrounds could be worked out at the meeting in two weeks.

Police departments rate first 'cop swap' as tops

The first "cop swap" between the Buffalo Grove and Hoffman Estates police departments has proved "successful," police chiefs from both departments said Tuesday.

In Buffalo Grove, a change in warrant issuance procedures has been made as the result of advice from Sgt. Ronald Sperandio, the policeman traded from Hoffman Estates, said Chief Harry Walsh Jr.

The youth-detective division will handle warrants — a practice once done by patrolmen. Walsh said this would not only free patrolmen for other duties, but allow for a more orderly record keeping of warrants. The system is used by Sperandio's department.

But more importantly to Walsh and his Hoffman Estates counterpart, John O'Connell, the first trade proved capable supervisory personnel could handle command responsibilities in different departments, both chiefs said.

THEY WERE LOOKING to see if leadership capabilities carried over in an unfamiliar situation. Sperandio was exchanged for Sgt. Ronald Gozdecki for a four-week tour of duty.

"It proved a point to a degree," said O'Connell. "We didn't notice any difference (capabilities) with Gozdecki than with Sperandio."

"It was very successful, beneficial and refreshing," said Walsh, noting both sergeants had expressed to him they were excited about having proved to themselves that their leadership qualities carried over to the other departments.

Walsh said other suggestions made by Sperandio will be considered in other aspects of departmental procedures.

O'CONNELL SAID HE wanted to review both sergeants' written reports before commenting further on the results of the program. Gozdecki and Sperandio are to file reports by July 3 with both police chiefs.

Another swap between the two departments has been tentatively planned for the fall pending approval by both village boards. O'Connell said other swaps would be needed to test the program thoroughly.

Sgt. Ronald Gozdecki

Sgt. Ronald Sperandio

Taking command of different patrolmen is a difficult adjustment that is not permitted by the present system in Illinois, O'Connell said. He has said the program could be a possible springboard for lateral movement among police departments.

California's system allows lateral movement of policemen without their losing pension, rank and other benefits, he pointed out.

Joint meetings grow out of talks

School districts to meet quarterly

School officials of High School Dist. 125 and its feeder elementary districts will begin conducting quarterly meetings to discuss common concerns.

Board members from elementary districts 73, 96, 102 and 103 plan to have joint meetings every four months, beginning the first week of October. In addition, a liaison committee which will include one board member from each of the elementary districts and the high school district will meet more frequently to discuss matters affecting all the districts and recommend an agenda for the quarterly sessions.

The decision to set up the committee grew out of a discussion among school officials last Saturday.

THE SCHOOL BOARD members indicated at the meeting that they are concerned about a wide variety of common problems, including test scores and how they vary between elementary districts, integrating the elementary curriculum with the high school program, high school standards, board policies, salaries, structured and open classroom programs.

The board members, saying that greater communication between the feeder elementary schools and the high schools is important, agreed to form the committee and meet quarterly.

James Duncan, Dist. 96 Board of Education president, said he is concerned how well students in the Individually Guided Education (IGE) program in that district will be able to phase into the high school program.

The IGE program in Dist. 96, which serves the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove and Long Grove, involves a large amount of student decision-making and self-direction. The program at Stevenson High School is more traditional.

"WE ARE CERTAINLY vitally interested in the types of programs being offered by the elementary schools in our districts," said Robert Anderson High School Dist. 125 board president. "If one district is emphasizing an open program and another district a more structured, traditional program, it may be necessary for the high school to offer the option of a structured and an open program."

The board members were divided on the question of sharing the results of standardized tests. Leonard Brunotte, a member of the Dist. 103 school board, favored sharing the information so that comparisons may be made between elementary districts. Other board members, however, said they felt that the information could be used for political purposes.

Other topics discussed by the board members last week included naming a curriculum coordinator for all districts and more use of high school guidance personnel in elementary schools.

DIST. 125 SUPT. Harold Baner told the group the high school guidance department counselors visit feeder elementary schools only to acquaint eighth-graders with the high school curriculum.

"We would be glad to provide more service on the invitation of the elementary school," Baner said. "If we did more than we do now, we would be overstepping our authority."

Baner said these and other items will be taken up at the October meeting and following sessions.

"Our many concerns are not going to be solved by a single workshop," he commented. "The high school and its entire staff will be glad to work with all feeder schools as we have in the past and help improve curriculum, programs and other concerns."

Burglary suspect bound to county

Robert E. Williams Jr., suspected Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village cat burglar, waived his right to a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was bound over to the Cook County Grand Jury.

Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante, in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court, also reduced bond for Williams from $100,000 to $25,000. Williams' grand jury date is July 17.

Williams, 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove Village, is accused of five burglaries committed June 19 in an apartment building at 1101 Hunt Club Dr., Mount Prospect. The fifth burglary complaint was signed Wednesday in court by Joan Bourke, who allegedly had a purse and some beer and wine stolen from her apartment.

Mount Prospect police arrested Williams inside the apartment building and allegedly found some property stolen from the five apartments on Williams.

Elk Grove Village police said at least 10 burglary complaints are being prepared against Williams for cat burglaries committed in Elk Grove Village over the past two months. Police added they believe Williams may have been responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts in Elk Grove Village.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS police have said they have oral statements from Williams that allegedly link him to 42 burglaries committed in Arlington Heights since January 1973.

In court Wednesday, the public defender assigned to Williams said Williams had been a cook in the Navy for two years, ending in January 1974. He also said Williams had no prior convictions, although some charges are pending against Williams. The statements were made during arguments on the bond reduction.

Judge LaPlante said he had made the bond high initially because he was aware the fifth Mount Prospect burglary charge may have been filed as it was Wednesday.

Bieber to be sentenced today

William Bieber, former Wheeling building director, is scheduled to be sentenced in U.S. District Court today for extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return.

Bieber faces a maximum of 68 years' imprisonment and a $45,000 fine from U.S. District Court Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz.

The former building director pleaded guilty to five federal charges June 10. In exchange for the guilty plea, the U.S. Attorney's Office agreed to drop nine additional charges of extortion and perjury against Bieber.

Bieber is one of six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 following a year-long federal probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. Four of the six, including Bieber, have pleaded guilty. Two have been sentenced to prison terms.

David Schippers, Bieber's attorney, is expected to argue for probation, citing his client's poor health. Bieber was hospitalized for several weeks prior to his guilty plea. He has been suffering from a back injury.

Sentencing is scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Federal Building in Chicago.

Maple scale attacks trees in Wheeling

Cotton maple scale is attacking Wheeling's maple trees, and the village is planning a comprehensive spraying program to combat the disease.

Village Mgr. George Passolt said he recently has received numerous calls about the attack of cotton maple scale. "It gets its name because it looks like cotton or popcorn popping on the tree," he said. "Right now it's at the stage where it is blooming."

Passolt said the disease will not kill maple trees, "but some times the leaves get a little crinkly. It is an annoying thing and it should be corrected."

The last outbreak of cotton maple scale was three years ago, Passolt said. At that time the village successfully got rid of the disease by spraying the trees with Malathion.

PASSOLT SAID he is planning another such spraying program to begin in mid-July. He said that in addition to spraying the infected trees on the parkways, the village will offer to spray residents' trees free of cost.

Residents wishing to have their maple trees sprayed will have to sign a special release form, which will be available shortly. Passolt said he plans to contact residents about the spraying program.

"If we just sprayed the trees in the parkway and people have trees in their yards, front or back the disease will continue," Passolt said.

The manager said the disease is easy to recognize. "It is very prominent. It looks just like popcorn hanging on the tree," he said.

Stevenson High names principal

William G. Papke will become the new principal of Stevenson High School in Prairie View July 1.

The High School Dist. 125 Board of Education approved Papke's appointment this week. He will replace Paul Kern, who recently resigned.

A former assistant principal at Marshall High School in Chicago, Papke also has served as director of secondary education for the Minnesota State Dept. of Education.

Since 1972, Papke has been state chairman of the North Central Assn. in Minnesota, the largest accrediting agency for secondary schools and colleges in the United States.

Papke received his bachelor's and master's degrees at Northern Illinois University. His doctorate degree includes a major in educational administration and a minor in elementary and higher administration.

The new principal is married and the father of two children.

property adjoins the village. Larson said Chesterfield officials told him they would attempt to make their property contiguous with the village, but have not.

"We have no responsibility for being contiguous with the village," Hillman said. His (Larson's) saying we agreed to attempt to become contiguous is false."

Armstrong said although the Bugner Farm cannot be annexed by Buffalo Grove now, he wants to make sure its development is compatible with what has been outlined in the village master plan.

As more development takes place in the area, he said other land will come into the village, probably making it possible to annex the Bugner Farm at a later date. If that happens, Armstrong added, it would be desirable if the development meets village standards.

Hillman said his firm hopes to get approval from Lake County in time to begin construction next spring. The development would take about eight years to complete, he said.

Proposed industrial park could face soil problems

by LYNN ASINOF
The North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District has warned Wheeling officials of severe problems that could result from the construction of a proposed industrial park at the northwest corner of Hinz and Wolf roads.

In a report on the 41.8-acre site, the district noted that poor soil conditions and a high water table will create problems with flooded basements and floor buckling.

"Foundations, streets, parking lots and sidewalks on them (the soils) are subject to cracking and heaving," the report states. It noted that the water table for that site can be as high as two feet below the surface.

THE DISTRICT said that proposed plans submitted by the developer, Wheeling Partnership, call for construction of buildings too close to the banks of the Wheeling Drainage Ditch. In addition, the district called for the preservation of trees along the creek bank, noting that erosion has occurred on the north creek bank where the trees have been removed for the Foxboro Apartments.

According to district spokesmen, the acreage, which is bordered on the north by the creek, is a "key preservation area."

Developer Sigmund Lefkowitz, who is also responsible for the adjacent Foxboro development, told the zoning board that engineering should be able to solve these construction problems.

The developer, however, admitted that a comprehensive study of the conservation district's soil report has not been completed. The zoning board continued its hearing on industrial zoning for the property until further soil information is available.

WHILE THE ZONING board indicated concern over the soil conditions, Wheeling Trustee Albert Lang has already opposed any construction on the site.

Lang went on record early this month by voting against the preparation of an annexation ordinance for the property. He noted that streets, which would be maintained by the village, would be subject to severe frost heaving. He said that under such conditions the property might be a liability to the village.

Other trustees, however, said the village should annex the property, noting that this would not automatically authorize development of the land. Final vote on the annexation has been delayed until Monday.

In testimony before the zoning board, the developers said they planned to construct one building and then expand the number of buildings as firms become interested in the site. They said Acco International, a firm that makes office supplies, plans to build its headquarters on the property.

THE DEVELOPERS told the zoning board that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) had determined the position of their buildings because of the proximity to Palwaukee Airport. The zoning board asked that more evidence be presented that the FAA has control over the building's location.

Zoning board members also asked that Lefkowitz document reasons why an industrial park would be the highest and best use of the property.

The 41.8-acre site is currently owned by Theodore and Marion Melzer, with the Wheeling Partnership petitioning for the zoning change as contract purchaser of the site.

Wheeling officials have repeatedly objected to problems with the Foxboro development which Lefkowitz developed under another partnership. The village approved the project in late 1972 after county zoning had already been approved for the site.

MEMBERS OF the plan commission have criticized both the high density of the project and the construction which has caused severe traffic problems on Wolf Road. Numerous residents have complained about mud on the road at the construction site.

While village officials have praised the Foxboro developers for improvements to the Wheeling Drainage Ditch, the conservation district noted that severe erosion problems have developed as a result of this work.

REMOVAL OF TREES along the north bank of the Wheeling Drainage Ditch by developers of the Foxboro Apartments has created erosion problem

according to the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District. This work was praised by Wheeling officials when it was completed in March, 1973, because of its impact on flood control. Sigmund Lefkowitz, developer of Foxboro, now is seeking zoning for an industrial park.

Closed-door meet on faulty units

Furnace firm looking for 'conclusion'

by BOB GALLAS
An official of the company that manufactured Elk Grove Village furnaces found to be defective told Building Director Thomas Rettenbacher Wednesday his firm wants to "bring the problem to a conclusion."

Frank Green, sales manager for Johnson Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio, met with Rettenbacher and R. B. Clement, representative of Excelsior Steel Furnace Co. of Chicago, which is the major distributor of Johnson furnaces in the Midwest.

Rettenbacher termed the closed-door meeting a "fact-finding mission" on the part of the Johnson Corp. which produced no new information.

The Herald disclosed last week that 1,700 or more homes in the village may have furnaces with potentially dangerous heat exchangers, which are cracking and corroding, allowing toxic fumes to escape into the heating systems.

RETTENBACHER SAID that Green did not offer any solutions to the problem or make any commitments for his company, nor did he give any causes for the problem with the heat exchangers.

Rettenbacher said Green cited an engineering report paid for by his company last year, which cited improper installations of Johnson furnaces in the village which do not allow for adequate combustion air and venting.

According to Rettenbacher, Green cited the report several times, but would not say the installation problems were the cause of the heat exchanger failures but were a "contributing factor."

Green left immediately following the meeting with Rettenbacher for another appointment and was not available for comment.

ACCORDING TO Rettenbacher, no plans were made for further meetings with Green or Clement.

The first part of a report expected to pinpoint the cause of the heat exchanger failure should be completed Tuesday, according to Rettenbacher. The report, being prepared by an outside consultant hired by the village, will include a chemical analysis of faulty heat exchangers taken from Elk Grove Village homes.

Fifty village furnaces have been inspected by building department inspectors since last week. Of the 50, five were found to have heat exchangers which are definitely defective. Thirty-one others are what Rettenbacher termed as "doubtful," but only a careful examination of the furnace by a heating contractor could tell if the unit is faulty for sure.

Some 136 village residents have called to take advantage of free furnace inspections offered by the village. Village inspectors are booked through July 15 to make the inspections. The village is asking that residents wait until after the report due Tuesday is in before calling to make an appointment, but will inspect homes for those who want the inspection immediately.

Rettenbacher said that after the report determines what chemicals are causing the rapid deterioration of the heat exchangers, the next step will be to determine what factor is producing the chemical.

Stevenson teachers get 11.3% increase in pay

Stevenson High School teachers will receive an 11.3 per cent increase in salary next year, according to an agreement reached this week by the Dist. 125 Board of Education and faculty representatives.

Starting salary for teachers was increased from $8,300 to $9,250 for a 200-day school year, according to the pact signed Monday night.

The school board also continued several teacher benefits including covering the full cost of major medical and hospital insurance plus life insurance.

The total cost of the increase in teacher salaries amounts to $84,293 for 63 staff instructors, according to John Balnes, chairman of the school board education committee.

Administrators in the high school district are to receive a 12 per cent pay increase.

The 1974-75 schedule will set the salary of Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Baner at $34,240; Assistant Supt. for Business Edwin Ellis, $27,992, and Dean of Students Richard Vogtberger, $21,838.

Wayne Schnable, former curriculum coordinator, has been named assistant to the superintendent and will receive $24,213.

Buffalo Grove artists sought for art fair

Buffalo Grove artists are invited to display their work in an art fair Sunday at Stonegate Garden Apartments.

Exhibits will be set up from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. near the pool at the apartment complex, 70 S. Buffalo Grove Rd.

Anyone interested in entering the fair should call Stonegate apartments at 537-1600 or Vody Habermann at 541-6517. The fee is $7.

Proceeds from the fair will go to Music for Youth, a nonprofit organization. Members of the group, will play at the fair.

Coin collectors can keep abreast of new issues and values, every Thursday in the HERALD.

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referenda should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud.

THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunctions against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

by STEVE FORSYTH

SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

DEUSTER SAID A similar board

Teachers-schools contract talks at a standstill

by LINDA PUNCH

Contract talks between representatives of the East Maine Dist. 63 Board of Education and teachers' union have broken down after four months of bargaining.

Board Pres. Arlene Nidetz announced Tuesday night that the East Maine Education Assn. declared an impasse in negotiations and has asked for outside mediation.

Luke Allen, EMEA spokesman, said teachers felt "things could be settled more readily with a mediator present." He said there are "at least eight areas" where the two sides have failed to reach agreement.

Mrs. Nidetz said that "as far as we're (the board) concerned, we felt we could continue with negotiations." She noted that several items hadn't been resolved, including salary, but said the board didn't feel an impasse had been reached.

ACCORDING to the 1973-74 contract agreement, non-salary items such as teacher assignments and responsibilities, involuntary transfers and leaves were to be negotiated for the 1974-75 contract.

Firemen to flush Maine fire hydrants

The North Maine Fire Dept. will begin flushing fire hydrants next week in unincorporated areas of Maine Township as part of its fire hydrant maintenance program, according to Fire Chief Dale Moore.

Firefighters will flush the hydrants to free them of foreign matter to make sure they flow freely in case of a fire. Moore said the hydrants also will be checked for damage and to see if repairs are necessary.

Tops and caps of the hydrants also will be painted white. Moore said residents of the district will be notified to remove obstructions from around hydrants on their property that may hide them from firemen's view.

Under the negotiations agreement, either side may ask for outside mediation if they feel no progress has been made 90 days after the start of contract talks. The mediator will be mutually agreed upon from a list submitted by the American Arbitration Assn. Costs for mediation will be shared equally by the board and the EMEA.

Mrs. Nidetz said no new bargaining sessions can be scheduled until a mediator is selected. The negotiations team met for the last time Friday afternoon.

Representatives of the board and teachers' union held their first bargaining session on the 1974-75 contract in mid-March. Both sides termed the meeting "congenial."

THE DIST. 63 board and the EMEA reached a settlement in the 1973-74 contract dispute last October, narrowly averting a threatened teachers' strike. A major stumbling block in the 13-month dispute was the board's refusal to negotiate non-salary items, including class size and grievance procedures. The board later agreed to include some non-salary items in future negotiations.

In the aftermath of the contract dispute, the Dist. 63 board issued letters of warning to teacher union officials for committing acts of "unprofessional conduct and breaching teacher contracts." Charges filed against the teachers included organizing an illegal withholding of services in the form of a sick-in last October.

Officials of the EMEA later filed two lawsuits charging board actions taken against union officials in the aftermath of the contract dispute violated the civil rights of teachers. The cases are now pending in U.S. District Court.

Chicagoans indicted for grocery holdups

A Cook County grand jury had indicted a Chicago man and woman in connection with two grocery store holdups in Des Plaines last April.

The indictments charge Thomas Gresh, 22, of 4859 St. Louis Ave., with robbery and armed robbery and Sosy Keorkunlan, 20, of 5633 Wayne Ave., with robbery.

Both were nabbed by Des Plaines police April 18, shortly after they allegedly robbed the Open Pantry food store, 1950 Touhy Ave. of $101 in cash.

Police later tied Gresh to another robbery that occurred a few nights earlier at the White Man Pantry, 935 E. Oakton St., netting $476 in cash.

There were reports that Gresh used a toy pistol to commit one of the holdups.

Both persons are awaiting trial dates.

SKILL AND PATIENCE are the key words for youngsters participating in Des Plaines Dist. 62 summer cooking and shop classes. Jody Ratcliff tries her hand at whipping up a glaze while Richard Panek sands a board.

Summer session programs

Cooking, workshop add fun to school

by LINDA PUNCH

"There are two parts to cooking — the making and the eating."

That's the assessment of one young chef taking part in the Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 "Cooking Fun" class. The cooking course is part of a summer school program that also includes an industrial arts workshop class.

Richard Ruffolo, director of instructional resources, said the cooking and workshop programs for elementary school youngsters are being offered for the first time this year.

"We're trying to incorporate the things kids want to do in the classes," he said.

THE COOKING COURSE is designed to "acquaint the kids with different types of cooking," according to Rosalind Goodman, a North School staff member.

"We'll be working with just a real variety of things — breakfast foods, lunches, dinners and outdoor cooking," she said. "Mainly, I'm getting them to try different things."

Since summer school began last week, Mrs. Goodman's students have tried their hands at dishes ranging from cinnamon toast and jelly-filled rolls to pancakes and omelettes.

In addition to the actual cooking, students also are learning the basics of nutrition, the procedures of cooking and safety rules.

"We spent one whole day just learning to measure different things," Mrs. Goodman said.

THE YOUNGSTERS are encouraged to bring in their own recipes as well as copying dishes from cookbooks and magazines. Suggestions have included instructions for meringue kisses and honey cookies (grandma's recipe) to a recipe for cornbread brought in by one of the three boys in the class.

"I love to cook and I know the kids are capable of doing it," she said. "I thought we ought to give them a chance to try things out."

While Mrs. Goodman's students slave over their creations in the Algonquin Junior High School home economics room, Troquois Junior High teacher Jay Mathiesen is working with youngsters in the neighboring woodshop.

MATTHIESEN NOTES that elementary school students get no industrial arts instruction and that his course is their "first experience with shop."

"I'm trying to give them a basic inroduction to shop and still hit some of their interests," he said. "Some kids have never cut a board before."

The projects, including string art and decoupage, teach skills such as sawing, sanding, drilling and staining.

"Each new project builds on skills learned on the others," Mathiesen said.

The shop students also will get a week's instruction in the care of bicycles, with lessons ranging from patching tires to changing wheels. Mathiesen also hopes to give them an introduction to small engine repair with the use of an old lawn mower.

"It's really exciting to see the kids finish their projects so fast," he said.

The shop class has only one female participant and Mathiesen noted that the girl was a little bit nervous at the beginning of summer school.

"She's really doing well. When she's working, she doesn't even notice she's the only girl," he said.

...and the greasers became cops

Only the Class of '83 from Niles Township High School West would hold an 11-year class reunion. Well, we did, last weekend, and it was the tremendous success I'll bet all class reunions are (even the more traditional 10-year types).

The hours leading up to a reunion are sheer nostalgia for many. I spent an hour with the old yearbook brushing up on faces and names, jotted down the most recent pieces of gossip on who's doing what, and spent some time with the scrapbook I put together during the last — and best — year spent in high school.

Walking in the door was a mind-blower even with the hours spent preparing for that moment. Suddenly there was a sea of familiar faces, a little older (emphasize the little) but so much the same it was like walking into my senior prom.

CATCHING UP ON the past 11 years took up a good part of the evening (and it was complete with pictures of the kids, the house, the dog and the mother-in-law) but the best of all was finding out what happened to those former classmates.

The Class of '63 turned out some highly unusual and successful adults. Our emcee for the evening, the former school mascot who used to run around the football field in full Indian garb doing war dances, went on to work for major television stations, was a Chicago disk jockey and now is an agent and promoter for professional sports figures.

One woman is a famous clinical psychologist who was quoted last month in Time magazine. The football team quarterback now is a professional singer at Carnegie Hall. The little alto who sat two rows in front of me in choir just finished a lead role with the Chicago company of "Godspell." One of the guys I went to grade school with is a doctor living in a commune in Denmark.

We have our share of volunteers, nurses, lawyers, and even a few company executives — including a president. One of our ranks is a lumberjack, another lives in a hand-built cabin in the north woods with his family.

THE PERSON I voted for as "most changed" was Eddie Zastrow — one of the Morton Grove kids who was so shy I don't think he went out with anyone for all four high school years. Zastrow was one of the crewcut, athletic types who worked hard and got good grades. He walked into the reunion with shoulder-length hair, a down-to-the-chin mustache and the latest clothes. After a glorious career at Southern Illinois University, Ed bought a tavern and is living the single, carefree life.

Our former "greasers" were there and all are living relatively straight lives. It should be mentioned that our two top honcho greasers, feared by one and all in the early 60s, are now cops in the same towns they terrorized as youths. Fate must have controlled that.

It was a good night — one filled with smiles, laughter and exclamations for long-lost friends. Everyone parted promising to get in touch, throw a party or meet for lunch.

And if it doesn't happen, it's OK. We can talk and laugh about it at the 21st reunion in 1984.

School's out! What better way to spend summer vacation than at the local playground?

$1,600 motorcycle stolen

Burglars stole a motorcycle owned by William Carbonari, 1092 Seymour Ave., after entering an unlocked garage behind his home, according to Des Plaines police.

The cycle, a 1971 Harley-Davidson valued at $1,600 was stolen probably late Monday, according to reports.

A Des Plaines service station, Elmer's Shell, 607 E. Oakton St., also was burglarized late Sunday or early Monday, said police.

The burglars broke a window in a garage door to get inside. Taken was $135 in cash from a drawer in a metal cabinet that was forced open and another $320 in auto repair tools and accessories.

A desk drawer was also forced open during the burglary.

Several auto radios and wheels worth an unknown amount and $34 in cash were taken when burglars broke into Henry Sisk Datsun, 1141 Lee St.

The break-in was discovered Monday and the burglars apparently broke a window in the rear of the building and stole an undetermined number of auto radios and mag-type wheels.

The cash was taken from a drawer in the service area.

Park district's leadership program in progress

The first session of the Des Plaines Park District's increased leadership program now is in progress through July 12 for children from kindergarten through fourth grade.

The second session begins July 15 and ends Aug. 12. The specialized summer program will consist of hiking, canoeing, nature crafts, outdoor cooking and other nature activities. Children will have the opportunity to become more aware of the out of doors and nature that surrounds them.

Schedule for session one is: West Park, Monday and Wednesday, 9 a.m. to noon; Terrace School, Monday and Wednesday, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.; South Park, Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to noon; Orchard School, Tuesday and Thursday, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Oakton College survey of community planned

What kind of college do you want?

by KATHERINE BOYCE

This summer John Seitz may ask you what kind of campus you want at Oakton Community College.

Seitz, a professor at Oakton, is a special assistant to the college president this summer, and his job is to find out what kind of college campus the community wants.

During an Oakton site and facilities committee meeting Tuesday night Seitz said he will try to conduct as many personal interviews as possible in the next six weeks in the Maine and Niles Township area.

Seitz said his list of contacts will include municipal officials, school superintendents, clergymen, members of Chambers of Commerce, industrial associations, Parent Teacher Assn. councils, civic and service organizations, homeowners associations, and senior citizens groups. Seitz is an alderman in the seventh ward of Des Plaines and operates his own public relations firm in Mount Prospect.

THE OPINIONS that Seitz collects will be used to plan a permanent campus for Oakton. The college is located in temporary facilities in Morton Grove. Oakton is negotiating with the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese for purchase of a 170-acre site for the campus along the Des Plaines River between Golf and Central roads. College officials have said the purchase will probably be made this summer.

Oakton students and faculty will also be polled this summer on their ideas for the campus design. Architects are expected to complete a master plan for the college next winter. Construction is expected to begin next year and should be completed by late 1977.

The campus will be planned for the equivalent of 2,300 full-time students enrolled during the day. Oakton had the equivalent of 1,340 full-time day students last spring.

TENTATIVE PLANS for the campus include five academic areas, a library, laboratory area, administrative office area, physical education and food service areas and student center. Because the campus is located on the flood plain of the Des Plaines River, it will include a retention pond.

Seitz will ask members of the community about the importance of athletic fields, an art gallery, auditorium, gymnasium, performing arts center, swimming pool and television studio for the campus. He'll ask them what sort of career programs the college should offer and what kind of services the college should have for the community.

Seitz said he welcomes comments from anyone in Oakton's district. He can be reached at the college, 7906 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove, 967-5120.

River Trails hires 21 teachers

Twenty-one new teachers have been hired by the River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education for the 1974-75 school year. Three teachers also will return from leaves in September.

The following new teachers have been assigned to River Trails Junior High School: John Curtin, social studies; Janet Marshall, social studies; Laura Klichevsky, language arts; Janet White, two-thirds position as French teacher; Margaret Schmidt, one-third position speech and drama teacher, and John Dean McPherson, science.

Assigned to Park View School are Jessye White, first grade; Diane Doyle, kindergarten; Larry Lesperance, learning disability, and Myrna Wornick, second grade.

BOND SCHOOL will acquire Janet Leonard, intermediate level; Naomi Ikoma, primary level; Catherine Oyen, intermediate learning team, and Lynn Ann Hughes, upper intermediate.

Three teachers assigned to Euclid School are Susan Brown, first grade; Joy Sandlund, part-time kindergarten, and Florence Yaroch, third grade.

Joining the staff at Peeshenville School will be Brodino Luckie, second grade, and Anna Baghdadady, sixth grade.

Marlene Harrington has been assigned as a junior high teacher at River Road School and Norma Thomas has been hired as a school psychologist.

Teachers returning from leave include Jarda Martin, who has been assigned as a fifth grade teacher at Euclid; Janet Mirsky, assigned as a sixth grade teacher at Park View, and Diane Muehrer, who will teach speech and language development at River Road School.

Car wash Saturday

The Young Christians of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church will have a car wash Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., weather permitting. The car wash will be held at the west parking lot of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church located at Lee and Howard streets in Des Plaines. Cost of the car wash will be $1.

'I always knew she was a good teacher'

Husband and wife a happy team in the classroom too

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Eugene and Marcy Abrams have found a new dimension to their marriage — team teaching.

This summer the Abrams are teaching together at Oakton Community College. Their course, a study of British society during the Edwardian period, combines Mrs. Abrams' lectures on Edwardian literature with her husband's discussion of changes in social customs at the time.

"I always knew she was a good teacher," says Abrams about his wife's performance in class. He says the team teaching project has worked out even better than they expected. Both are learning more about each other's academic specialty and they've come to respect each other as teachers.

"You gain a lot of respect when you see your husband at work in the classroom," says Mrs. Abrams. "We become professionals in the classroom."

MRS. ABRAMS thinks husbands and wives working together "helps make a marriage stronger. It helps to talk to a husband that understands your problems and concerns." She says she feels "sorry for these women whose husbands come home from jobs in industry and don't understand what they're talking about or even care."

Mrs. Abrams sees husband and wife teams as "the coming trend in education. I would recommend it to all husbands and wives to work together once they get over the initial shock" of seeing each other all day. Most wives can't wait to get their husbands out of the house in the morning, she says, but once they get used to working together it's fun.

Abrams, who's the sociologist in the family, thinks team teaching is the modern relative of old-fashioned family structures where everybody works together. "It's getting back to the old idea of the family on the farm," he says.

The Abrams feel their academic specialties work well together in the classroom. Discussions of the changes in social, sexual and political customs from 1901 to 1910, after the reign of Queen Victoria, lead to discussions of literature including "The American" and "Portrait of a Lady" by Henry James and "The Worm in the Bud" by Ronald Pearsall.

THE 15 STUDENTS in the class receive three hours of college credit in humanities and three hours of credit in sociology. Episodes from the television series "Upstairs Downstairs," produced by the British Broadcasting Co., are also discussed in class. The series is based on the lives of a wealthy aristocratic family living during the Edwardian period.

"We personally loved the series and agreed it would be a great teaching tool," said Abrams. The series portrays social changes during the reign of Edward VIII such as the shift from the extended family to the nuclear family, the enhanced prestige of the middle class, and the rise of labor unions.

Abrams says it is important to social changes at the beginning of the Twentieth Century, because "if you can understand the changes of that period you can understand the changes today."

Maine Twp. may buy Park Ridge school

by STEVE BROWN

Maine Township officials are hoping to renew talks with Park Ridge school administrators in the near future over the possible acquisition of Oakton School, 2100 Oakton St., Park Ridge.

Discussion about buying the now vacant school started last January, but were delayed after the Park Ridge Park District called for a referendum to seek approval to sell bonds to buy the school.

Voters rejected the referendum proposal by a 2-to-1 margin on June 15, according to a park district official. Township authorities hope to convince Park Ridge Community School Dist. 64 to sell the building to them.

School officials met with Park Ridge authorities last Monday to discuss a developer's proposal for the construction of multiple-family housing on the land. A city council committee voted to recommend the city approve zoning which would allow 18 units per acre on the site. The developer had requested zoning to allow 98 units per acre. The school board plans to continue discussions on the topic July 8.

WITH THE DEFEAT of the park district referendum to acquire the school and the opposition of nearby residents to have the property rezoned for condominiums, the township now appears to be the most logical user of the property, said Margaret Wirsén, a township auditor.

The township has indicated it would spend at least $200,000 to purchase the school building. Township officials have made an offer to purchase the building and the 5½-acre site.

The school district also has received a $600,000 plus offer from a Wilmette developer. He has sought approval to develop multiple family housing on the land. A number of residents have raised objections to the proposal.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS have repeatedly stated they would like to sell the land to a developer so that some tax revenues would be realized from the property.

The township is presently renting office space and is seeking the school as a permanent headquarters and to house a group of new programs.

The township plans to use federal revenue sharing funds to purchase the building if the school district agrees to the sale. Mrs. Wirsén noted that by using the revenue sharing funds the township would need no referendum to complete the acquisition and there would be no tax increase.

THE OAKTON School is located close to the geographic center of the township and would provide sufficient space for expanded township services and related public service agencies.

She also noted that taxes collected by the township for the schools have amounted to more than $1 million and the school district has received a large portion of those funds.

No meetings between the school district and the township have been scheduled.

Renovation work at four schools set this summer

Extensive renovation and repair work at four schools in River Trails Dist. 26 will continue this summer in preparation for the upcoming school year.

A major portion of the work, including improvements designed to bring the schools into compliance with state life safety codes, will be done by private contractors who have been awarded bids by the board of education.

The schools slated for life safety work include Euclid, Feenhanville and Indian Grove elementary schools and River Trails Junior High School.

Contractors who will be working in the district include Edwin Anderson Construction Co., which was awarded a $49,725 bid to do general contracting work; Usher Brothers Heating Co., awarded a $70,145 bid; Klorek Electric Co., awarded a $15,725 bid, and Boice Roofing Co., awarded a $31,655 bid.

The companies will be working on various projects at the schools, including replacing thermostats and unit ventilators, installing trash compactors and removing incinerators, installing relief valves on water mains and installing new roofs.

IN ADDITION, Anderson Construction was awarded an additional $28,000 bid by the board to do earthwork and paving at Feenhanville, Euclid and River Trails Junior High.

The work was required in order to bring the schools into compliance with the state's codes. Failure to comply with state standards can be cause for closing the schools.

The board sold $250,000 in bonds last year to finance the cost of the project. Although exterior and interior lighting were to have been included in the life safety work, bids for this portion of the project were in excess of the architect's estimate, forcing postponement of the lighting work.

Drug rip-off kidnap victim found

by JOHN MAES

A Northbrook youth, kidnaped and beaten, apparently by members of a drug ring, was found wandering near Arlington Heights early Wednesday and set police on the trail that led to his abductors.

The abduction of the youth and another man was said to have stemmed from a dispute between two groups over the sale of up to 550 pounds of marijuana.

Cook County Sheriff's Police Wednesday charged four men with aggravated kidnapping and are seeking another man for questioning. They were identified as Charles Edward Lawson, 32; Gilbert M. Baker, 28; James R. Lewis, 31, and William McCowan, 30, all of Detroit, Mich.

THE YOUTH, Paul Babigian, 17, of 3851 Parkway Dr., Northbrook, was found early Wednesday wandering in the vicinity of Ill. Rtes. 68 and 63 near Arlington Heights.

He was noticed by Patrolman Ronald Knapp of the Arlington Heights Police Department, who alerted Sheriff's Police after picking up the youth. Babigian told the patrolman he had been kidnaped in Winnetka early Monday.

The other victim, James Cole, 22, of 318 Park Ave., Wilmette, was released unharmed Tuesday morning after a 48-hour ordeal in which both he and Babigian were bound, handcuffed and threatened, according to Warren Schwartz, a sheriff's investigator.

Cole apparently was a victim of mistaken identity when he was abducted from near his home late Sunday. Schwartz said Cole was mistaken for another member of the group involved in the narcotics deal who are being sought by police.

POLICE SAID the group who abducted Babigian and Cole were seeking revenge. The two groups met last week to arrange for the sale of marijuana and the buyers fled without paying for it.

The victims were taken to a house in Lake County near Ill. Rte. 43 north of Highland Park. The two described the house to police as being in a "heavily wooded area."

and became suspicious when they noticed two pieces of gas line nearby. Gas lines were cut to take the device from the auto owned by Aaron Baker, 501 Bolandra Ave., police said.

The tools were found in the men's home and they admitted the theft, police said.

Baker later identified the recovered items as his.

Largent and Matherson were released on bond and have been scheduled for an Aug. 8 appearance in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Schwartz said Babigian's brother George, 23, had been receiving telephone calls demanding ransoms of $20,000 to $50,000. The callers also demanded the other group members be turned over to them.

Babigian's brother reported Paul missing to sheriff's police Tuesday.

Police used bits of information from the two victims to find the house where they had been held.

HEAVILY ARMED Cook County Sheriff's police and FBI agents surrounded the Lake County house which was empty early Wednesday but arrested two Chicago area men as they approached the house at different times. They were later released without charges.

A stakeout of George Babigian's apartment led police to the arrests of the four Detroit men. Schwartz said the men were called in as a security force to guard Cole and Paul Babigian.

According to accounts given by Schwartz, the men were spotted Tuesday afternoon near the apartment and were followed to a parking garage in the Chicago loop. They were taken into custody about 7 p.m. as they left the auto and began to walk off in different directions.

Four handguns — including a .357 Magnum, a .45 caliber automatic, and two revolvers — were found in the auto. Two of the guns were believed stolen from Detroit.

POLICE SAID they learned during questioning, the Detroit men flew here Saturday at the request of a friend who was a member of the group allegedly responsible for the abductions.

One of them had $700 cash in his possession when the group was nabbed.

Lawson, Baker, Lewis and McCowan were being held pending a hearing today in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Charge pair stripped auto

Two men have been charged with the theft of a car and various tools earlier this week from an auto owned by a Des Plaines man.

Arrested Monday were Ernest Largent, 19, and James Matherson, 20, both of 285 Bellaire Ave., Des Plaines. Police charged both with trespass to a vehicle and theft.

According to reports, police received a tip that two men were working on an auto near where the resident's car was entered late Sunday or early Monday.

Police found the two men near the auto

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referenda should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud. THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunction against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

by STEVE FORSYTH
SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

Funeral home plea denied; Zettek urges second try

by JERRY THOMAS

The Elk Grove Village Board turned down a resident's petition to rezone his property to allow construction of a funeral home, but advised him to try again.

Village Pres. Charles Zettek's vote, to concur with the plan commission's recommendation to deny the petitioner office transitional zoning, broke a tie among board members split 3-3 over the issue Tuesday night.

Zettek said he did not agree with any of the plan commission's three points of argument against the funeral home, but was voting against the petition because approval could influence pending litigation in another case.

He complimented Anthony Maiorillo for a good plan and said he regretted voting against the request because he believed a funeral home was needed. Elk Grove Village does not have a funeral home at this time.

ZETTEK ADVISED the funeral director to seek a special use zoning variation from the plan commission. He noted that the recommendation to deny the petition included a remark that several plan commissioners would vote for a special use permit and had voted against the request for office zoning, fearing it would permit other use.

Maiorillo's plans called for a two-story brick building with mansard roof, underground basement and garage, first floor storage, work areas and two chapels. The building would have family living quarters on the top floor. A parking lot for 75 cars and landscaping of the 47,722-square-foot lot at Arlington Heights Road and Clearmont Drive are also planned. Maiorillo had planned to tear down an existing frame house and sheds after the new building was constructed.

During the public hearing, residents objecting to the funeral home said development of the site would spoil the open view, would create traffic problems and lead to further encroachment of business in a residential area. More than 50 residents signed petitions objecting to the funeral home.

THE LEGAL SUIT Zettek referred to during Tuesday's meeting was placed against the village by Robert Fleming, Elk Grove Village Zoning Board of Appeals chairman.

Fleming filed a suit in Cook County Circuit Court in March, suing both the village and Centex Homes Corp. after the village turned down his petition for rezoning land he owns at Arlington Heights Road and Oakwood Drive.

Fleming, who purchased a building used by the Centex firm as an office, requested the plan commission approve rezoning the residential site to office transitional. During hearings, Fleming said he wanted to use the building with no expansions for his real estate and insurance business. The building, zoned residential, adjoins a shopping center and bowling alley and had been used by Centex as an office for 15 years, Fleming contended.

Village officials have argued that the building promised to return the property to residential use eventually.

Closed-door meet on faulty units

Furnace firm looking for 'conclusion'

by BOB GALLAS

An official of the company that manufactured Elk Grove Village furnaces found to be defective told Building Director Thomas Rettenbacher Wednesday his firm wants to "bring the problem to a conclusion."

Frank Green, sales manager for Johnson Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio, met with Rettenbacher and R. B. Clement, representative of Excelsior Steel Furnace Co. of Chicago, which is the major distributor of Johnson furnaces in the Midwest.

Rettenbacher termed the closed-door meeting a "fact-finding mission" on the part of the Johnson Corp. which produced no new information.

The Herald disclosed last week that 1,700 or more homes in the village may have furnaces with potentially dangerous heat exchangers, which are cracking and corroding, allowing toxic fumes to escape into the heating systems.

RETTENBACHER SAID that Green did not offer any solutions to the problem or make any commitments for his company, nor did he give any causes for the problem with the heat exchangers.

Rettenbacher said Green cited an engineering report paid for by his company last year, which cited improper installations of Johnson furnaces in the village which do not allow for adequate combustion air and venting.

According to Rettenbacher, Green cited the report several times, but would not say the installation problems were the cause of the heat exchanger failures but were a "contributing factor."

Green left immediately following the meeting with Rettenbacher for another appointment and was not available for comment.

ACCORDING TO Rettenbacher, no plans were made for further meetings with Green or Clement.

The first part of a report expected to pinpoint the cause of the heat exchanger failure should be completed Tuesday, according to Rettenbacher. The report, being prepared by an outside consultant hired by the village, will include a chemical analysis of faulty heat exchangers taken from Elk Grove Village homes.

Fifty village furnaces have been inspected by building department inspectors since last week. Of the 50, five were found to have heat exchangers which are definitely defective. Thirty-one others are what Rettenbacher termed as "doubtful," but only a careful examination of the furnace by a heating contractor could tell if the unit is faulty for sure.

Some 136 village residents have called to take advantage of free furnace inspections offered by the village. Village inspectors are booked through July 15 to make the inspections. The village is asking that residents wait until after the report due Tuesday is in before calling to make an appointment, but will inspect homes for those who want the inspection immediately.

Rettenbacher said that after the report determines what chemicals are causing the rapid deterioration of the heat exchangers, the next step will be to determine what factor is producing the chemical.

Cafe blaze damage estimate $25,000

Damage in Tuesday's fire at Mr. Edward's Restaurant, 1000 S. Busse Rd., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, has been estimated at $25,000.

Chief Lawrence A. Pairitz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department Wednesday said the fire's origin has been traced to the storage of combustible materials near some infrared lights which had been left on after the restaurant had closed late Monday. The fire was reported at 12:48 a.m. Tuesday and most of the damage was to the kitchen area.

No one was injured in the blaze, which was fought by both the Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village fire departments.

Police find sailboat day after its theft

A missing 16-foot sailboat was found by Elk Grove Village police the day after it was reported stolen from Cosman Lake in Elk Grove Village.

According to police, Ralph Cuhlman, 640 Bergundy St., Elk Grove Village, reported his sailboat was missing from its berth at the lake.

Cuhlman told police Tuesday the boat was not on the lake and had been seen for the last time early in the evening Monday.

Police checking the lake area Wednesday found the boat tied to a pier.

Nearly 3,500 enroll in summer school

A variety of courses from sailing and horseback riding to camping and archaeology have enticed almost 3,500 youngsters this year to take part in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 summer school classes.

Enrollment in this year's summer classes is the second highest ever, surpassed only by last year's record enrollment of about 3,700, said Philip Thornton, summer school director.

Thornton added that attendance this summer might have broken last year's record, but was held down because two junior high schools, Grove and Dempster, are undergoing remodeling and are closed to classes.

More than 350 courses are being offered this summer at 15 buildings throughout the district, which covers parts of Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines.

AGAIN, ARTS AND crafts classes are most popular, according to Thornton, along with model building, typing and gymnastics for girls.

Several courses are being offered for the first time this summer. These include sailing, yoga and bicycle safety.

Other popular classes being offered include archaeology, fishing, tennis, dance, horseback riding, cooking for boys, band, campcraft, cooking with math, foods and needlecraft, exploring and investigating, and the "wonderful world of make believe."

Thornton attributed the increased interest in summer school during the past few years to individual building curriculums, which have been developed. Before, identical courses had been offered in standard school subjects at every district building.

Now, in addition to emphasis on traditional developmental skills and enrichment courses, many courses are offered because of high student, or teacher interest, according to Thornton.

Students in the district can attend any school as long as they provide their own transportation, but the large majority are attending at their usual or closest school, according to Thornton.

IN ADDITION TO the wide variety of classes, several special activity days are planned at various schools such as a patriotic day, a watermelon day and bike dress up day.

Offered for the first time this summer are special preschool classes for youngsters "who need special enrichment" before entering kindergarten next fall, according to Thornton.

While summer school attendance remains high, the price of summer school went down this year, due to the tremendous attendance according to Thornton.

Cost for the session, which runs from June 24 to Aug. 2, went from $5 to $4.

Village board wrapup

Pipeline going through village

The West Shore Pipeline Co. of Chicago will construct a 16-inch petroleum products pipeline along Ill. Rte. 63 through Elk Grove Village.

The pipeline will be linked to a section of the existing line between the Chicago area and the Green Bay, Wis., area served by the firm.

The route of the proposed line is from Thorndale Avenue and Higgins Road to the West Shore Pipe Line Des Plaines station located near the Northwest Tollway at Busse Road.

Village trustees Tuesday signed an agreement with the company to allow the construction but suggested a change in the construction proposal.

Trustee Mike Tosto, an underground construction worker, disagreed with the firm's proposal to use loose dirt as pipe backfill and insisted on the use of sandbag fill to ensure a secure base for the pipeline.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett and W. D. Lomax, construction superintendent for the petroleum firm, have approved security and safety block valve systems and other safeguards for testing and maintaining of the line.

A monitoring system will be in effect when the line is in operation.

A schedule of fees to the village fire department have been agreed upon in the event fire protection or service is needed.

The construction of the line on the east side of Rte. 63 will start immediately and may disrupt traffic slightly. The company has agreed to keep the highway open to two-way traffic at all times.

Hero, 14, commended

Elk Grove Village trustees Tuesday adopted a resolution commending Daniel Bytnar, 14, of Elk Grove Village for saving a companion from drowning after a boating accident on Cosman Lake, April 17.

Village President Charles Zetek said Bytnar is to be commended for his mental alertness and his unselfish act of human kindness that saved a life.

Restaurant annexed

The Navarone Steak House, located on a five-acre tract east of Busse Road and south of Higgins Road, was annexed to Elk Grove Village Tuesday.

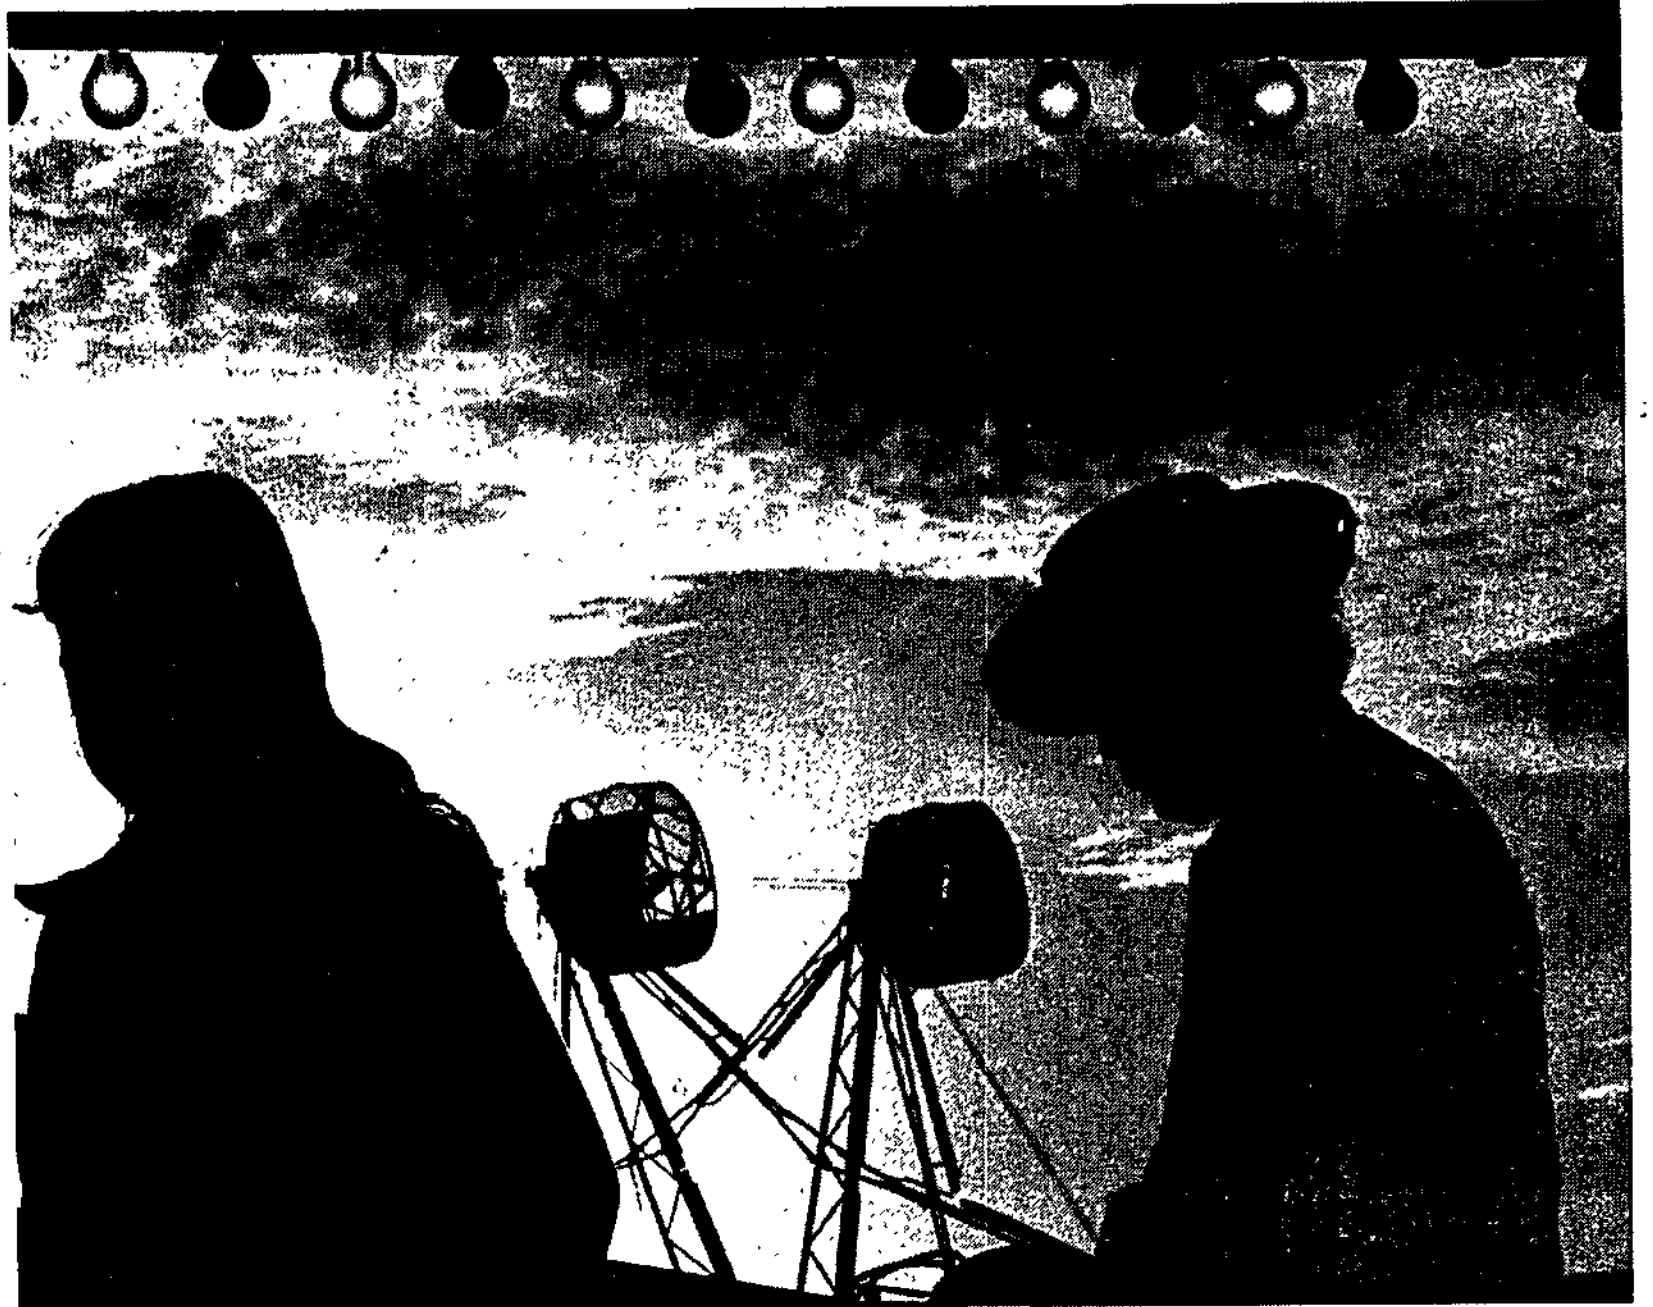

Annexation of the parcel is consistent with a preannexation agreement adopted between the village and Navarone owners in April of 1970. The village has provided water to the restaurant since that date.

Annexation was not possible then because the site was not contiguous to the village.

Street light pact

Village officials signed a contract with Commonwealth Edison Co. for the installation of 10 street lights in the Centex Industrial Park at an installation cost of $13,508 and monthly maintenance and energy cost of $127.23.

The installation cost will be reimbursed to the village by developers.

Drug rip-off motive for abduction

Kidnap victim found in Arlington

by JOHN MAES

and JOE SWICKARD

A Northbrook youth, kidnaped and beaten, apparently by members of a drug ring, was found wandering near Arlington Heights early Wednesday and set police on the trail that led to his abductors.

The abduction of the youth and another man was said to have stemmed from a dispute between two groups over the sale of up to 500 pounds of marijuana.

Cook County Sheriff's Police Wednesday charged four men with aggravated kidnapping and are seeking another man for questioning. They were identified as Charles Edward Lawson, 32; Gilbert M. Baker, 28; James R. Lewis, 31, and William McCowan, 30, all of Detroit, Mich.

THE YOUTH, Paul Babigian, 17, of 3854 Parkway Dr., Northbrook, was found early Wednesday wandering in the vicinity of Ill. Rtes. 58 and 63 near Arlington Heights.

He was noticed by Patrolman Ronald Knapp of the Arlington Heights Police Department, who alerted Sheriff's Police after picking up the youth. Babigian told the patrolman he had been kidnaped in Winnetka early Monday.

The other victim, James Cole, 22, of 318 Park Ave., Wilmette, was released unharmed Tuesday morning after a 48-hour ordeal in which both he and Babigian were bound, handcuffed and threatened, according to Warren Schwartz, a sheriff's investigator.

Cole apparently was a victim of mistaken identity when he was abducted from near his home late Sunday.

Schwartz said Cole was mistaken for another member of the group involved in the narcotics deal who are being sought by police.

Board must decide fate of sixth high school

Is control of new school worth $4.6 million to board?
Education Today, Page 9.

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education must decide in August whether to give up control of construction of its sixth high school in exchange for $4.6 million.

The Illinois Capital Development Board has authorized a grant of $4.6 million to help with construction of the school, which is planned for the Winston Park subdivision in Palatine. However, in order to collect the money, Dist. 211 must turn over all supervision of construction to the Capital Development Board.

In addition, according to architect Ken Unteed, speaking at a board committee meeting Tuesday, the district may still have to hold a referendum to raise an additional $3 million for the sixth high school because the ICDB may not have the $4.6 million available before construction starts on the project.

THE DISTRICT HAS $9.5 million available for the sixth high school from a bond issue passed in 1970. However, because of inflation, projected costs of the building have risen to $12.5 million. The district has been discussing an October referendum to raise the additional $3 million.

Unteed explained that when the ICDB agrees to make funds available for a project, it sets that project on a priority list with all other approved projects. Funds appropriated by the Illinois General Assembly are then spent on projects in priority order until they are exhausted.

Unteed said that right now, Dist. 211 "stands about in the middle of the 1975 appropriation," but may move up or down on the priority list. The final appropriation will not be known until August, when the governor will have to sign or veto all appropriation bills.

"Though you have been approved, you really don't know if there is money in the state treasury for the project," Unteed said. He added that because of that doubt, the district may have to have a referendum, have the ICDB build the school, and then wait to be reimbursed for the $4.6 million.

HOWEVER, UNTEED said that in order to qualify for the $4.6 million when over it is paid, the district must turn over construction of the building to the state. At that point, he said, architect's plans will have to be approved by the state and all supervision of the building will be done by the state.

Unteed said the district's plans for the sixth high school, which would be built to accommodate 3,000 students, exceed the state's requirements for construction. However, he said the district could build the school as planned with "enrichment" through local funds if the state agrees.

As an example of an "enrichment," Unteed said present plans call for folding bleachers in the gymnasium of the sixth high school, but the state guidelines do not allow for folding bleachers. "In order to put folding bleachers in, we would have to use enrichment funds," Unteed said, adding that the state would have to agree that the expense was "reasonable."

BOARD MEMBERS expressed concern about the loss of control of construction, recalling that Schaumburg High School was built with state supervision and some areas of the building, including the cafeteria, are too small to accommodate the student body. The board is considering including an addition to Schaumburg as part of an October referendum.

In addition, Marvin Plate, director of planning and research for the district, said construction under the ICDB probably will delay construction of the building. "There is no question but that we'll be in faster if we don't go with the ICDB," Plate said. The district hopes to have the sixth school completed by January 1977, although Unteed said it might not be ready until September 1977.

Board member Edward Perry said, "I don't know if we should monkey with the Capital Development Board because I have serious doubts whether this community will be better off if we do."

UNTEED SAID HE will meet with representatives of the ICDB on July 25 on the design of the building and that by the first week in August "we should know if you can live with the control."

Other items the board agreed to discuss in early August, all relating to building construction and a possible October referendum, include a report on the feasibility of renovating Palatine High School, and reports on costs for building auditoriums for Fremd and Conant high schools, for swimming pools at all the district's schools, and for an addition to Schaumburg.

Unteed said he is studying Palatine High School to see what it will cost to "keep the building usable" compared to what it might cost to replace it. The first section of Palatine was built in 1928 and board members and school officials have agreed the building needs a major renovation. The board has discussed closing the school for a year after the sixth high school is built in order to do the necessary work.

Board member Anna Countryman said she is concerned about restoring Palatine because "I know a district which has an old high school on a little piece of land and they just keep pouring money into it. I think we have to ask if this is really what we want to do."

Palatine High School is built on 12 acres of land, compared to the other district schools which are built on at least 40 acres.

Arlington gives Cougars' plan cool reception

The Arlington Heights Village Board's finance committee has turned an ice cold shoulder to a proposal to use municipal funds for a 10,000-seat arena for the Chicago Cougars professional hockey team.

Century Leisure Sports Ltd., Des Plaines based agents for the Cougars, had approached Arlington Heights officials with a plan to use municipal revenue bonds to build the arena, which the Cougars would use until a planned 18,000-seat stadium in Rosemont is constructed.

But Trustee Frank Palmatier, finance committee chairman, said Tuesday night that the village could end up liable for the bonds if the dummy corporation that would be created to operate the facility went bankrupt.

Under the Century Leisure Sports Ltd. proposal, a non-profit corporation would be created to own the ice rink and lease it to the village, which in turn would have to sub-lease it to the Cougars or some other user.

"THE SECURITY for the bonds is the lease between the village and the not-for-profit corporation, and there could be a tax liability if the corporation goes broke," Palmatier said.

Neither the Cougars, nor Century Leisure Sports Ltd. were represented at the meeting Tuesday night.

Palmatier said the proposal to use municipal bonds to build the ice arena was significantly different from a recent village board measure approving municipal bond financing for Northwest Community Hospital.

"The hospital has an established pattern of income and a history of operation" so that there is no tax liability to the village through a dummy corporation lease, he said.

Officials in Des Plaines and Elk Grove Village also have been approached by agents about a temporary Cougar arena. And a proposal also has been made to the suburb of Niles, according to Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

The trustees were openly skeptical of the Cougar organization's need for an interim ice arena when it already has announced plans for the giant new stadium on Mannheim Road in Rosemont.

Doubts about who would use the temporary ice rink after the Cougars leave also were expressed.

'I always knew she was a good teacher'

Husband and wife a happy team in the classroom too

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Eugene and Marcy Abrams have found a new dimension to their marriage — team teaching.

This summer the Abrams are teaching together at Oakton Community College. Their course, a study of British society during the Edwardian period, combines Mrs. Abrams' lectures on Edwardian literature with her husband's discussion of changes in social customs at the time.

"I always knew she was a good teacher," says Abrams about his wife's performance in class. He says the team teaching project has worked out even better than they expected. Both are learning more about each other's academic specialty and they've come to respect each other as teachers.

"You gain a lot of respect when you see your husband at work in the classroom," says Mrs. Abrams. "We become professionals in the classroom."

MRS. ABRAMS thinks husbands and wives working together "helps make a marriage stronger. It helps to talk to a husband that understands your problems and concerns." She says she feels "sorry for these women whose husbands come home from jobs in industry and don't understand what they're talking about or even care."

Mrs. Abrams sees husband and wife teams as "the coming trend in education. I would recommend it to all husbands and wives to work together once they get over the initial shock" of seeing each other all day. Most wives can't wait to get their husbands out of the house in the morning, she says, but once they get used to working together it's fun. Abrams, who's the sociologist in the family, thinks team teaching is the modern relative of old-fashioned family structures where everybody works together. "It's getting back to the old idea of the family on the farm," he says.

The Abrams feel their academic specialties work well together in the classroom. Discussions of the changes in social, sexual and political customs from 1901 to 1910, after the reign of Queen Victoria, lead to discussions of literature including "The American" and "Portrait of a Lady" by Henry James and "The Worm in the Bud" by Ronald Peersail.

THE 15 STUDENTS in the class receive three hours of college credit in humanities and three hours of credit in sociology. Episodes from the television series "Upstairs Downstairs," produced by the British Broadcasting Co., are also discussed in class. The series is based on the lives of a wealthy aristocratic family living during the Edwardian period.

"We personally loved the series and agreed it would be a great teaching tool," said Abrams. The series portrays social changes during the reign of Edward VIII such as the shift from the extended family to the nuclear family, the enhanced prestige of the middle class, and the rise of labor unions.

Abrams says it is important to social changes at the beginning of the Twentieth Century, because "if you can understand the changes of that period you can understand the changes today."

Schools hear legal view on open meets

School boards can go into closed meetings when personnel are being evaluated and negative comments are being presented, according to opinions presented at the meeting conducted by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 about the Illinois Open Meetings Act.

Frank Hines, Dist. 54 attorney, Tuesday night presented the legal opinion of Leo James Athias, Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction general counsel. Athias, spoke about the section of the Open Meetings law pertaining to closed meetings for matters about the appointment, employment or dismissal of an employee or officer. He said the "continuing relationship between an employer and employee," which necessitates evaluating personnel where negative opinions about the employee may be expressed merits a closed session.

ATHIAS' OPINION supersedes that of Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott on matters pertaining to school boards, until the issue is tested in the courts, Hines said. The likelihood of a school board being brought to court for violating the Open Meetings Law, was minimal, he added.

Ronald Booth, from the Illinois Association of School Boards, also presented views concerning the law in relation to school boards. The intent of the board in calling a closed meeting is the important legal determination of guilt, he said.

If discussion of an employee could be detrimental to him, the board should go into executive session in fairness to the employee, Booth said.

Both Hines and Booth said there are broad "gray areas" within the law that have not been tested. Sabbaticals and general leaves of absence were pointed out as two such areas. They stressed that the individual to be discussed should be protected.

Booth said a board cannot technically go into executive session to discuss board appointments or board conflicts.

However, if a consultant is called in about differences between board members, an executive session may be held with him, he said.

Hines said school boards should be as specific as possible when they call the motion for executive session. Currently, Dist. 54 classifies all discussion concerning employees under "personnel." Hines suggested that "evaluation, salary discussion," or other more specific terms be noted where applicable in the future.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $300,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referendum should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud. THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunctions against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. ## Board may be enlarged from present 9 members

by STEVE FORSYTH
SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

Rolling Meadows project

100 from Palanois Park protest garbage incinerator

Rolling Meadows to buy site for incinerator

The purchase of 6.71 acres of land near Rohlwing Road and Northwest Highway, which could be the site of a refuse incinerator, has been authorized by the Rolling Meadows City Council.

In authorizing the $300,000 purchase Tuesday, the council stipulated the purchase will be contingent on the availability of financing, possibly through the issuance of revenue bonds.

The city will be required to pay $30,000 of the cost within ten days. There was some concern Tuesday among aldermen about whether funds will be available for the purchase. The city currently is attempting to contain expenditures as long as the current delay in collection of real estate taxes in Cook County continues.

Mayor Roland Meyer said following the approval Tuesday that the city may be able to sell revenue bonds to collect funds for the purchase.

BONDS MAY BE sold without the approval of a public referendum under a new state statute which allows cities and villages to go into bonded indebtedness up to .5 per cent of their total assessed valuation, Meyer said.

With the city's assessed valuation at about $85 million, Meyer said the city could issue $425,000 in bonds for the purchase if the bonding is approved. Meyer said a legal firm studying the proposal has said the bonding method has been used by park districts but it has not yet decided if it will approve the bonding method for the city.

The bonds are currently carrying about a 6.5 per cent interest rate, Meyer said.

Meyer said the city will be looking for ways to finance the land purchase without directly increasing taxes of residents. He said if the bond sale could not be made, the city could consider alternative fund raising methods, such as increasing (Continued on Page 6)

More than 100 residents of Palatine's Palanois Park area Wednesday night protested the proposed building of a garbage incinerator in Rolling Meadows.

Residents engaged in a heated question-and-answer session at Christ Lutheran Church in Palatine with James Stewart, a representative of Basic Engineering Inc., Chicago. The firm was approached by Rolling Meadows officials for suggested incinerator plants.

Residents cut short Stewart's presentation explaining the function of a 24-hour, 60 by 80-foot incinerator that could service the garbage loads of four suburbs with a 240-ton daily capacity.

THE RESIDENTS inquired as to the pollution odor hazards, heavy traffic conditions, and unwanted health conditions that could result from an incinerator in the area.

"All I know is if that thing is across the way from our homes and it's burning garbage, there are going to be fumes and trucks and a garbage backlog that we don't want," said one resident.

Grace Meller, 203 S. Greenwood, said, "If Rolling Meadows feels that an incinerator is the only answer to its garbage problems than they can build it in the middle of their own town."

After touring paper-and wood-burning incinerators in Chicago on Wednesday with Stewart, Harold Quist, head of the homeowners' protest, said he was not convinced the proposed incinerator would serve the purpose intended.

"The incinerator would be a test at best. I've talked to government engineers who are not impressed with such an incinerator and I would not want it near my own home," Quist said.

QUIST REPORTED that after bringing the homeowners' objections to the Rolling Meadows City Council, he did not receive a favorable reaction and was told to get the facts.

"With Mr. Stewart here tonight we've heard both sides of the story, we've got the facts and we still don't want the incinerator built near our homes," said Quist summing up residents' feelings.

Robert Jewett, Palatine environmental control commission member, reported to the residents that the Palatine police chief and the Palatine Health Department are studying the situation and that the village will help to assist the residents in their protest.

The residents plan to petition the Palatine Village Board, protesting the incinerator.

New in-district transfer policy weighed by schools

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education is developing guidelines to be used to determine whether children may transfer from one district to another, because of an increase in requests by parents.

About 14 or 15 parents have requested transfers this school year compared with one three years ago.

Board member Everett Charlter will be working on a rough draft of the proposed guidelines with Marion Omiatek, assistant superintendent for instruction. A proposal is expected at the Aug. 14 board meeting.

"We have to have some guidelines so that we don't become contradictory," Charlter said. "We should do something before we start getting a tremendous amount of requests," he added later.

SOME OF THE transfer requests for educational purposes come from the administrative and are generally passed by the school board as being "for the child's best interests."

Other requests, because of "hardships," come from parents. Some parents want all their children in the same elementary or junior high school. Other parents, who work, want their children close to the babysitter or grandmother. Some of these requests are granted, but others are not.

The school board in the past has decided individual cases on the basis of hardship, which means that a mother who is the sole support of her family will generally be able to transfer her children so that they are close to a babysitter or baby sitting service. Transportation to and from the new school is not provided by the school district.

RECENTLY, however, the board has received a large number of requests from families in which the mother works but isn't the sole support. The board has been wrestling with the question that situation raises for the past few weeks and is still looking for an answer.

"How you define that line for hardship is the problem," said Supt. Frank Whiteley. "We can write policy if we know what you consider hardship," he added a little later.

The district's former policy generally left the matter up to the board, which considered requests on "individual merits." "I've certainly got to admit the policy was pretty broad," said board member J. Leslie Ehringer.

AT THE LAST board meeting, board members split on one of the requests — a parent who wanted her child to be close to its grandmother because she worked. Whiteley pointed out that finding a competent babysitter could be a "pretty serious" problem for some, and therefore could fit under the "hardship" category.

Surrounding districts have an "open policy" on transferring students, Omiatek said. Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 and Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 "accept almost any reason," Omiatek said. "It did not seem a problem for them. Even babysitting is accepted."

Uneven growth patterns have ended up with unusual boundaries. In some cases, students from northeastern Palatine are bused to Rolling Meadows. Groups of youngsters who live within walking distance of Plum Grove Junior High School are going to be shipped to Carl Sandburg Junior High School next fall.

Jaycee sports jamboree set Saturday

The annual Junior Sports Jamboree, sponsored by the Palatine Park District and Palatine Jaycees, is scheduled Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Ost football field behind Palatine High School.

Boys and girls 10-15 years of age can register for the activities Saturday before 9 a.m. at the Ost field.

A midget team for 10 and 11-year-olds, a junior team for 12 and 13-year-olds, and an intermediate team for 14 and 15-year-olds will participate in various competitive activities.

Events will include a 50, 100 and 220-yard dash; an 880-yard run and a mile run, a 440-yard relay, long jumps and high jumps.

Winners will go to the regional meet in July which will be conducted by the North Region of the Illinois Jaycees.

Christ Lutheran sets annual Bible School

Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine, will conduct its annual Vacation Bible School July 22-Aug. 4 from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m.

Children who are 3 years old through seventh graders can attend this year's program, "God's People Today," with the main theme being "Doing for Others."

Dog obedience class registration open

Registration remains open in the Salt Creek Park District's dog obedience class. The six-week class is held from 8 to 9 p.m. Mondays at Rose Park fieldhouse, 530 S. Williams.

All dogs must be at least 6 months old. Fee is $9. For further information contact the district at 259-6880.

High school No. 6's fate to be decided

Is control of new school worth $4.6 million to board? Education Today, Page 9.

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 211 Board of Education must decide in August whether to give up control of construction of its sixth high school in exchange for $4.6 million.

The Illinois Capital Development Board has authorized a grant of $4.6 million to help with construction of the school, which is planned for the Winston Park subdivision in Palatine. However, in order to collect the money, Dist. 211 must turn over all supervision of construction to the Capital Development Board.

In addition, according to architect Ken Unteed, speaking at a board committee meeting Tuesday, the district may still have to hold a referendum to raise an additional $3 million for the sixth high school because the ICDB may not have the $4.6 million available before construction starts on the project.

THE DISTRICT HAS $9.5 million available for the sixth high school from a bond issue passed in 1970. However, because of inflation, projected costs of the building have risen to $12.5 million. The district has been discussing an October referendum to raise the additional $3 million.

Unteed explained that when the ICDB agrees to make funds available for a project, it sets that project on a priority list with all other approved projects. Funds appropriated by the Illinois General Assembly are then spent on projects in priority order until they are exhausted.

Unteed said that right now, Dist. 211 "stands about in the middle of the 1975 appropriation," but may move up or down on the priority list. The final appropriation will not be known until August, when the governor will have to sign or veto all appropriation bills.

"Though you have been approved, you really don't know if there is money in the state treasury for the project," Unteed said. He added that because of that doubt, the district may have to have a referendum, have the ICDB build the school, and then wait to be reimbursed for the $4.6 million.

HOWEVER, UNTEED said that in order to qualify for the $4.6 million whenever it is paid, the district must turn over construction of the building to the state. At that point, he said, architect's plans will have to be approved by the state and all supervision of the building will be done by the state.

Unteed said the district's plans for the sixth high school, which would be built to accommodate 3,000 students, exceed the state's requirements for construction. However, he said the district could build the school as planned with "enrichment" through local funds if the state agrees.

As an example of an "enrichment," Unteed said present plans call for folding bleachers in the gymnasium of the sixth high school, but the state guidelines do not allow for folding bleachers. "In order to put folding bleachers in, we would have to use enrichment funds," Unteed said, adding that the state would have to agree that the expense was "reasonable."

BOARD MEMBERS expressed concern about the loss of control of construction, recalling that Schaumburg High School was built with state supervision and some areas of the building, including the (Continued on Page 5)

Schools cut speaker service funds

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 education committee voted to cut off funds to the volunteer service bureau which has provided speakers for the district's classrooms.

The committee Tuesday night passed a resolution not to donate the requested $2,000 to the Volunteer Service Bureau next school year. Marion Omlatek, assistant superintendent of instruction, told the committee that the job is being taken over by school PTA volunteer coordinators and the schools themselves.

Two years ago, the Volunteer Service Bureau provided 3,506 hours of speakers. This past year, it provided only 52 speakers, he said. The others were found by schools and PTAs.

A final decision will be made at the Dist. 15 board meeting scheduled for July 10.

VOTING AGAINST the donation were board members Everett Charlier and Robert Bliss. "I'd rather see that the money is spent in our own district for volunteers," Charlier said.

Chairman J. Leslie Ehringer voted in favor of giving the bureau $1,000 for the coming year. "I'm opposed to total withdrawal," he said. He indicated that he supported a phasing out of the district's donations instead of simply cutting off funds.

"They may be pretty good help to some other districts than ours," Ehringer said. He indicated that he didn't want to put the bureau in a financially difficult position.

The cut off of funds didn't come as a surprise to the bureau's executive director, Jane Weakley. "We were expecting it," she said. She added that the bureau hopes to make up the loss by asking area industries for donations.

cafeteria, are too small to accommodate the student body. The board is considering including an addition to Schaumburg as part of an October referendum.

In addition, Marvin Plate, director of planning and research for the district, said construction under the ICDB probably will delay construction of the building. "There is no question but that we'll be in faster if we don't go with the ICDB," Plate said. The district hopes to have the sixth school completed by January 1977, although Unteet said it might not be ready until September 1977.

Board member Edward Perry said, "I don't know if we should monkey with the Capital Development Board because I have serious doubts whether this community will be better off if we do."

UNTEET SAID HE will meet with representatives of the ICDB on July 25 on the design of the building and that by the first week in August "we should know if you can live with the control."

Other items the board agreed to discuss in early August, all relating to building construction and a possible October referendum, include a report on the feasibility of renovating Palatine High School, and reports on costs for building auditoriums for Fremd and Conant high schools, for swimming pools at all the district's schools, and for an addition to Schaumburg.

Unteet said he is studying Palatine High School to see what it will cost to "keep the building usable" compared to what it might cost to replace it. The first section of Palatine was built in 1928 and board members and school officials have agreed the building needs a major renovation. The board has discussed closing the school for a year after the sixth high school is built in order to do the necessary work.

Board member Anna Countryman said she is concerned about restoring Palatine because "I know a district which has an old high school on a little piece of land and they just keep pouring money into it. I think we have to ask if this is really what we want to do."

Palatine High School is built on 12 acres of land, compared to the other district schools which are built on at least 40 acres.

Home businesses deadline takes effect Monday

Monday is the deadline for eliminating businesses operating from wood-framed homes in Palatine but the deadline is not expected to be enforced immediately.

No action has been taken to extend the deadline on business use of single-family homes by the Palatine Village Board.

Under the terms of an amortization agreement adopted in 1967 and extended in 1972, buildings constructed and zoned for single-family use but converted into a business use are to be phased out by July 1. The deadline on business use of frame homes is Monday and the deadline on business use of brick homes is Jan. 1, 1978.

The building and zoning department is currently conducting a survey of all non-conforming parcels in the downtown area and several other sections of Palatine including land along Northwest Highway, the Brandt property in southern Palatine and the Keltstad Industrial Park. The field work has been completed and now it is just a matter of tabulating the information, according to a spokesman for the department.

There also are several legal questions on exactly what constitutes a nonconforming use to be cleared up. A meeting between the village attorney and members of the building department is tentatively scheduled for next week.

Trustee Robert J. Guss said the board would need both the attorney's opinion and the survey before it made a decision on enforcing the amortization agreement or extending it again.

Parks plan concert, pool party Sunday

The Palatine Park District will sponsor the season's first outdoor concert and pool party, "Summer Daze," Sunday at Community Park, 262 E. Palatine Rd.

The event, from 9 to 11 p.m., will include music by the group Duck Soup from 9 to 10:30 p.m. Free swimming, water volleyball, and a greased watermelon contest will also be held. Free hot dogs and beverages will be served to all teenagers.

Pool passes are not required although females are required to wear bathing caps in the pool.

In case of rain, "Summer Daze" will be rescheduled for Monday.

Missourian pastor speaking at revival

The First Baptist Church of Palatine, 1023 E. Palatine Rd., will sponsor revivals each Sunday through Friday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Bob Wernor, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ferguson, Mo., and former associate of evangelist Billy Graham, will be a guest speaker at this week's revivals.

The Youth Music Group from the Ferguson First Baptist Church, composed of high school and college aged singers, also will perform.

Susquehanna graduate

Jarl R. Woyant, 259 Norman Dr., received a bachelor of science degree in marketing and management from Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa.

Woyant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Woyant, was active in Susquehanna's orchestra, Jazz Ensemble and SU Singers. He was also head resident of his dormitory. Woyant graduated from Palatine High School.

Revised Old Madrid plans await zoners' OK tonight

Revised plans for the development of the Old Madrid complex at Northwest Highway and Hicks Road are expected to be approved by the Palatine Zoning Board of Appeals tonight.

The zoning board will make its decision at 9 p.m. after one hour of questions. The meeting will be held at the Slade Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St.

Sellergren Co., Inc. has requested approval to change the plans for development of the 66-acre parcel to include:

- An 18-acre shopping center with a Woolco department store and A&P supermarket.

- An 8-acre office and commercial development.

- Nine condominium buildings ranging in height from five to seven stories with a total of 421 dwelling units.

- A 10-acre recreation and commercial development.

Current plans for the property are for the construction of four 14-story apartment buildings and a 26-acre commercial development. One of the apartment buildings already has been constructed.

The zoning board's decision will go to the village board for final action.

Drug rip-off motive for abduction

Kidnap victim found in Arlington

by JOHN MAES and JOE SWICKARD

A Northbrook youth, kidnaped and beaten, apparently by members of a drug ring, was found wandering near Arlington Heights early Wednesday and set police on the trail that led to his abductors.

The abduction of the youth and another man was said to have stemmed from a dispute between two groups over the sale of up to 500 pounds of marijuana.

Cook County Sheriff's Police Wednesday charged four men with aggravated kidnaping and are seeking another man for questioning. They were identified as Charles Edward Lawson, 32; Gilbert M. Baker, 28; James R. Lewis, 31, and William McCowan, 30, all of Detroit, Mich.

THE YOUTH, Paul Babigian, 17, of 3854 Parkway Dr., Northbrook, was found early Wednesday wandering in the vicinity of Ill. Rtes. 58 and 63 near Arlington Heights.

He was noticed by Patrolman Ronald Knapp of the Arlington Heights Police Department, who alerted Sheriff's Police after picking up the youth. Babigian told the patrolman he had been kidnaped in Winnetka early Monday.

The other victim, James Cole, 22, of 318 Park Ave., Wilmette, was released unharmed Tuesday morning after a 48-hour ordeal in which both he and Babigian were bound, handcuffed and threatened, according to Warren Schwartz, a sheriff's investigator.

Cole apparently was a victim of mistaken identity when he was abducted from near his home late Sunday. Schwartz said Cole was mistaken for another member of the group involved in the narcotics deal who are being sought by police.

POLICE SAID the group who abducted Babigian and Cole were seeking revenge. The two groups met last week to arrange for the sale of marijuana and the buyers fled without paying for it.

The victims were taken to a house in Lake County near Ill. Rte. 43 north of Highland Park. The two described the house to police as being in a "heavily wooded area."

Schwartz said Babigian's brother George, 23, had been receiving telephone calls demanding ransoms of $20,000 to $60,000. The callers also demanded the other group members be turned over to them.

Babigian's brother reported Paul missing to sheriff's police Tuesday.

Police used bits of information from the two victims to find the house where they had been held.

Detroit men. Schwartz said the men were called in as a security force to guard Cole and Paul Babigian.

According to accounts given by Schwartz, the men were spotted Tuesday afternoon near the apartment and were followed to a parking garage in the Chicago loop. They were taken into custody about 7 p.m. as they left the auto and began to walk off in different directions.

Four handguns — including a .357 Magnum, a .45 caliber automatic, and two revolvers — were found in the auto. Two of the guns were believed stolen from Detroit.

POLICE SAID they learned during questioning, the Detroit men flew here Saturday at the request of a friend who was a member of the group allegedly responsible for the abductions.

One of them had $700 cash in his possession when the group was nabbed.

Lawson, Baker, Lewis and McCowan were being held pending a hearing today in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Council on aged provides meals for 7 seniors here

Palatine Township's council on the aged has regularly provided seven senior citizens with daily meals since the start of its Meals-on-Wheels program in February.

The council and the staff of St. Joseph's Home prepare and deliver a hot lunch and a sack dinner meal for two dollars per day to township citizens who are 60 or older and unable to prepare their own meals.

Senior citizens interested who participate in the program must submit a doctor's certification and a prescribed diet.

Many of the senior citizens served regularly are bed-ridden with illness and unable to make their own meals. Many times their spouses are also incapable of fixing meals with the nourishment they need to have, according to Louise Robertson, council chairman and township senior citizens coordinator.

Senior citizens interested in registering for the program can call the senior citizens center at 991-1112. Volunteers to deliver the food are also needed.

The Senior Citizens Center is also sponsoring a trip for senior citizens to the Flower Market Show at the Oakbrook Shopping Center on August 9. People interested in registering for the trip should call the center.

The center also sponsors periodic shopping trips to shopping centers in the area, which cost $1.50 for round trip transportation.

School board approves free film use by church schools

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Education Committee has agreed to allow area parochial schools use the Dist. 15 film library free for the first half of the coming school year.

The committee's resolution will be presented to the board for final approval July 10. A decision on the second half of the next school year is expected later.

The estimated annual cost of allowing all four elementary parochial schools within Dist. 15 boundaries to use the film library is $4,600, according to Assistant Supt. of Instruction Marion Omlatek.

He said at Tuesday's night's board meeting that he is projecting a 20 per cent increase in cost, based on the addition of four schools to the district's 20 schools. About $800 is estimated for added clerical costs and another $3,700 for the possible purchase of additional films.

"We're estimating and we might be estimating high," he said. The district has not cooperated with the parochial schools on the film library in the past.

The proposal would be in effect for the first half of the coming school year for St. Thomas of Villanova, St. Theresa, St. Colette and Immanuel Lutheran. The request was made by St. Thomas and St. Theresa schools, but Omlatek said he expects requests from the other two schools soon. All but St. Colette's are located in Palatine. St. Colette is located in Rolling Meadows.

The program will be studied this school year and a decision on whether to continue the program and whether to charge a fee will be made later this year.

HEAVILY ARMED Cook County Sheriff's police and FBI agents surrounded the Lake County house which was empty early Wednesday but arrested two Chicago area men as they approached the house at different times. They were later released without charges.

A stakeout of George Babigian's apartment led police to the arrests of the four

County board mobile unit here July 2

A mobile unit of the Cook County Board President's Office of Inquiry and Information will be located in Palatine Plaza in Palatine and the Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights July 2, 3 and 5.

The unit will be supplied with information about various county functions and forms. Members of Board Pres. George W. Dunne's office will be present to answer the questions of residents.

New voters may also register to vote at the mobile office, which is presently being used for a fourth season in various locations throughout the county.

The mobile unit will be at the Palatine Plaza on July 2 from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; on July 3 from 1:30 to 4 p.m.; on July 5 from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

The mobile unit will be at the Northpoint Shopping Center on July 2 from 1:30 to 4 p.m.; on July 3 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; on July 5 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Jaycees plan 'Fourth' parade

The Palatine Jaycees will sponsor their annual Independence Day celebration beginning at 11 a.m. on July 4 with a parade through the village. The parade will end at Community Park, the site of the rest of the day's activities.

The parade will feature four drum and bugle corps from out-of-state and more than 80 marching units. The grand marshal of the parade will be State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

Afternoon activities at Community Park will include a fire department water fight, dipping tanks, moon walks, battle of the bands, pie eating contests, and an art fair. A petting zoo and a continuous theater in the round will be added attractions this year.

The second annual eight-man tug of war will also take place with last year's winner, The Office, returning to defend its championship. Teams can register for participation at 691-2146.

Activities will end with a fireworks display at 8:45 p.m.

Girls' softball team has two sponsors

A softball team for girls aged 9 through 12 is being sponsored by the Salt Creek and Wheeling park districts this summer.

Games will be played in Wheeling on Monday afternoons. Salt Creek players will be picked up at all three parks and return to the parks after games.

Cost is $8.50 for residents and $10 for nonresidents. The fee covers transportation, T-shirts and umpires fee. To register, call the Salt Creek Park District at 258-6890.

the cost of passenger vehicle stickers from $3 to $5, which could bring in some $22,000 additional funds annually, or a user tax on hotels and motels in the city.

Such a tax, which the city is authorized to levy, would put the cost burden on transients rather than city residents, Meyer said.

THE SITE PURCHASED in the northern end of the city has been mentioned as a possible location for a city-owned refuse incinerator. No decision has been made on whether an incinerator would be built in the future, but one proposal for an $800,000 "modular" incinerator has been heard by city officials.

The incinerator uses a new method which is nonpolluting and does not create excessive noise or heat, its builders say.

In conjunction with the land purchase, Meyer Tuesday appointed a special city council future planning committee to look into possible uses for the land. Appointed to the committee were the five aldermen who will not be up for reelection next year, including Thomas Waldron, 2nd, to chair the committee, Merrill Wuersch, 1st, Stephen Eberhard, 3rd, Daniel Weber, 4th, and Fredrick Jacobson, 5th.

The purchase was authorized Tuesday after City Atty. Donald Rose told the council the land might be purchased by other parties if the payment was not authorized by the city. Meyer added he had received several calls from persons interested in purchasing the site if the city did not exercise its option to buy the land.

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referendum should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud. THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunction against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

by STEVE FORSYTH
SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

Near Rohlwing Road and Northwest Highway

City will buy 6.71 acres for refuse incinerator

The purchase of 6.71 acres of land near Rohlwing Road and Northwest Highway, which could be the site of a refuse incinerator, has been authorized by the Rolling Meadows City Council.

In authorizing the $300,000 purchase Tuesday, the council stipulated the purchase will be contingent on the availability of financing, possibly through the issuance of revenue bonds.

The city will be required to pay $30,000 of the cost within ten days. There was some concern Tuesday among aldermen about whether funds will be available for the purchase. The city currently is attempting to contain expenditures as long as the current delay in collection of real estate taxes in Cook County continues.

Mayor Roland Meyer said following the approval Tuesday that the city may be able to sell revenue bonds to collect funds for the purchase.

BONDS MAY BE sold without the approval of a public referendum under a new state statute which allows cities and villages to go into bonded indebtedness up to 5 per cent of their total assessed valuation, Meyer said.

With the city's assessed valuation at about $85 million, Meyer said the city could issue $425,000 in bonds for the purchase if the bonding is approved. Meyer said a legal firm studying the proposal has said the bonding method has been used by park districts but it has not yet decided if it will approve the bonding method for the city.

The bonds are currently carrying about a 6.5 per cent interest rate, Meyer said.

Meyer said the city will be looking for ways to finance the land purchase without directly increasing taxes of residents. He said if the bond sale could not be made, the city could consider alternative fund raising methods, such as increasing the cost of passenger vehicle stickers from $3 to $5, which could bring in some $22,000 additional funds annually, or a user tax on hotels and motels in the city.

Such a tax, which the city is authorized to levy, would put the cost burden on transients rather than city residents, Meyer said.

Palanois Park protests incinerator

More than 100 residents of Palatine's Palanois Park area Wednesday night protested the proposed building of a garbage incinerator in Rolling Meadows.

Residents engaged in a heated question-and-answer session at Christ Lutheran Church in Palatine with James Stewart, a representative of Basic Engineering Inc., Chicago. The firm was approached by Rolling Meadows officials for suggested incinerator plants.

Residents cut short Stewart's presentation explaining the function of a 24-hour, 60 by 80-foot incinerator that could service the garbage loads of four suburbs with a 240-ton daily capacity.

THE RESIDENTS inquired as to the pollution odor hazards, heavy traffic conditions, and unwanted health conditions that could result from an incinerator in the area.

"All I know is if that thing is across the way from our homes and it's burning garbage, there are going to be fumes and trucks and a garbage backing that we don't want," said one resident.

Grace Meller, 203 S. Greenwood, said, "If Rolling Meadows feels that an incinerator is the only answer to its garbage problems then they can build it in the middle of their own town."

Residents plan to petition the Palatine Village Board, protesting the incinerator.

Robert Jewett, Palatine environmental control commission member, reported to the residents that the Palatine police chief and the Palatine Health Department are studying the situation and that the village will help to assist the residents in their protest.

The purchase was authorized Tuesday after City Atty. Donald Rose told the council the land might be purchased by other parties if the payment was not authorized by the city. Meyer added he had received several calls from persons interested in purchasing the site if the city did not exercise its option to buy the land.

The site is valuable because it is one of the last sites in the area with a rail spur, or access to a railroad, Meyer said.

The parcel is surrounded by industrial zoning but is near single family homes in Palatine.

After touring paper-and wood-burning incinerators in Chicago on Wednesday with Stewart, Harold Quist, head of the homeowners' protest, said he was not convinced the proposed incinerator would serve the purpose intended.

"The incinerator would be a test at best. I've talked to government engineers who are not impressed with such an incinerator and I would not want it near my own home," Quist said.

QUIST REPORTED that after bringing the homeowners' objections to the Rolling Meadows City Council, he did not receive a favorable reaction and was told to get the facts.

"With Mr. Stewart here tonight we've heard both sides of the story, we've got the facts and we still don't want the incinerator built near our homes," said Quist summing up residents' feelings.

Builder sues city for denial to subdivide

Developer John Kretschmar has filed suit against the City of Rolling Meadows for denying plans to subdivide land he owns.

Kretschmar had sought approval to subdivide a seven-acre parcel at Golf, Algonquin and Elk Grove roads so that it could be sold in several parcels.

The plan was approved by the city plan commission, but when it came before the city council in May, aldermen voted against the subdivision plat. Ald. James Huddleston, 4th, and Mayor Roland Meyer said in urging the denial that a similar request involving 10 homeowners near Golf and Algonquin roads was turned down because the city has taken a position against scattered development of individual lots.

Instead the city has said parcels should be developed by one interest whenever possible to avoid multiple driveway entrances and exits off the major streets.

City Atty. Donald Rose said Wednesday Kretschmar filed suit alleging he is entitled to the approval because the division plat meets Illinois statute and city statute requirements.

Rose said he has filed an answer to the charge denying that the subdivision should be approved. The matter will now likely be heard in Circuit Court, but no date has been set for a hearing. Rose said a date may not be set for 30 to 45 days.

Park board may lease small parcel to city

The Rolling Meadows Park District board is considering leasing to the city a small parcel of land behind the public works building, 3200 Central Rd.

The land would be used for additional parking for the public works. In the evenings, it could also be used as parking for persons using the neighboring park, said Steve Person, superintendent of parks and recreation.

Person said the parking lot would consist of about 6 to 10 spaces. Details of the agreement have not been worked out, he added.

"The city has wanted the land and the park board is willing to give it to the city," Person said.

Schools weigh in-district transfer rule

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education is developing guidelines to be used to determine whether children may transfer from one district to another, because of an increase in requests by parents.

About 14 or 15 parents have requested transfers this school year compared with one three years ago.

Board member Everett Charlier will be working on a rough draft of the proposed guidelines with Marion Omiatek, assistant superintendent for instruction. A proposal is expected at the Aug. 14 board meeting.

"We have to have some guidelines so that we don't become contradictory," Charlier said. "We should do something before we start getting a tremendous amount of requests," he added later.

SOME OF THE transfer requests for educational purposes come from the administration and are generally passed by the school board as being "for the child's best interests."

Other requests, because of "hardships," come from parents. Some parents want all their children in the same elementary or junior high school. Other parents, who work, want their children close to the babysitter or grandmother. Some of these requests are granted, but others are not.

The school board in the past has decided individual cases on the basis of hardship, which means that a mother who is the sole support of her family will generally be able to transfer her children so that they are close to a babysitter or baby sitting service. Transportation to and from the new school is not provided by the school district.

RECENTLY, however, the board has received a large number of requests from families in which the mother works but isn't the sole support. The board has been wrestling with the question that situation raises for the past few weeks and is still looking for an answer.

"How you define that line for hardship is the problem," said Supt. Frank Whiteley. "We can write policy if we know what you consider hardship," he added a little later.

The district's former policy generally left the matter up to the board, which considered requests on "individual merits." "I've certainly got to admit the policy was pretty broad," said board member J. Leslie Ehringer.

AT THE LAST board meeting, board members split on one of the requests — a parent who wanted her child to be close to its grandmother because she worked. Whiteley pointed out that finding a competent babysitter could be a "pretty serious" problem for some, and therefore could fit under the "hardship" category.

Pam Brankin in state pageant

Pamela Brankin, 503 S. Wa-Pella Ave., Mount Prospect, is a candidate in the Miss Illinois Teen Ager pageant.

Miss Brankin, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Brankin. She is a senior at Rolling Meadows High School, where she is a member of Orchestra and the concert choir. She also is a member of the Wendy Ward pacesetter board and plays piano for fashion shows. Miss Brankin formerly was involved with Rolling Meadows youth government, and was a library aide and participant in the variety show and French play.

She is a member of the National Honor Society and has been named to the honor roll. She plans to continue her studies in biological science and English.

The Miss Illinois Teen Ager contest will be this weekend at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

City council wrapup

Public hearing off on building project

A public hearing on the development of more than 1,000 apartment and townhouse units on 80 acres west of Rolling Meadows was postponed Tuesday until July 23.

The site, known as the Cowhey property, is being considered for annexation to the city. The public hearing on the development was postponed at the request of developer Plato Foulas because revised layout plans for the development have not been completed.

$2,000 for tree-spraying

The Rolling Meadows City Council Tuesday authorized the expenditure of some $2,000 for spraying of maple trees next month. The spraying will be done to kill disease-causing elements which may exist on the trees.

Purchase of lot OKd

The purchase of a vacant lot of land next to the city fire station was approved Tuesday by the city council. Cost of the purchase will be $40,000. The lot is being purchased from the Arthur Rubloff real estate company.

City officials have not yet decided on a use for the lot.

The expenditure, as well as several others approved by the council Tuesday, was criticized by Ald. Kenneth Retzke, 5th, who said the city should not be spending money now when funds are running low because of delays in the issuance and collection of real estate taxes.

Retzke was the only alderman of eight present to vote against the expenditure. Aldermen Daniel Weber, 4th, and Fredrick Jacobson, 5th, were absent from the meeting.

$150,000 loan approved

Because of the lack of real estate tax funds for the fire department and library, the city council Tuesday approved a measure to loan up to $150,000 of the city's federal revenue sharing money to the two departments. The loan will carry an 8 per cent interest rate which the departments will pay back to the city when real estate tax funds become available.

The issuance of tax bills by Cook County, from which the fire department and library receive the bulk of their funds, has been delayed because of the failure of the Illinois General Assembly to determine a multiplier rate to be used in the tax computation.

Fund-raiser fees waived

A number of not-for-profit groups planning special fund-raising events this summer, including participating in the city's Fourth of July events, Tuesday were waived from the requirement of paying fees to the city for their events.

Fees, except liquor license fees, were waived for groups which will have booths set up on the Fourth of July as well as for the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center's planned West Fest carnival in August. Fees were also waived for the Community Church's planned Corn Fest on Aug. 3.

Landscaping bid accepted

A bid of $5,022 from the Charles Klehm & Son Nursery of Arlington Heights for landscaping the planned Gateway to Rolling Meadows park was approved by the city council Tuesday.

The bid was the lowest submitted with a guarantee to insure the planting in case replacements are needed if original plants die.

The park is being planned at Wilke and Kirchhoff roads. The planting will not take place until fall. Sidewalks and other work have yet to be completed in the park because of the current construction industry strikes.

Committee to study sign plea

A special use committee of the city council was established Tuesday to consider a request by the Bank of Rolling Meadows to erect signs around the bank.

Race track noise cited

The city may ask the Village of Arlington Heights for its cooperation in curbing noise levels at the Arlington Park Race Track.

Ald. Thomas Waldron, 2nd, said Tuesday residents in the area are concerned about noise at the track, especially in evening hours. Mayor Roland Meyer suggested City Atty. Donald Rose contact Arlington Heights to determine if a "nuisance ordinance" which would restrict noise levels exists in the village. He said the city should work through the village first in an attempt to correct the problems.

Paramedics receive plaque

The city's fire department paramedics Tuesday received a plaque from the Rolling Meadows Boys Football League thanking them for their assistance to the teams during the season.

Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty accepted the award for the department.

Aged council serves meals to 7 seniors

Palatine Township's council on the aged has regularly provided seven senior citizens with daily meals since the start of its Meals-on-Wheels program in February.

The council and the staff of St. Joseph's Home prepare and deliver a hot lunch and a sack dinner meal for two dollars per day to township citizens who are 60 or older and unable to prepare their own meals.

Senior citizens interested who participate in the program must submit a doctor's certification and a prescribed diet.

Many of the senior citizens served regularly are bed-ridden with illness and unable to make their own meals. Many times their spouses are also incapable of fixing meals with the nourishment they need to have, according to Louise Robertson, council chairman and township senior citizens coordinator.

Senior citizens interested in registering for the program can call the senior citizens center at 981-1112. Volunteers to deliver the food are also needed.

The Senior Citizens Center is also sponsoring a trip for senior citizens to the Flower Market Show at the Oakbrook Shopping Center on August 9. People interested in registering for the trip should call the center.

The center also sponsors periodic shopping trips to shopping centers in the area, which cost $1.50 for round trip transportation.

School board approves free film use by church schools

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Education Committee has agreed to allow area parochial schools use the Dist. 15 film library free for the first half of the coming school year.

The committee's resolution will be presented to the board for final approval July 10. A decision on the second half of the next school year is expected later.

The estimated annual cost of allowing all four elementary parochial schools within Dist. 15 boundaries to use the film library is $4,800, according to Assistant Supt. of Instruction Marion Omiatek.

He said at Tuesday's night's board meeting that he is projecting a 20 per cent increase in cost, based on the addition of four schools to the district's 20 schools. About $900 is estimated for added clerical costs and another $3,700 for the possible purchase of additional films.

"We're estimating and we might be estimating high," he said. The district has not cooperated with the parochial schools on the film library in the past.

The proposal would be in effect for the first half of the coming school year for St. Thomas of Villanova, St. Theresa, St. Colette and Immanuel Lutheran. The request was made by St. Thomas and St. Theresa schools, but Omiatek said he expects requests from the other two schools soon. All but St. Colette's are located in Palatine. St. Colette is located in Rolling Meadows.

The program will be studied this school year and a decision on whether to continue the program and whether to charge a fee will be made later this year.

City plans to be 'more select'

Cost to limit mosquito spraying

Rolling Meadows will be more select in its supplemental mosquito spraying program this summer because of increased costs charged by the company which will do the work.

City Sanitarian Donald Schindler said Tuesday some $2,500 has been allotted in the health department budget for spraying, but because of increased commercial costs, the department will have to be more select in the number of sprayings conducted.

Costs for one spraying by commercial companies now run about $700 per spraying compared with about $375 which the city paid last year to the Midas Midwest Spraying Co., Schindler said.

The city has already begun conducting "mosquito landing survey counts" to determine where the mosquito nesting areas are and where the spraying would do the most good, Schindler said.

"THE MAIN PROBLEM area seems to be around California Avenue and Taft Avenue in the unincorporated area," Schindler said. "Part of the problem is the marshy areas in the unincorporated areas. The mosquitoes are blowing in from there."

Schindler said the Northwest Mosquito

Abatement District has been fogging the areas in an effort to solve the problem. He said the surveys to date have shown the unincorporated area near California Avenue west of the city limits is one of the highest infested areas.

Fogging to eliminate the mosquitoes will usually be done when the mosquito has just reached its adult stage, Schindler said, or about 12 days after a sufficient rainfall and hot temperatures.

Last year the city contracted with the Midas Midwest Spraying Co. to perform supplemental sprayings along with those performed by the mosquito abatement district. The company has also been consulted this year to conduct the abatement sprayings.

Schindler said although the company's costs have almost doubled this year over last year, the rate is in line with that being charged by other companies and may even be slightly lower than most other companies. Last year the Midas company underbid the Clarke Outdoor Spraying Company for the city work by some $280. The Clarke bid last year was $655.

Taxi fare increase decision delayed

A decision on approving a taxicab fare rate increase in Rolling Meadows has been delayed by the city council until July 9.

The council agreed to postpone a vote on the request of City Transportation Co. of Arlington Heights to raise its rates by about 20 per cent. The delay was made so that city officials and the company can consider a possible program giving special cab rates to senior citizens.

The rate increase was requested in a letter dated May 1 from the cab company to the city. If the increase is approved by the city council, new rates would go into effect July 14, Mayor Roland Meyer said.

The increase already has been approved by both the Village of Arlington Heights and City of Des Plaines, where the cab company also operates.

THE INCREASES PROPOSED call for 60 cents for the first one-sixth mile, 10 cents for each additional one-sixth mile, $8 per hour traffic delay and waiting time and 75 cents for each mile outside the city limits.

The company's current rates are 60 cents for the first 2/5 mile, 10 cents for each additional 1/5 mile, $8 per hour traffic delay and waiting time and 60 cents for each mile outside the city limits.

Company operator Tom Gillen has said the increase is needed because of rising gasoline and operating costs. The last rate increase for the company was approved in 1969.

The city may consider a program to provide special rates for senior citizens using cab services. Currently special programs for seniors exist in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines and one also is being considered in Arlington Heights.

The City Transportation Co. operates four cabs in the city. Two other cabs are operated by the Martin Cab Co. of Des Plaines.

Schools cut off speakers' service funds

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 35 education committee voted to cut off funds to the volunteer service bureau

Cat burglary suspect bound over to county

Robert E. Williams Jr., suspected Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village cat burglar, waived his right to a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was bound over to the Cook County Grand Jury.

Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante, in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court, also reduced bond for Williams from $100,000 to $25,000. Williams' grand jury date is July 17.

Williams, 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove Village, is accused of five burglaries committed June 19 in an apartment building at 1101 Hunt Club Dr., Mount Prospect. The fifth burglary complaint was signed Wednesday in court by Joan Bourke, who allegedly had a purse and some beer and wine stolen from her apartment.

Mount Prospect police arrested Williams inside the apartment building and allegedly found some property stolen from the five apartments on Williams.

Elk Grove Village police said at least 10 burglary complaints are being prepared against Williams for cat burglaries committed in Elk Grove Village over the past two months. Police added they believe Williams may have been responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts in Elk Grove Village.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS police have said they have oral statements from Williams that allegedly link him to 42 burglaries committed in Arlington Heights since January 1973.

In court Wednesday, the public defender assigned to Williams said Williams had been a cook in the Navy for two years, ending in January 1974. He also said Williams had no prior convictions, although some charges are pending against Williams. The statements were made during arguments on the bond reduction.

Judge LaPlante said he had made the bond high initially because he was aware the fifth Mount Prospect burglary charge may have been filed as it was Wednesday.

Parks offer new Wednesday night adult tennis

The Rolling Meadows Park District has opened a new Wednesday night adult beginning tennis class.

The new class will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Rolling Meadows High School. It is open to junior high and high school youngsters and adults.

The 6:30 p.m. Wednesday tennis class is closed for registration. Also closed for registration are both of the new belly dancing classes being offered for the first time this year and some sessions of the tot swimming class.

Only one class, junior golf, has been dropped. Junior high school youngsters, however, are now eligible to take the evening adult golf class.

Supt. of Parks and Recreation Steve Person said he expects participation in summer recreation classes to be higher this year than last. Specific figures are not available because registration is still being taken, he said.

Even the unseasonable cold weather hasn't stopped people from registering from swimming classes or buying swimming passes, according to recreation secretary Elleen Grunwald. "Pass sales have been doing very well," she added.

which has provided speakers for the district's classrooms.

The committee Tuesday night passed a resolution not to donate the requested $2,000 to the Volunteer Service Bureau next school year. Marion Omlatek, assistant superintendent of instruction, told the committee that the job is being taken over by school PTA volunteer coordinators and the schools themselves.

Two years ago, the Volunteer Service Bureau provided 3,500 hours of speakers. This past year, it provided only 52 speakers, he said. The others were found by schools and PTAs.

A final decision will be made at the Dist. 35 board meeting scheduled for July 10.

VOTING AGAINST the donation were board members Everett Charlier and Robert Bliss. "I'd rather see that the money is spent in our own district for volunteers," Charlier said.

Chairman J. Leslie Ehringer voted in favor of giving the bureau $1,000 for the coming year. "I'm opposed to total withdrawal," he said. He indicated that he supported a phasing out of the district's donations instead of simply cutting off funds.

"They may be pretty good help to some other districts than ours," Ehringer said. He indicated that he didn't want to put the bureau in a financially difficult position.

The cut off of funds didn't come as a surprise to the bureau's executive director, Jane Weakley. "We were expecting it," she said. She added that the bureau hopes to make up the loss by asking area industries for donations.

Equipment, maintenance expenditures approved

A number of expenditures for equipment and maintenance were approved by the Rolling Meadows City Council Tuesday. They included $74,921 to the Commercial Light Co. for installation of traffic lights at the Algonquin-New Wilke Road intersection, and $50,000 to the company for the installation of traffic lights at the Golf-New Wilke Road intersection.

The company was the low bidder for both projects.

The Algonquin-New Wilke work cost will be shared among the city, the state and the Village of Arlington Heights, with each municipality paying 25 per cent and the state paying 50 per cent.

THE GOLF-NEW WILKE cost will be shared by the city and state, with the city paying one-third and the state paying two-thirds of the total cost.

City Engr. James Muldowney told the council that work on the projects will be delayed as long as strikes in the construction industry continue. He said the installation of lights at Golf and New Wilke is not likely this year since the cement truck drivers strike is holding up the start of work on the extension of New Wilke from Algonquin Road south to Golf Road.

Other expenditures included:

- $14,412 to the Rock Road Construction Co. for construction of a road shoulder on East Frontage Road at Central Road;

- $60,385 to the Hardin Paving Co. for street maintenance work in the city this summer;

- $29,658 to the Hardin Paving Co. for the extension of Apollo Drive at Golf Road, with the cost to be shared equally by the city, the Digital Corp. and Gould, Inc. which will both be located near the road;

- $24,250 from the Chesley Co. of Waterloo, Iowa for a roll-off truck for the public works department.

All bids were the lowest submitted.

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referenda should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud.

THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunctions against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

Board may be enlarged from present 9 members

by STEVE FORSYTH

SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

Weathersfield residents plan to protest bridge

Many Weathersfield residents plan to flood Schaumburg's Civic Center with objections to village participation in the cost of a bridge over the west branch of the DuPage River at Walnut Lane.

Schaumburg agreed early this month to pay one-third of the cost of building a $30,000 bridge which would link the community with neighboring Hanover Park. The balance of the cost will be shared by the Village of Hanover Park and Miller Builders.

"We do not want the increased traffic that a bridge would bring," Bill Zimmer, 616 Walnut Ln., said Wednesday. Zimmer said he and his neighbors "don't want to live on another Springfield Road."

He said residents in the area do not object to a footbridge but oppose the idea of Walnut Lane being made a north-south link between Irving Park Road and Ill. Rte. 72.

"Our area is presently sort of isolated and many of us bought homes here because of that and want to keep it this way," he commented.

The bridge would be constructed about 50 feet from the last house at the south end of the street. Walnut Lane is at the far westerly edge of Schaumburg.

ZIMMER SAID he and his neighbors consider the expenditure "a waste of Schaumburg's money" and plan to present their views at the July 9 village board meeting.

"If this project is completed, it will cost the village one heck of a lot of money for maintenance and police protection," he added.

An attorney who is among the homeowners opposed to the bridge is readying a petition and neighbors intend to collect as many signatures as possible next weekend.

Zimmer estimated that at least 10 families represent the nucleus of the group and he predicts the number of bridge objectors will increase greatly before the village board meeting.

"We are definitely out to fight village hall on this," he asserted.

Bad neighbors

Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg have long history of antagonism that continues up to present time and clouds area's future

by JUDY JOBBITT

A news analysis

The split between the villages of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates goes skin deep — that skin being the tough hide of the village officials.

Officials' bickerings created two intertwined villages where there could have been one. And despite occasional efforts for cooperative action, talks between the village officials bog down in the flack between "the neighbor to the south" — Hoffman Estates' term for Schaumburg — and "our neighboring community" — Schaumburg's counter for Hoffman Estates.

The original section of Hoffman Estates had the opportunity to be joined to the newly incorporated Schaumburg in the late 1950s, but Hoffman Rosner, developer of Parcel A subdivision between Higgins and Golf roads, would not make the necessary changes in the sewage system, curbs, roads and over-all construction standards to meet Schaumburg's village code.

Because Parcel A did not incorporate into Schaumburg but rather became the nucleus of Hoffman Estates, a land scramble resulted shortly after the two villages incorporated — Schaumburg in 1965 and Hoffman Estates in 1969.

EACH VILLAGE grabbed pieces and parcels of land and ended up with gerrymandered boundaries. For instance, all that holds central Hoffman Estates together geographically is a strip of land 200 feet wide off Bode Road near Helen Keller Junior High School, which connects Highland and Highpoint subdivisions.

Schaumburg also is connected by a small bit of land at Golf and Higgins roads intersection that joins Knightsbridge and Churchill subdivisions in Schaumburg with the rest of the village.

Because of these boundaries, merger talks were attempted in 1965 and again in 1970-71. Both times the talks broke down after Schaumburg took an apathetic stance on countermeasures.

The first merger talks were initiated in Hoffman Estates as part of the political platform of Roy Jenkins, who became village president under the Village Party. A questionnaire had been distributed in the two communities in 1964 that showed 79 per cent of the residents in both villages liked the idea of a single merged community.

THE PROPOSAL TO put this opinion in action never gained ground because of Schaumburg's refusal to talk with newly elected Jenkins. Schaumburg officials did make it known, however, that a merger would require Schaumburg residents to pay taxes, that Schaumburg had better streets and more advanced planning, and that Schaumburg did not have debts to pay off on its water system.

Hoffman Estates officials rejected these claims saying that their lower water rates and other lower costs made up the difference for the taxing costs.

Under the fancy name "Task Force I," a second series of merger talks started in 1971 initiated by the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

ROOST is the major party in both Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg Township government.

The organization has not been able to make headway in Schaumburg.

The task force came to a halt when Schaumburg representative Ray Kessell withdrew from the force because in village elections ROOST failed to support the candidate of the United Citizens Party, Schaumburg's major party at the time, and the forerunner of Schaumburg United Party, Schaumburg Village Pres. Robert O. Atcher's party.

MOST OF THE antagonism, as witnessed in the merger talks, lies on the administrative-office level. Residents recognize the split on the bureaucratic level, but most say it doesn't exist between individuals in the two communities.

"I don't think the people are involved (in the split between the two communities)," said Marianne Lucas of 181 Highland Blvd., Hoffman Estates. "It's more in the officials than the people."

The five-year resident also said she thought the two villages should be one because they are so intertwined.

Gay McKinney, 313 Newport, Hoffman Estates, said she heard more about the communities' differences before she moved here a year ago than she has noticed since she has lived here.

An attitude persists among Schaumburg officials that adds to the animosities between the two communities. This is witnessed in Schaumburg Trustee Kessell saying "Schaumburg is a tremendously successful community," which "creates a situation where some are jealous of our success."

VILLAGE PLANNING is the center of the conflict — a "jealousy" — between the two villages.

According to Herb Aigner, Schaumburg trustee, Schaumburg planned to be a community within itself with substantial industrial and commercial developments along with a variety of housing. He said Hoffman Estates in comparison is more of a "bedroom community" to Chicago.

Virginia Hayter, Hoffman Estates village president, said Hoffman Estates prefers single family residential zoning. But she doesn't "espouse the idea that there are boundary lines between the two villages. Maybe that's because I recognize what we do affects them (Schaumburg) and everyone."

She said Atcher thinks only about Schaumburg rather than the Northwest community. In contrast, she said, she looks at Hoffman Estates as a part of the whole community.

Atcher, like the village he built as a community within itself, holds himself back. Public feedback over the years indicates the average citizen has difficulty reaching him at specially designated times such as public meetings and functions.

WHILE MRS. HAYTER is readily available for interviews and comments to the press, Atcher has a protective secretary screen that blocks direct contact.

Village records go to U.S. attorney's office

A five-year collection of Schaumburg municipal records will be delivered today to the Federal Building's 18th-floor office of U. S. Atty. James Thompson.

Records are being furnished to Thompson's office in line with a federal grand jury subpoena delivered to the Civic Center a week ago by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Administrator John Coste said late Wednesday that all material requested in the subpoena had been prepared and boxed for delivery and noted that records can be easily transported by automobile. He said there had not yet been a decision as to who would make the delivery, adding "somebody will take it down."

But Coste pointed out that the village's record cupboard is not bare. "In some cases copies are being sent and in other instances originals of documents will go," he said.

The subpoena calls for all contracts, personnel records, names of village trustees and officials, building permits and minutes of all official records and transactions since 1960.

With the exception of income tax cases, the statute of limitations on most federal violations is five years.

The subpoena represents an intensification in the Schaumburg investigation begun almost a year ago by Thompson's office, and follows the recent assignment of several FBI agents to the probe.

In earlier stages of the investigation, Internal Revenue Service Agents and members of Thompson's staff conducted interviews with several developers and former village officials.

Contracts awarded for school additions

Contracts for the construction of additions to Aldrin and Einstein elementary schools were approved by Schaumburg Township Dist. 64 Board of Education.

The additions are to be completed by September, 1975.

Henry Brothers Co. was granted the general construction contract in the amount of $292,300 for the Aldrin addition at 617 Boxwood Dr., Schaumburg. Other contracts granted for Aldrin were Horst Kraus Plumbing, $44,144; Mau Electric Co., $60,426, and Tri Heating Inc., $86,750.

Szak Construction Co. was given the construction contract for the Einstein addition at 1100 Laurie Ln., Hanover Park, in the amount of $379,422. Other contracts granted were: Horst Kraus Plumbing, $63,587; Mid-America Electric Co., $69,962, and Tri Heating Inc., $93,238.

Resident on probation for misdemeanor

Vicki Deppner, 17, of 933 Bradford Ln., Schaumburg received six months probation after pleading guilty Wednesday to a misdemeanor count of violating the Illinois Credit Card Act.

Assistant Circuit Court Judge Simon Porter also ordered that Miss Deppner pay $300 restitution to the Bank Americard Co.

She was arrested June 4, along with three other area residents after police entered a Hoffman Estates apartment in connection with an investigation into the alleged fraudulent use of five stolen credit cards.

Village moves ahead to sue builder

Retainers for two legal firms to sue Kaufman and Broad Inc. were signed Wednesday morning by Hoffman Estates Pres. Virginia Hayter, although settlement talks continued through the day.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert refused to discuss the potential series of suits in the village's behalf Wednesday afternoon. K&B's attorney, Thomas Foran, could not be reached for comment.

Mrs. Hayter and Village Mgr. George Longmeyer both said Hofert and Foran had met Wednesday. They had hoped for word on the potential settlement by Wednesday night but Hofert did not contact them.

Mrs. Hayter indicated a settlement of the potential $10 million lawsuit at least had been introduced in the meetings with K&B's lawyers, "but they're having trouble making a corporate decision," she said.

She noted K&B recently appointed a new president, Robert W. Fish, for its subsidiary, K-B Barrington Homes Inc., and his recent arrival may be a factor in the decision-making process.

The retainers Mrs. Hayter signed authorized the village attorney to pursue the attempts to recoup an estimated $5 to $10 million in profits K&B allegedly gained illegally through its payment of $35,000 to 1968 village officials in exchange for the speedy approval of multiple-family zoning.

Hofert is to work with Alan S. Ganz and John Ryan of a Chicago firm in preparing a barrage of civil suits unless K&B agrees to withdraw a suit it filed against the village Friday.

Regina Sorensen of 651 Oakmont Rd., Hoffman Estates, made the Dean's List at Illinois State University, Bloomington, both semesters this year.

Miss Sorensen graduated from Conant High School last year and is majoring in anthropology.

September set as fire station target

Construction will not start before Sept. 20 on a new fire station at Mumford Dr. and Freeman Boulevard in the Westbury section of Hoffman Estates.

The Hoffman Estates Village Board's building committee met with its architect, Andrew McPherson, Wednesday night to discuss design and construction scheduled for the 5,328 square foot structure to serve all sections of the village north of the Northwest Tollway.

McPherson set the September groundbreaking as a target date if all preliminary work goes smoothly. The committee is to meet with him at 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday starting July 10 in an effort to minimize delays.

THE FIRE HALL is to include a six-bed dormitory, kitchen, lounge, an area for washing and drying fire hoses, an office, locker room and communications area.

Cost is estimated between $150,000 and $170,000 although McPherson said "we will have to work very hard on the budget."

The last fire stations his company designed cost between $22 and $24 per square foot, he said.

Trustees Dyrle Rathman and Melvin Timmons suggested McPherson plan on a maximum of $150,000 for the building. The remainder will be needed to furnish the structure, they said. In addition, the village is spending from $50,000 to $60,000 to purchase and equip a pumper. The station eventually also will house an ambulance and an aerial truck.

McPherson is to present preliminary figures for a detailed budget and building materials by July 10. By Aug. 14 the village board is to have reviewed final drawings for the station. It is hoped the board will be able to open bids by Sept. 10.

Village hires administrative aide

Hoffman Estates has hired a former Peace Corps and Vista worker as administrative assistant to Village Mgr. George Longmeyer at a yearly salary of $11,000.

John F. Dixon, 27, of 420 S. Yale Ave., Arlington Heights, began working for the village Monday. Until accepting the village position, he was with the Peace Corps as academic coordinator and assistant business manager for the Oglaia Sioux Community College at Pine Ridge, S.D., a reservation college with 80 students and eight staff members. He also has been for a year a member of the board of directors of Tape and Reel, Inc., Rolling Meadows.

Dixon joined the Peace Corps in 1968, and has worked in youth and community projects in San Salvador, El Salvador; Kingston, Jamaica; and Puerto Rico and New Mexico. He holds a Master's degree from Vanderbilt University, where he was in the top 10 per cent of his class and worked as a research analyst studying federal grants to the metropolitan Nashville, Tenn., area.

In other study, Dixon attended Fisk University Center for Management and Planning and the University of Tennessee, and developed a three-year cooperative program on urban management between Fisk and Vanderbilt universities.

Dixon earned his undergraduate degree in sociology at Bradley University, Peoria. He and his wife have no children.

THE HOFFMAN ESTATES Jaycees Carnival is open through Sunday at the Golf Rose Shopping Center, Golf and Roselle roads. Al Binder, left, and Clark Shafer help set up for the event to be opened 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. today and Friday and from 2 to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Resident acquitted on sex charges

Robert W. Mead, 36, of 201 Sumac Ln., Schaumburg, was found innocent of contributing to the sexual delinquency of a minor after 11 Timbercrest subdivision residents testified in his behalf Wednesday in the Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Mead was charged in connection with a May 16 incident where it was alleged he attempted to molest a 16-year-old Schaumburg boy in a storage barn adjacent to the Timbercrest subdivision.

Asst. Judge Simon Porter, ending the two-hour trial, said the court had no choice but to dismiss the charge. Mead told the court he finished dinner at 7:10 p.m. on May 16, then gathered his children and went to a neighbor's house where he remained until about 8:10 p.m.

He added that he took his children home and did not leave his house all night. Mead's lawyer, John McGahay, called Mrs. Mead, neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Norman La Bresca, and La Bresca's sister-in-law Jerry La Bresca and Joyce Kasper to verify parts of Mead's testimony.

Mead is active in the YMCA Indian Princess program and has worked with youth through the Timbercrest Homeowner's Assn., said Richard Lowthorp, a neighbor testifying about Mead's contribution to the community.

Village board wrapup

Builder to donate to cultural center

Donations for Schaumburg's proposed cultural center will be made when occupancy permits are taken out for units in each phase of Applegate Terrace, a 38-acre Roselle Road development.

Trustees this week approved site plans for phase one of the 756-unit rental project. It is located about one-quarter mile south of Schaumburg Road.

Alden Corp., Minneapolis, Minn., developer, has pledged a $100-per-unit contribution to the planned cultural center and $20,000 to the Schaumburg general fund for use by police and fire departments, as well as a donation to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54.

Designed by Dabbin and Associates Inc., Chicago-based architects, the development features complete equestrian facilities including a stable for 16 horses, a pony riding ring and bridge paths throughout the site.

Alden Corp. has also agreed to share in the cost of installing a trunk sewer system to serve the project, along with proposed developments in the area including Heritage Center as well as plans being completed for the 60-acre Rosenvinkle property on the west side of Roselle Road. Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center North would also be served by the sewer system, according to Village Engineer Joseph Zgonina.

Drainage work bids studied

Bids for Schaumburg's 1974 drainage improvement program, which have come in more than five times above the $25,000 project budget, have been referred to the public works committee for study.

Hummel Construction Inc. estimated the cost of the three-part project at $127,880 and Plote Inc. would do the work for $136,060.

Road ditch cleaning and reshaping in the Lexington Fields, Pleasant Hills and Meadow Knolls area and cleaning, reshaping and restoration of banks in the area of the last half-mile of the DuPage River running through the south end of the village constitute this year's plan.

U.S. planning grant accepted

A $37,676 federal grant for airport planning was formally accepted by Schaumburg officials this week.

The money will be used to pay two-thirds of the cost of a professional study to determine community airport needs and possible village purchase of the existing Schaumburg Airport, a private landing strip.

Expected to take approximately 18 months, the $56,000 study will be done by Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, Chicago engineering consultants.

In the work, consultants will examine the present airport site as well as alternate locations within a five-mile radius of Schaumburg. The study will also provide an environmental impact statement.

One-sixth of the cost of the investigation will be funded by Illinois Department of Transportation and remaining costs will be paid by the village as project sponsor.

Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg have history of rivalry

ment from him, especially about controversial measures.

Atcher is proud of "his" achievements in Schaumburg. During his 1971 election campaign he distributed fliers listing some of these achievements:

- Without a village tax assessment, Schaumburg built a $350,000 public works building, two fire stations and a community center.

- Woodfield Shopping Center was built in the village and brings in about $2 million sales tax each year.

His attitude about Schaumburg's superiority also was seen when he commented about the 1971 merger talks. Before the task force started its study, Atcher said, "When all the facts are known, I don't think the 'do's' and 'don'ts' will stack up equitably" between Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

Kessell said reactions directed toward Schaumburg are usually directed toward Atcher.

"WHEN PEOPLE TALK about political feelings, someone feeling strongly against someone else" in the discussion about the two villages, they speak "primarily against Bob," he said.

Nonetheless Hoffman Estates residents are somewhat antagonistic toward Schaumburg officials, especially concerning the zoning for the 12-story apartment building complexes west of Roselle Road between Hillcrest Boulevard and Golf Road. They also express disgust about the commercial buildings on Schaumburg's strip of Golf Road, adjacent to Hoffman Estates.

Bill Cowin, Hoffman Estates trustee, said this zoning by Schaumburg reflects Atcher's "empirical attitude" that centers on the good of Schaumburg without reflection on surrounding communities. He said Schaumburg has good transitional zoning within its boundaries but pays little or no attention to transitional zoning between communities.

ALTHOUGH ANTAGONISM exists, Kessell said people are changing. "I think everybody's growing up again and realizing we're going to have to live together. We'll have people on both sides that will hate each other till they move away or pass away, but the opinions of the masses will help bend that."

Cowin agreed, saying the animosities between the communities will lessen as new people move into the villages.

He also said the communities will "grow together in attitude as our common destinies force us to work together."

The animosities are "very foolish official feelings and are among some of the longtime residents. It's time to stop the chest thumping and look to the future," he said.

He likes to think the two communities are "tied together," rather than "chained" together, in a common direction toward a common goal.

BUT THE OLD conflicts keep surfacing. Some of the more recent issues include:

- Hospitals. What started out as a joint community effort to establish one hospital for Schaumburg Township ended up with two hospitals planned for the area — Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center North in Schaumburg and Community Hospital of Hoffman Estates.

Hoffman Estates contended that Schaumburg jumped the gun by approving Rush-Presbyterian before a joint study about hospitals for the area was completed. Schaumburg pointed to the fine reputation of Rush-Presbyterian and the financial support it offered, saying it was a deal too good to pass up.

- Unit school districts (the consolidation of elementary and high schools under a single school board and administration.) The first unit district study was made in 1969 when Mrs. Carolyn Mullins suggested that Schaumburg break off from Districts 54 and 211 and form its own unit district to protect Schaumburg's tax base. Her husband, Gordon, was a village trustee and both were closely aligned to the political organization built around Atcher.

In 1973 Atcher spearheaded another unit district study that was presented this May. Its original intent was to analyze the feasibility of a Schaumburg village unit district but later, after much criticism, expanded to include Schaumburg Township.

However, petitions were circulated for a Schaumburg area unit school district after the study was presented. The petition included Schaumburg and those parts of Roselle, Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village currently in Dist. 54. Hoffman Estates was excluded. Spokesmen for the committee said, as an afterthought, that Hoffman Estates could have requested to be added at a later date.

- Builder donations. Schaumburg says its multi-faceted community brings in more tax dollars than are used up in the school district for the students living in the community and that builders should not have to pay builder donations. These donations are set fees from builders requested by school officials to make up for the time it takes residents in new buildings to be placed on the tax role and pay tax dollars.

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $300,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referenda should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud. THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunctions against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

by STEVE FORSYTH
SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

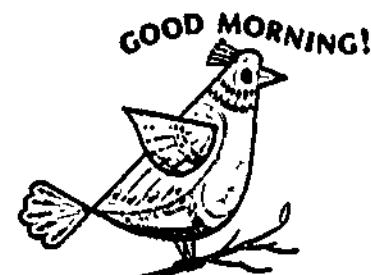

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

Plans under way for village's biggest parade

Preparations are continuing for the biggest Fourth of July parade in Mount Prospect's history.

More than 60 units ranging from bands and floats to antique autos and color guard units are expected to take part in the annual event. "Mount Prospect has a reputation for leadership in July Fourth parades among the Northwest communities and the entry list of drum corps, floats, marching units and antique cars promises an hour-long parade of more than 60 units," said C. O. Schlaver, executive director of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce and coordinator of the parade along with chairman Thomas Hanlon and co-chairmen Jack Keeler and W. Roy Martin.

The parade will start at 2 p.m. next Thursday at Emerson Park, at Emerson and Gregory streets, and will proceed south on Emerson to Shabonee Trail, where it will head east to Lions Park. The Mount Prospect Lions Club will sponsor a carnival at the park Tuesday through Sunday, and later on the evening of the Fourth of July, the park district will set off fireworks.

John Weber will serve as grand marshal of the parade. He was general chairman of Mount Prospect's 50th anniversary celebration and has headed the Chamber of Commerce and Historical Society.

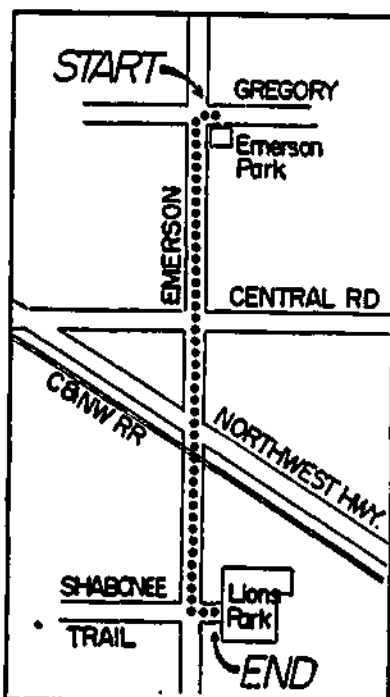

OTHER DIGNITARIES will include Mayor Robert D. Telchert and village officials, local area legislators and Chamber of Commerce president W. William Radtke. Also riding in the parade will be members of Moose Lodge 600, Kazoo band, Harper College pom pom squad, Mount Prospect Woman's Club, Mount Prospect Extensioners, Welcome Wagon Newcomers and Mount Prospect Business and Professional Woman's Club.

Other entries will be provided by the Prospect High School band under the direction of Ralph Wilder; local national guardsmen; the Bellettes of Belleville; the Saignaires of Saginaw, Mich.; the Falcons of Springfield; Golden Knights of Southgate, Ky.; and Stardusters of Arabi, La.

Some 20 floats will be entered. Sponsors include Busse Flowers and Gifts, St. Paul Lutheran Youth, St. Mark's Hi-League, St. Raymond's Church, Annen and Busse Realtors, Mount Prospect Lions Club, Camp Fire Girls, Mount Prospect Rotary Club, Prospect chapter of DeMolay, Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club, Regular Republican Organization of Elk Grove Township, Wheeling Township Republican Organization, Mount Prospect State Bank, E-Hart Girls, Jack's Men's Shop, Mount Prospect Park District, Central Federal Savings and Loan, Paddock Publications, 4-H Clubs and Mount Prospect Jaycees. Floats will compete for a variety of prizes.

MARCHING UNITS will include the River Trails Park District baton twirlers, Bonnie Mae baton twirlers of Des Plaines, Girl Scouts, Cub Pack 316, Arab-American Woman's Culture League and the Pine and Wile streets Old Glory Marching Kazoo Irregulars.

Antique autos will be entered by Busse

HERE'S WHERE the Fourth of July parade in Mount Prospect will progress. It starts at 2 p.m. at Emerson Park and proceeds south to Lions Park where additional festivities will be held.

Flowers, Skrudland Photo Service, Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Assoc., and Mount Prospect Historical Society. The Veterans of Foreign Wars color guard also will be in the parade, along with fire, police and Civil Defense units.

Many spots open in park district summer classes

Openings still exist in numerous Mount Prospect Park District classes, which began this week.

Registration is being accepted at the park district administration office, 411 S. Maple St., for the following classes: baseball skills, fencing, trampoline, athletic camp, go-go club, weight training, acrobatics, advanced track and field, badminton, horseback riding, guitar, basketball skills, tiny tots, ballet, needlepoint, women's exercise, ceramics for children, Young Theater of Children, adult drama, teen softball, junior league softball at Friendship Park, senior league softball at Friendship Park, arts and crafts and sketching.

In addition, there is no limit on registration in lawn games, games for fun, grass hockey, modern dance, wee folks, cheerleading, baton and storytelling.

A complete list of classes, including times and fees, is available at the park office.

Canceled programs include mother-daughter needlepoint and crocheting.

AND HOW DOES YOUR garden grow? Phillip Olson and Dawn Zilch plant what they hope will be tomatoes in the garden of Mrs. Rosalie Vercelli.

Flooding, density, taxes cited

Rob Roy development opposed

The Northwest Suburban Council of Associations has taken an expected stand against development of the Rob Roy Golf Course near Mount Prospect.

The council, which consists of homeowners' groups from Prospect Heights and northeast Mount Prospect, where the golf course is located, based its position on three main concerns:

- Flood potential of the property if it were built on.
- The projected density of the development.
- Added taxes to provide additional school and park facilities to handle the population influx.

Ron Burton, chairman of the Northwest Suburban Council, will present the council's position at the next public hearing on plans to develop the golf course July 9. The golf course is east of Wheeling Road between Camp McDonald Road and Euclid Avenue in unincorporated Wheeling Township.

KENROY INC., Skokie, has proposed building 2,350 condominium units on Rob Roy in buildings ranging as high as nine stories. The plan is considerably scaled down from Kenroy's earlier request to annex the property to Mount Prospect and rezone it for 4,500 units, which the council also opposed.

The vote this week on the revised plan was four to two against the development, with one abstention. Voting against the development were representatives from the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, and the Euclid-Lake, Woodview and River Trails homeowners groups. Opposing the resolution were representatives of the Castle Heights and Parkview homeowners groups, who said they wanted to check with their groups, while the Rainbow Ridge representative abstained.

The Northwest Suburban Council also decided to sponsor a general meeting "to discuss the avenues available for opposing the development," according to Marie L. Caylor, secretary of the organization and a village trustee. The meeting is tentatively planned for late August.

OFFICIALS OF KENROY have testified under oath that development of the golf course will not add to flooding problems and that it would produce a surplus in revenue to River Trails Dist. 26, High School Dist. 214 and the River Trails Park District, as well as the village. The developers anticipate 4,551 residents upon completion of the project.

Homeowners from the area have contested the contentions, stating that construction would cause flooding, and the project would put a strain on school and park district budgets to provide extra facilities. In addition, homeowners have challenged the population figures, which represent a 58 per cent reduction over the projected population from the original plan, while the number of dwelling units has declined by 48 per cent.

Following completion of the public hearing, the zoning board of appeals will submit a recommendation on the Kenroy request to the village board for action. The earlier request, for 4,500 units, was rejected by the zoning board, but was amended before the village board acted on it.

Park board member to resign

Michael W. Buckley, a Mount Prospect Park District commissioner since 1969, plans to resign, The Herald has learned.

Buckley, 40, of 1406 Pennsylvania Ave., Des Plaines, confirmed reports Wednesday night that he intends to step down nine months before his six-year term expires, citing "personal obligations."

"The amount of time that is required and should be put into the job, I just don't have," he said. "It's not fair to the people or the board."

Buckley is a lieutenant with the Des Plaines Fire Dept. and is studying fire science at Harper College.

HE HAD SERVED as chairman of the park board's building and grounds committee and as assistant treasurer, but has been unable to attend a board or committee meeting for the past five to six months because of other demands on his time.

"I am devoting a little bit of time to everything. I can't do a good job in any one place," he explained. "It's more advantageous for the entire district and park board that I resign."

Buckley indicated he will submit his resignation on Monday, effective next month. His leaving opens a vacancy in one of the park board's seats traditionally held by a resident of Des Plaines. The search for his successor is expected to be focused on the Des Plaines section of the park district.

Buckley said he is particularly proud of improvements in park appearance and facilities during his tenure, which he attributed to the cooperation of other elected and appointed officials.

Buckley was elected to the park board April 1, 1969, the top vote getter in a field of five. His successor will serve until the April, 1975, election.

Police departments rate first 'cop swap' as tops

The first "cop swap" between the Buffalo Grove and Hoffman Estates police departments has proved "successful," police chiefs from both departments said Tuesday.

In Buffalo Grove, a change in warrant issuance procedures has been made as the result of advice from Sgt. Ronald Sperandio, the policeman traded from Hoffman Estates, said Chief Harry Walsh Jr.

The youth-detective division will handle warrants — a practice once done by patrolmen. Walsh said this would not only free patrolmen for other duties, but allow for a more orderly record keeping of warrants. The system is used by Sperandio's department.

But more importantly to Walsh and his Hoffman Estates counterpart, John O'Connell, the first trade proved capable supervisory personnel could handle command responsibilities in different departments, both chiefs said.

THEY WERE LOOKING to see if leadership capabilities carried over in an unfamiliar situation. Sperandio was exchanged for Sgt. Ronald Gozdecki for a four-week tour of duty.

"It proved a point to a degree," said O'Connell. "We didn't notice any difference (capabilities) with Gozdecki than with Sperandio."

"It was very successful, beneficial and refreshing," said Walsh, noting both sergeants had expressed to him they were excited about having proved to them-

Sgt. Ronald Gozdecki

Sgt. Ronald Sperandio

seives that their leadership qualities carried over to the other departments.

Walsh said other suggestions made by Sperandio will be considered in other aspects of departmental procedures.

O'CONNELL SAID HE wanted to review both sergeants' written reports before commenting further on the results of the program. Gozdecki and Sperandio are to file reports by July 3 with both police chiefs.

Another swap between the two departments has been tentatively planned for the fall pending approval by both village boards. O'Connell said other swaps would be needed to test the program thoroughly.

Taking command of different patrolmen is a difficult adjustment that is not permitted by the present system in Illinois, O'Connell said. He has said the program could be a possible springboard for lateral movement among police departments.

California's system allows lateral movement of policemen without their losing pension, rank and other benefits, he pointed out.

$200 in stationery stolen from office

A burglar took $200 worth of stationery early Monday from the Euclid Avenue office of the J. M. Brinkman Midwest Corp., Mount Prospect police disclosed Wednesday.

The burglary occurred at the same office which was hit by a $23,000 fire June 18. The origin of that fire is still under investigation but has definitely been declared arson.

In this week's burglary, an additional $100 damage was committed when the burglar smashed the front door to the office building. The burglary was discovered at 8:30 a.m. Monday. Police said they may have a suspect in the burglary.

WHO SAID CONSTRUCTION has to be drab? The Mount Prospect State Bank, which is building new facilities downtown, has brightly painted a portion of its construction fence. The "Squirrels Club" referred to is a bank promotion to get children to open savings accounts. Squirrels aren't quite that tall.

Cat burglary suspect bound over to county

Robert E. Williams Jr., suspected Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village cat burglar, waived his right to a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was bound over to the Cook County Grand Jury.

Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante, in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court, also reduced bond for Williams from $100,000 to $25,000. Williams' grand jury date is July 17.

Williams, 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove Village, is accused of five burglaries committed June 19 in an apartment building at 1101 Hunt Club Dr., Mount Prospect. The fifth burglary complaint was signed Wednesday in court by Joan Bourke, who allegedly had a purse and some beer and wine stolen from her apartment.

Mount Prospect police arrested Williams inside the apartment building and allegedly found some property stolen from the five apartments on Williams.

Elk Grove Village police said at least 10 burglary complaints are being prepared against Williams for cat burglaries committed in Elk Grove Village over the past two months. Police added they believe Williams may have been responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts in Elk Grove Village.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS police have said they have oral statements from Williams that allegedly link him to 42 burglaries committed in Arlington Heights since January 1973.

In court Wednesday, the public defender assigned to Williams said Williams had been a cook in the Navy for two years, ending in January 1974. He also said Williams had no prior convictions, although some charges are pending against Williams. The statements were made during arguments on the bond reduction.

Judge LaPlante said he had made the bond high initially because he was aware the fifth Mount Prospect burglary charge may have been filed as it was Wednesday.

Drug rip-off motive in kidnap of youth, 17

by JOHN MAES and JOE SWICKARD

A Northbrook youth, kidnaped and beaten, apparently by members of a drug ring, was found wandering near Arlington Heights early Wednesday and set police on the trail that led to his abductors.

The abduction of the youth and another man was said to have stemmed from a dispute between two groups over the sale of up to 500 pounds of marijuana.

A third apparent kidnap victim, Paul Hanson, 22, no known address, walked into the Niles sheriff's police station early Wednesday. Details of the kidnapping were unavailable Wednesday night.

Cook County Sheriff's Police Wednesday charged four men with aggravated kidnapping and are seeking another man for questioning. They were identified as Charles Edward Lawson, 32; Gilbert M. Baker, 28; James R. Lewis, 31, and William McCowan, 30, all of Detroit, Mich.

Bond was set for each of the four suspects at $300,000. They are scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of circuit court July 2.

THE YOUTH, Paul Babigian, 17, of 3854 Parkway Dr., Northbrook, was found early Wednesday wandering in the vicinity of Ill. Rtes. 58 and 63 near Arlington Heights.

He was noticed by Patrolman Ronald Knapp of the Arlington Heights Police Department, who alerted Sheriff's Police after picking up the youth. Babigian told the patrolman he had been kidnaped in Winnetka early Monday.

The other victim, James Cole, 22, of 318 Park Ave., Wilmette, was released unharmed Tuesday morning after a 48-hour ordeal in which both he and Babigian were bound, handcuffed and threatened, according to Warren Schwartz, a sheriff's investigator.

Cole apparently was a victim of mistaken identity when he was abducted from near his home late Sunday. Schwartz said Cole was mistaken for another member of the group involved in the narcotics deal who are being sought by police.

POLICE SAID the group who abducted Babigian and Cole were seeking revenge. The two groups met last week to arrange for the sale of marijuana and the buyers fled without paying for it.

The victims were taken to a house in Lake County near Ill. Rte. 43 north of Highland Park. The two described the house to police as being in a "heavily wooded area."

Schwartz said Babigian's brother George, 23, had been receiving telephone calls demanding ransoms of $20,000 to $60,000. The callers also demanded the other group members be turned over to them.

Babigian's brother reported Paul missing to sheriff's police Tuesday. Police used bits of information from the two victims to find the house where they had been held.

HEAVILY ARMED Cook County Sheriff's police and FBI agents surrounded the Lake County house which was empty early Wednesday but arrested two Chicago area men as they approached the house at different times. They were later released without charges.

A stakeout of George Babigian's apartment led police to the arrests of the four Detroit men. Schwartz said the men were called in as a security force to guard Cole and Paul Babigian.

According to accounts given by Schwartz, the men were spotted Tuesday afternoon near the apartment and were followed to a parking garage in the Chicago loop. They were taken into custody about 7 p.m. as they left the auto and began to walk off in different directions.

Four handguns — including a .357 Magnum, a .45 caliber automatic, and two revolvers — were found in the auto. Two of the guns were believed stolen from Detroit.

POLICE SAID they learned during questioning, the Detroit men flew here Saturday at the request of a friend who was a member of the group allegedly responsible for the abductions.

One of them had $700 cash in his possession when the group was nabbed.

Lawson, Baker, Lewis and McCowan were being held pending a hearing today in the Niles branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Park district wrapup

Sampson resigns; 'not enough time'

Comr. Wendell Sampson of the Prospect Heights Park District has resigned.

Sampson's resignation was accepted Tuesday night by the park board. In a letter, Sampson said, "I find I do not have sufficient time to serve the board." He added his action was taken with "regret."

The Herald reported June 17 that Sampson had missed four of the previous six board meetings. Sampson also was absent Tuesday night.

Board Pres. Max Lyle said applications in writing for the vacated commissioner's post will be received at the park office, 13 Prospect Ct., until July 9. Applicants must be residents of the park district and at least 18 years old. The appointed commissioner will serve until next April's election at which time the voters will fill the remaining four years of the term.

Mothers let in 'baby pool'

In a policy decision, the Prospect Heights Park Board voted to permit mothers to join their children in the "baby pool" at Lions Park on Camp McDonald Road.

The pool is intended for children aged two to eight. Commissioner Joseph Lesniak cast the only "nay" vote.

Garbage capacity increased

More garbage is in sight for the Prospect Heights Park District.

The park board, apparently feeling it will have more to throw away once the new sports complex is built, voted unanimously to switch from the current 65 gallon containers to a two cubic yard container. This will about double the district's garbage capacity.

The park board contracts for scavenger service with Browning Ferris Industries of Barrington. The new service will cost an additional $8 a month.

Bike signs to be installed

Wheeling Township has offered to install bike route signs along township controlled roads in Prospect Heights, said Ronald Greenberg, Prospect Heights park director.

The park district is to designate the streets that will be posted. Township roads already tentatively designated as bike routes by the park district include Viola Lane, Elm Street, Hillside Avenue, Hillcrest Drive, Brook Drive and Chester Lane.

Greenberg also said he will ask Cook County to include room for a six-foot bike path along Schoenbeck Road, when the county's planned improvement of the road is accomplished.

Land to be subleased

The Prospect Heights Park District may sublease a portion of the land it leases from High School Dist. 214 to a local farmer.

The park board Tuesday authorized the sublease of up to 20 acres of the 40-acre site at a fee of no less than $15 per acre. The sublease would be to recuperate park district expenses in developing the other 20 acres. Garden plots and baseball fields are being put in on the other 20 acres.

The 20 acres the farmer might lease will be developed by the park district in future years. The school property is west of Cokden Drive and north of Alderman Avenue.

Chamber plans survey on window ad size limits

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce will survey some downtown businesses for reactions to a proposed ordinance that would limit window advertising to 25 per cent of the total window area.

The new window sign regulation is part of a series of changes in Arlington Heights' sign ordinance being considered by the village board's legal committee.

The survey will seek to determine how much window advertising merchants now use, the effect of a 25 per cent limit and the value of such advertising to daily business, according to Earl Johnson, executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

"We're all for orderly sign configurations, but at the same time we feel strongly that the right and ability of business to advertise is equally important," said Johnson.

"Any undue restriction will be detrimental to individual businesses as well as the village in the form of a potential loss of revenue," he said.

Arlington Heights expects to receive $1.85 million in sales tax revenue this year on retail sales of $185 million.

A unique feature of the proposed sign ordinance would link the size of commercial signs to the speed limit and width of the street on which they front.

Bigger signs would be permitted along wide streets with high speed limits than on narrower streets with lower posted speed limits.

The largest possible free-standing ground sign would be 80 square feet. There are now no limits on sign area, only the height of signs is controlled. The maximum elevation permitted is 18 1/2 feet.

WALL SIGNS WOULD also come under new regulation, if the ordinance is enacted. And roof top signs would be banned in the village except in cases where it is impossible to put up either a ground or wall sign.

The Chamber of Commerce has not opposed the new sign regulations, pending final drafting of the ordinance, Johnson said.

One problem with the proposed new standards is whether they can be applied to existing commercial signs.

Suggestions that non-conforming signs be modified when there is a new owner, when the sign is damaged or declared unsafe, or within a specified number of years have been considered.

"We're in agreement with the idea of making business areas in the village look nice, but we're not in agreement with tearing down every existing sign," said Johnson.

NEW SIGN REGULATIONS are under consideration in Arlington Heights. The size of future signs may be determined by the width and speed limit of the street on which they front.

Two teen-agers slightly hurt in 3-car mishap

Two Prospect Heights teen-agers were slightly injured Tuesday when their car was involved in a 3-car collision on Camp McDonald Road at Burning Bush Lane in Mount Prospect.

Both the driver, Shirley M. Jump, 17, of 112 Elaine Circle, and her passenger, Ann McFarlin, 18, of 103 Elaine Circle, were treated for minor injuries and then released from Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines after the 6:57 p.m. accident.

Neither of the other two drivers, Gerald Cuca, 20, of 225 S. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine, and Robert F. Kutchman, 17, of 616 Piper Ln., Wheeling, were injured.

Police charged Miss Jump with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. She will appear Aug. 14 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Police said Miss Jump's car struck Cuca's car, forcing it to strike Kutchman's car, which was stopped to make a left turn.

In a second accident Tuesday night in Mount Prospect, Dorothy J. Zahner, 49, of 1427 N. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights, was injured and was treated at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

The woman was southwestbound on Rand Road when a second car pulled out from Highland Avenue in front of her vehicle, police said. The driver of the second car, James D. Fanucchi, 18, of Chicago, was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way from a stop sign at an intersection. He will appear Aug. 7 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

3 public hearings on zoning variations

The Mount Prospect Zoning Board of Appeals will conduct three public hearings tonight on requests for zoning variations.

One of the requests is from George B. Anderson, a village trustee, who is seeking a parking variation for an office building to be constructed at Northwest Highway and Waterman Avenue.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Firm seeks an end to furnace problem

by BOB GALLAS

An official of the company that manufactured Elk Grove Village furnaces found to be defective told Building Director Thomas Rettenbacher Wednesday his firm wants to "bring the problem to a conclusion."

Frank Green, sales manager for Johnson Corp. of Bellevue, Ohio, met with Rettenbacher and R. B. Clement, representative of Excelsior Stool Furnace Co. of Chicago, which is the major distributor of Johnson furnaces in the Midwest.

Rettenbacher termed the closed-door meeting a "fact-finding mission" on the part of the Johnson Corp., which produced no new information.

The Herald disclosed last week that 1,700 or more homes in the village may have furnaces with potentially dangerous heat exchangers, which are cracking and corroding, allowing toxic fumes to escape into the heating systems.

RETTENBACHER SAID that Green did not offer any solutions to the problem or make any commitments for his company, nor did he give any causes for the problem with the heat exchangers.

Rettenbacher said Green cited an engineering report paid for by his company last year, which cited improper installations of Johnson furnaces in the village which do not allow for adequate combustion air and venting.

According to Rettenbacher, Green cited the report several times, but would not say the installation problems were the cause of the heat exchanger failures but were a "contributing factor."

Green left immediately following the meeting with Rettenbacher for another appointment and was not available for comment.

Cafe blaze damage estimate $25,000

Damage in Tuesday's fire at Mr. Edward's Restaurant, 1000 S. Busse Rd., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, has been estimated at $25,000.

Chief Lawrence A. Palritz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department Wednesday said the fire's origin has been traced to the storage of combustible materials near some infrared lights which had been left on after the restaurant had closed late Monday. The fire was reported at 12:48 a.m. Tuesday and most of the damage was to the kitchen area.

No one was injured in the blaze, which was fought by both the Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village fire departments.

More than 2,000 pills stolen from drugstore

Between 2,000 and 3,000 capsules and tablets of drugs were stolen during a burglary early Wednesday at the Walgreen Drug Store, 1010 Mount Prospect Plaza.

Mount Prospect police said the drugs, for which a value has yet to be determined, were taken after the burglar used a pry bar and hack saw to remove iron bars and open a hatch at the rear of the drug store. Police believe a briefcase may have been taken and used to carry the drugs. Police said the burglary occurred between 10 p.m. Tuesday and 8:28 a.m. Wednesday.

Included in the stolen drugs were quantities of Dexedrine, Seconal, Quaalude, Sopor, Dexamyli, Nembutal, Preludin, Dosoxyn, Amytal and Tuinal.

Class for parents at church

A course in parent effectiveness training is being conducted at Northwest Covenant Church, 300 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect.

The course, developed by Thomas Gordon, is being taught by Eldon Toll, minister of education at the church. Classes meet from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. on eight consecutive Mondays beginning this week.

ACCORDING TO Rettenbacher, no plans were made for further meetings with Green or Clement.

The first part of a report expected to pinpoint the cause of the heat exchanger failure should be completed Tuesday, according to Rettenbacher. The report, being prepared by an outside consultant hired by the village, will include a chemical analysis of faulty heat exchangers taken from Elk Grove Village homes.

Fifty village furnaces have been inspected by building department inspectors since last week. Of the 50, five were found to have heat exchangers which are definitely defective. Thirty-one others are what Rettenbacher termed as "doubtful," but only a careful examination of the furnace by a heating contractor could tell if the unit is faulty for sure.

Some 136 village residents have called to take advantage of free furnace inspections offered by the village. Village inspectors are booked through July 15 to make the inspections. The village is asking that residents wait until after the report due Tuesday is in before calling to make an appointment, but will inspect homes for those who want the inspection immediately.

Rettenbacher said that after the report determines what chemicals are causing the rapid deterioration of the heat exchangers, the next step will be to determine what factor is producing the chemical.

YOU CAN FIGURE OUT HOW MUCH PAINT YOU NEED
Measure the distance around your house. (In feet) And measure the average height. (For a pitched roof, figure "average height" to eaves; plus two feet for gable ends.)
Then multiply distance by height, to get the approximate number of square feet to be painted. Divide the number by the coverage you can expect from each gallon of paint you're using, and you'll know about how many gallons you'll need.
Of course, coverage varies depending on the surface you're painting. But generally, you can expect a Sherwin-Williams Latex House Paint to cover about 400 square feet per gallon. So, in the example, you'd need about 4 and 1/2 gallons.

Final legislative, judicial decisions on RTA coming soon

Court expected to uphold system

SPRINGFIELD — A decision on the constitutionality of the Regional Transportation Authority may come from the Illinois Supreme Court by July 1 — probably upholding the RTA.

The court acknowledged a request from RTA attorney Don Reuben Wednesday for the quick decision. Reuben explained that a $500,000 state appropriation for start-up funds would expire by that date if no decision was reached.

During his argument, Reuben also asked the court to settle a pending DuPage County suit by ruling the recounts of referenda should be allowed. The DuPage County suit contests the outcome of the March 19 RTA referendum, and RTA foes will attempt to prove election fraud.

THE COURT WEDNESDAY appeared to accept Reuben's arguments that the RTA referendum was not required except in the RTA legislation, and therefore the wording could not be constitutional.

The justices used Reuben's position to question State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian of Lake County, who filed the suit against the RTA in April. A Lake County judge this month ordered a temporary and permanent injunction against the RTA after hearing Hoogasian's case. Circuit Court Judge Henry Caldwell said the RTA ballot did not give voters enough

Board may be enlarged from present 9 members

by STEVE FORSYTH

SPRINGFIELD — The Regional Transportation Authority board of directors, now composed of nine members, may be expanded by the Illinois General Assembly to 21, according to a legislative source here.

Gov. Daniel Walker has reportedly said privately that an expanded board is the only change in the RTA that he would sign into law following this legislative session.

The senate has passed a bill sponsored by State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, which would enlarge the board to 14 members and would give majority representation to the suburbs.

House sources said yesterday, however, that Regner's bill "doesn't have a chance" because it throws more power to the suburbs, particularly suburban Republicans.

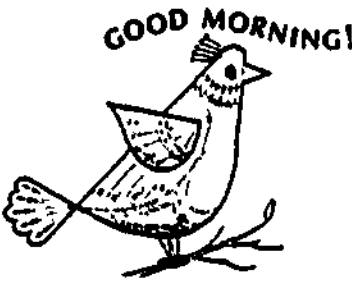

REGNER, MEANWHILE, declared that he will not support an amendment creating a 21-member board because it would give Chicago Democrats a greater chance to pry loose Republican votes in their favor.

The 21-member board is provided for in a measure sponsored by State Rep. Donald Deuster, R-Mundelein, who said he is also prepared to add the same wording to three Senate amendments sent to the House last week.

Deuster's bill would provide 10 Chicago members, five from suburban Cook County, and one from each of the five outlying counties in Northeastern Illinois. The five "collar counties" presently have only two representatives between them. The board members would then select a chairman from outside their number.

Under Deuster's bill, which was postponed in the House after it failed to achieve passage in his first attempt, the proportions of representation would be the same for the three RTA areas as provided on the present nine-member board.

New report to supplement previous study

Village panel urges $4,000 be spent on flood study

The Village of Arlington Heights will spend an additional $4,000 on flood control plans if the village board accepts the unanimous recommendation of its finance committee.

Committee members Tuesday night approved retaining Stanley Consultants to do a $4,000 study to supplement the engineering firm's earlier report to the village which cost $16,000.

If approved, the latest expenditure will bring to $79,000 the total amount of money Arlington Heights has spent on flood control plans since 1972.

The figure includes the cost of an unsuccessful May 18th referendum on the $16.6 million program.

THE ADDITIONAL report by Stanley Consultants is intended to determine the cost of constructing a deep storm sewer between Pioneer Park and the Wilke-Kirchhoff storm water retention basin.

It also will measure the indirect flood relief from the Wilke-Kirchhoff facility to the Pioneer Park neighborhood.

Completed late last summer, the basin was designed to relieve flooding in Arlington Heights' Westgate subdivision and in parts of western Rolling Meadows.

Village officials want the two questions studied as an alternative to using land within Pioneer Park for a storm water pond.

Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the finance committee and the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, has advocated eliminating the controversial Pioneer Park basin project and then holding a second referendum on the sale of general obligation bonds to pay for the $16.6 million program.

BY ELIMINATING the Pioneer Park project, Palmatier believes a major source of opposition to the program will be wiped out.

The May 18th referendum was defeated by only 67 votes. However there has been disagreement among members of the village board whether to hold a second referendum.

Earlier estimates are that building the sewer between Pioneer Park and Wilke-Kirchhoff would add $1-$1.5 million to the cost of the program.

If approved, it will take Stanley Consultants from 30 to 45 days to prepare the additional study.

Ecology corps cleaning up schoolyards, parks here

The Arlington Heights Ecology Corps, now in its second summer, is in full swing, cleaning up parks, schoolyards and village-owned property throughout town.

Park District Supt. Angelo Capulli said 50 of the village's 14-and 15-year-olds are working from 8 a.m. to noon five days a week, weeding, painting and cleaning up the village.

The youths are paid 90 cents per hour.

"We treat them like regular maintenance men," Capulli said. "They have to punch a clock when they come to work and leave."

Capulli said 20 young workers have been assigned to the Arlington Heights Park District, 20 for village-owned property, such as land along the railroad tracks, and 10 for School Dist. 25.

He said some workers are currently weeding the nursery at Frontier Park, while others are painting at Camelot, Frontier and Heritage pools.

Workers are shifted from job to job weekly.

The youths work in two five-week sessions, the first of which began June 17. The second session, Capulli said, will begin July 22.

He said there are still 10 vacancies in the program for the second session, and that applications are being accepted at Olympic Pool, 660 N. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights.

In addition to wages, the workers are given summer passes for the pools.

Drug rip-off kidnap victim found

by JOHN MAES and JOE SWICKARD

A Northbrook youth, kidnaped and beaten, apparently by members of a drug ring, was found wandering near Arlington Heights early Wednesday and set police on the trail that led to his abductors.

The abduction of the youth and another man was said to have stemmed from a dispute between two groups over the sale of up to 500 pounds of marijuana.

A third apparent kidnap victim, Paul Hansen, 22, no known address, walked into the Niles sheriff's police station early Wednesday. Details of the kidnapping were unavailable Wednesday night.

Cook County Sheriff's Police Wednesday charged four men with aggravated kidnapping and are seeking another man for questioning. They were identified as Charles Edward Lawson, 32; Gilbert M. Baker, 28; James R. Lewis, 31, and William McCowan, 30, all of Detroit, Mich.

Bond was set for each of the four suspects at $300,000. They are scheduled to appear in the Niles branch of circuit court July 2.

THE YOUTH, Paul Babigian, 17, of 3854 Parkway Dr., Northbrook, was found early Wednesday wandering in the vicinity of Ill. Rtes. 58 and 62 near Arlington Heights.

He was noticed by Patrolman Ronald Knapp of the Arlington Heights Police Department, who alerted Sheriff's Police after picking up the youth. Babigian told the patrolman he had been kidnaped in Winnetka early Monday.

The other victim, James Cole, 22, of 318 Park Ave., Wilmette, was released unharmed Tuesday morning after a 48-hour ordeal in which both he and Babigian were bound, handcuffed and threatened, according to Warren Schwartz, a sheriff's investigator.

Cole apparently was a victim of mistaken identity when he was abducted from near his home late Sunday. Schwartz said Cole was mistaken for another member of the group involved in the narcotics deal who are being sought by police.

POLICE SAID the group who abducted Babigian and Cole were seeking revenge. The two groups met last week to arrange for the sale of marijuana and the buyers fled without paying for it.

The victims were taken to a house in Lake County near Ill. Rte. 43 north of Highland Park. The two described the house to police as being in a "heavily wooded area."

Schwartz said Babigian's brother George, 23, had been receiving telephone calls demanding ransoms of $20,000 to $60,000. The callers also demanded the other group members be turned over to them.

Babigian's brother reported Paul missing to sheriff's police Tuesday.

Police used bits of information from the two victims to find the house where they had been held.

HEAVILY ARMED Cook County Sheriff's police and FBI agents surrounded the Lake County house which was empty early Wednesday but arrested two Chicago area men as they approached the house at different times. They were later released without charges.

A stakeout of George Babigian's apartment led police to the arrests of the four Detroit men. Schwartz said the men were called in as a security force to guard Cole and Paul Babigian.

According to accounts given by Schwartz, the men were spotted Tuesday afternoon near the apartment and were followed to a parking garage in the Chicago loop. They were taken into custody about 7 p.m. as they left the auto and began to walk off in different directions.

Four handguns — including a .357 Magnum, a .45 caliber automatic, and two revolvers — were found in the auto. Two of the guns were believed stolen from Detroit.

A TIRED Ken Miller winces as he digs Ecology Corps workers are maintaining parks and schoolyards.

ECOLOGY CORPS WORKER Kari McBride trimmed the hedges at South Park, Veil and South streets Friday. The youths work four hours per day for five weeks during the summer.

Civil rights groups barred from joining housing suit

Attempts by two civil rights organizations to join the Metropolitan Housing Development Corporation (MHDC) in its low-income housing discrimination suit against the Village of Arlington Heights have been rejected.

Judge Wilbur F. Pell Jr. of the U. S. District Court of Appeals rejected motions by the Minority Industrial Relations Council and the Ad Hoc Housing Committee to enter the case as friends of the court in behalf of MHDC.

Arlington Heights Village Atty. Jack

M. Siegel had objected to the two parties joining the legal action. The suit charges Arlington Heights village officials with racial discrimination in failing to rezone 15 acres of land near St. Viator High School for low-income housing.

Judge Pell ruled that the motions were not timely filed and that MHDC already was well represented in court.

MHDC is appealing a Feb. 22 decision by U. S. District Court Judge Thomas R. McMillen that upheld the village's position in the three-year-old low-income housing controversy.

Chamber plans survey on window ad size limits

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce will survey some downtown businesses for reactions to a proposed ordinance that would limit window advertising to 25 per cent of the total window area.

The new window sign regulation is part of a series of changes in Arlington Heights' sign ordinance being considered by the village board's legal committee.

The survey will seek to determine how much window advertising merchants now use, the effect of a 25 per cent limit and the value of such advertising to daily business, according to Earl Johnson, executive director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

"We're all for orderly sign configurations, but at the same time we feel strongly that the right and ability of business to advertise is equally important," said Johnson.

"Any undue restriction will be detrimental to individual businesses as well as the village in the form of a potential loss of revenue," he said.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Trustee James T. Ryan, legal committee chairman, said there is a good chance the new law would not be brought to bear against signs already up in the village.

One survey of signs along Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway showed that as many as half the existing signs would become illegal under the new restrictions, he said.

Arlington Heights expects to receive $1.85 million in sales tax revenue this year on retail sales of $185 million.

A unique feature of the proposed sign ordinance would link the size of commercial signs to the speed limit and width of the street on which they front.

Bigger signs would be permitted along wide streets with high speed limits than on narrower streets with lower posted speed limits.

The largest possible free-standing ground sign would be 80 square feet. There are now no limits on sign area, only the height of signs is controlled. The maximum elevation permitted is 18½ feet.

WALL SIGNS WOULD also come under new regulation, if the ordinance is enacted. And roof top signs would be banned in the village except in cases where it is impossible to put up either a ground or wall sign.

The Chamber of Commerce has not opposed the new sign regulations, pending final drafting of the ordinance, Johnson said.

One problem with the proposed new standards is whether they can be applied to existing commercial signs.

Suggestions that non-conforming signs be modified when there is a new owner, when the sign is damaged or declared unsafe, or within a specified number of years have been considered.

"We're in agreement with the idea of making business areas in the village look nice, but we're not in agreement with tearing down every existing sign," said Johnson.

NEW SIGN REGULATIONS are under consideration in Arlington Heights. The size of future signs may be determined by the width and speed limit of the street on which they front.

Zoning variation granted resident to build house

Frank A. Doppke of Arlington Heights was granted zoning variation which enables him to build and sell a home on Harvard Avenue between Euclid Avenue and Hawthorne Streets.

According to village zoning ordinances, a lot size in an R-1 zoned district must be at least 15,000 sq. ft. Doppke's property measures only some 8,772 sq. ft.

The property does not meet the required size because it was part of a parcel that was illegally subdivided by the previous owner. Doppke purchased the lot last fall, unaware of the controversy, said Doppke's attorney, Vincent Lucchese.

Some residents in the area objected to a variation in several hearings on the Doppke property, including members of the Arlington Heights Homeowners Assn.

The final decision on the variation rests on the village board of trustees.

Awards given to Boy Scouts

Scout Troop 159, sponsored by St. Simon's Episcopal Church of Arlington Heights, recently held parents night at the church for presentation of Scouting awards.

Eagle Scout Terry Moore was awarded the Eagle Gold Palm and Brad Miller the Eagle Bronze Palm.

Chris Carlson was promoted to Life Scout; Mike Borkowski and Paul McCracken to Star Scout; Jim Jolly and Dan Mrozek to First Class Scout, and Charles McCall and Jack Quillin to Tenderfoot Scout.

John Andrew, Jim Graff, Brian Jacobson, Steve Kirkland, Greg Lambert, Bob Muller, Mark Stephanides and Steve Vavasis were initiated into Scouting.

Scouts also received awards earned at the recent Scout-o-Rama and the Sauk woods District Camp-o-Ree.

Cat burglar suspect bound over to county grand jury

Robert E. Williams Jr., suspected Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village cat burglar, waived his right to a preliminary hearing Wednesday and was bound over to the Cook County Grand Jury.

Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante, in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court, also reduced bond for Williams from $100,000 to $25,000. Williams' grand jury date is July 17.

Williams, 20, of 29 Grange Pl., Elk Grove Village, is accused of five burglaries committed June 19 in an apartment building at 1101 Hunt Club Dr., Mount Prospect. The fifth burglary complaint was signed Wednesday in court by Joan Bourke, who allegedly had a purse and some beer and wine stolen from her apartment.

Mount Prospect police arrested Williams inside the apartment building and allegedly found some property stolen from the five apartments on Williams.

Elk Grove Village police said at least 10 burglary complaints are being prepared against Williams for cat burglaries committed in Elk Grove Village over the past two months. Police added they believe Williams may have been responsible for as many as 15 burglaries and seven attempts in Elk Grove Village.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS police have said they have oral statements from Williams that allegedly link him to 42 burglaries committed in Arlington Heights since January 1973.

In court Wednesday, the public defender assigned to Williams said Williams had been a cook in the Navy for two years, ending in January 1974. He also said Williams had no prior convictions, although some charges are pending against Williams. The statements were made during arguments on the bond reduction.

Judge LaPlante said he had made the bond high initially because he was aware the fifth Mount Prospect burglary charge may have been filed as it was Wednesday.

Mass to honor nun

A special Mass of Thanksgiving will be said at 3 p.m. Sunday at St. James Catholic Church, 841 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, for Sister Oranda Hesse, who is celebrating her 60th anniversary as a sister of St. Francis.

A reception will follow on the convent patio.

Sister Oranda has served at St. James for 15 years.

She entered the order at St. Joseph Convent in Milwaukee and has served in parishes in Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois.

3 banks authorized to hold funds

The Arlington Heights finance committee will recommend to the village board that three banks be added to those authorized to hold village funds.

The new banks are Tollway-Arlington National Bank, North Point State Bank and the First National Bank of Chicago.

Other banks used by the village are Continental Bank in Chicago, First Arlington National Bank, Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, and the Northwest Trust and Savings Bank.

YOU CAN FIGURE OUT HOW MUCH PAINT YOU NEED

Measure the distance around your house. (In feet.) And measure the average height. (For a pitched roof, figure "average height" to eaves; plus two feet for gable ends.) Then multiply distance by height, to get the approximate number of square feet to be painted. Divide the number by the coverage you can expect from each gallon of paint you're using, and you'll know about how many gallons you'll need.

Of course, coverage varies depending on the surface you're painting. But generally, you can expect a Sherwin-Williams Latex House Paint to cover about 400 square feet per gallon. So, in the example, you'd need about 4 and 1/2 gallons.

Youth who bit, hit cops gets year probation

The man accused of biting one Mount Prospect policeman and punching another June 18 was placed on a year's probation Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

As part of a plea agreement, two charges of aggravated battery against John A. McGuire, 19, of 127 N. Donald Ave., Arlington Heights, were reduced by Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante to a misdemeanor battery. McGuire then pleaded guilty to the two charges of battery.

Also, as part of the agreement, the prosecution withdrew two charges of resisting a police officer that had been filed against McGuire. McGuire was accused of biting and hitting Patrolman Michael Salalino and of pushing and punching Patrolman Robert Randolph while the policemen tried to arrest him. Salalino had to be treated at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

At the time of the arrest, Mount Prospect police said they believed McGuire was under the influence of drugs because of the strength he exhibited in resisting arrest. During Wednesday's court hearing, the public defender representing McGuire, said the youth has used drugs and been involved in drug rehabilitation programs since age 14.

McGuire's father told the judge his son would be placed in a drug abuse program and would be given psychiatric help. McGuire had been held in Cook County Jail for 10 days and Judge LaPlante said that would stand as 10 days served under the sentence.

Eisenhower paint job scheduled

Most summer maintenance work in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 will be done at Eisenhower School where classroom and other interior painting is planned.

Eisenhower is scheduled to be painted as part of the district's rotating program in which each of the district's five schools is painted every five years.

Other work planned as part of the summer upkeep program are electrical work at each school, waxing floors, cleaning furniture and lights and washing carpeting. Cabinetry work will also be done at three resource centers in the district.

James Hendren, district business manager, said the district also has contingency plans for some exterior work at the schools including asphaltting for driveways.

At Eisenhower there are also plans to build a panel area to hide garbage cans from sight.

Until summer school is completed July 19, workers will be somewhat restricted in the amount of work they can do, Hendren said. All the maintenance work should be completed by the start of the school year in September. The work will be done by district maintenance department personnel.

Bieber will be sentenced today

William Bieber, former Wheeling building director, is scheduled to be sentenced in U.S. District Court today for extortion, conspiracy to commit extortion, perjury and filing a false income tax return.

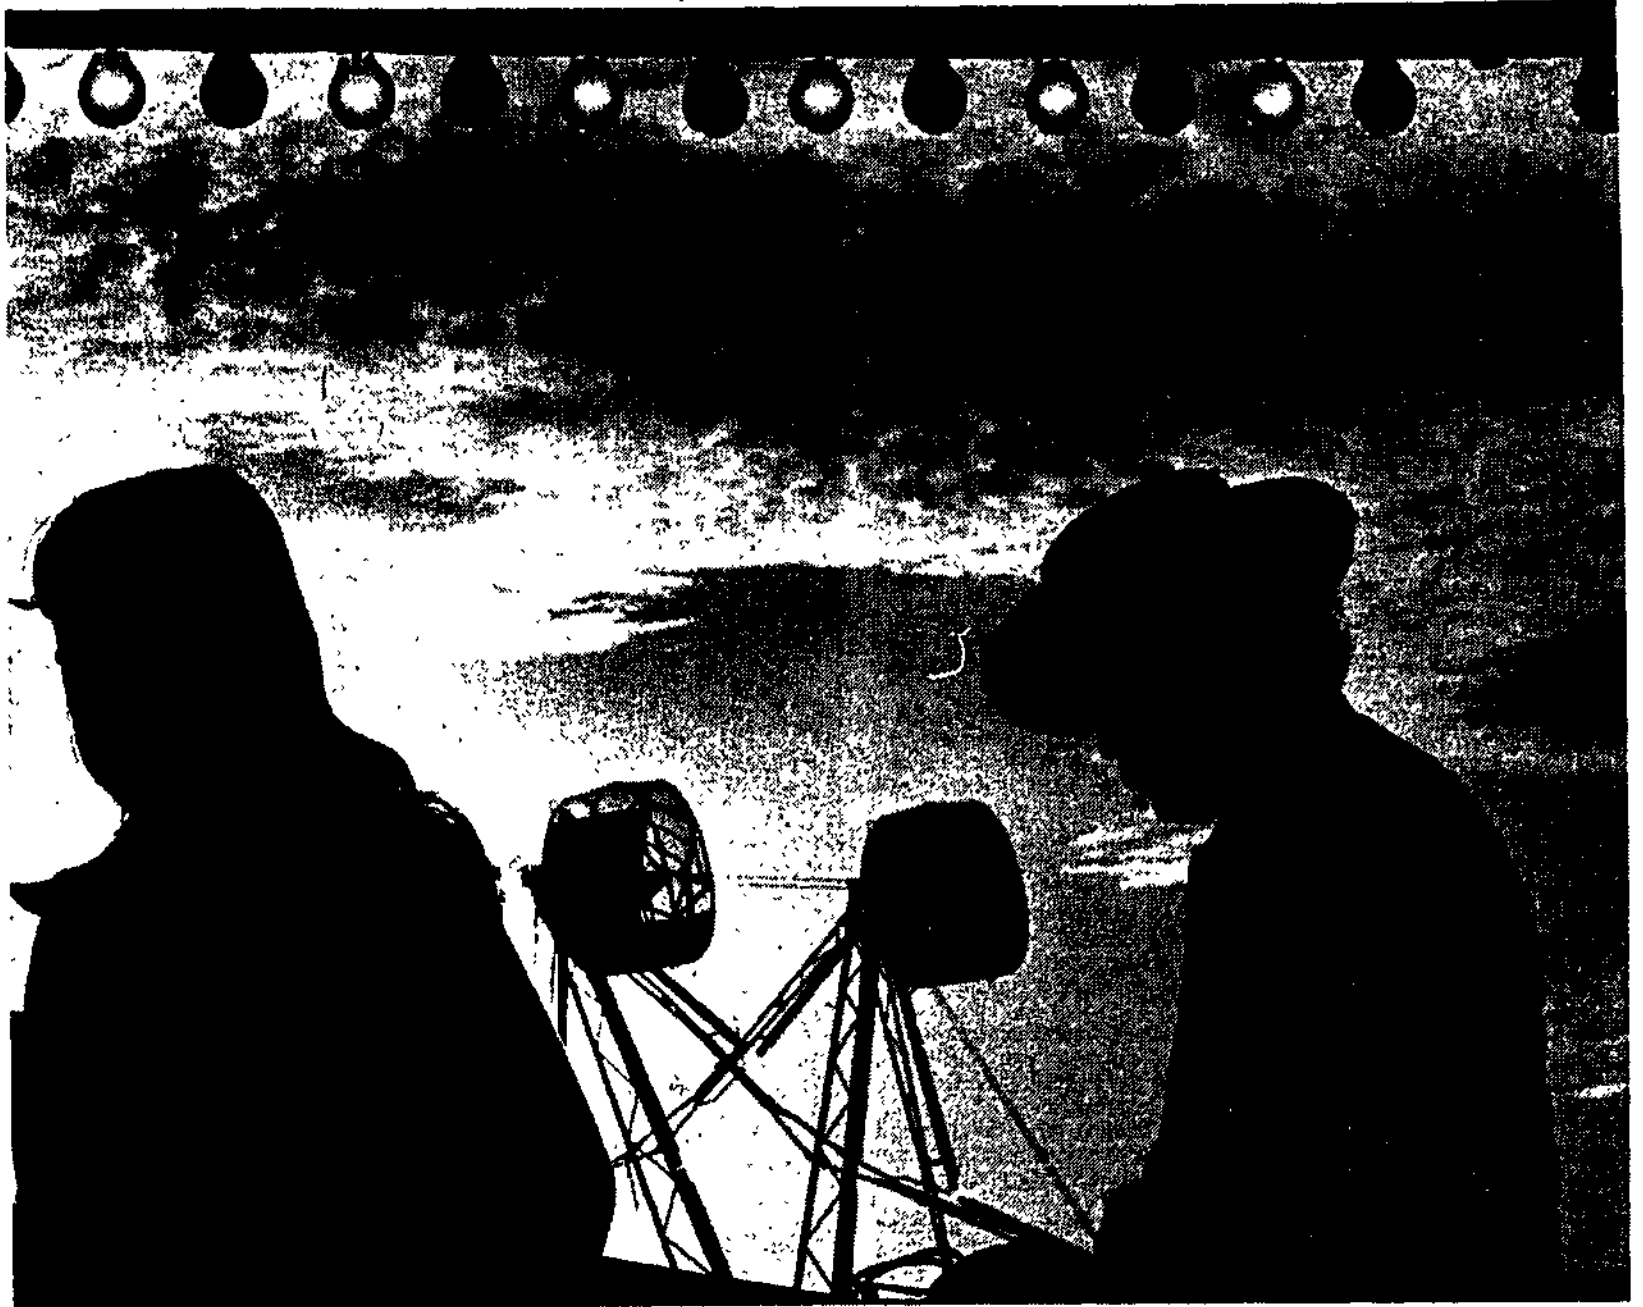

Bieber faces a maximum of 68 years' imprisonment and a $45,000 fine from U.S. District Court Judge Abraham Lincoln Marovitz.

The former building director pleaded guilty to five federal charges June 10. In exchange for the guilty plea, the U.S. Attorney's Office agreed to drop nine additional charges of extortion and perjury against Bieber.

Bieber is one of six former and present Wheeling and Cook County officials indicted Jan. 31 following a year-long federal probe into shakedowns of Wheeling developers. Four of the six, including Bieber, have pleaded guilty. Two have been sentenced to prison terms.

David Schippers, Bieber's attorney, is expected to argue for probation, citing his client's poor health. Bieber was hospitalized for several weeks prior to his guilty plea. He has been suffering from a back injury.

Sentencing is scheduled for 10 a.m. at the Federal Building in Chicago.

The unit will be supplied with information about various county functions and forms. Members of Board Pres. George W. Dunne's office will be present to answer the questions of residents.

New voters may also register to vote at the mobile office, which is presently being used for a fourth season in various locations throughout the county.

The mobile unit will be at the Palatine Plaza on July 2 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; on July 3 from 1:30 to 4 p.m.; on July 5 from 1:30 to 4 p.m. The mobile unit will be at the Northpoint Shopping Center on July 2 from 1:30 to 4 p.m.; on July 3 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; on July 5 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Public hearing set for school budget

The School Dist. 21 Board of Education will conduct a public hearing on the proposed 1974-75 budget at 8:15 p.m. tonight at the administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

The tentative budget sets expenditures for the coming 1974-75 fiscal year at $13,240,268. This is $1,580,056 higher than the current $11,660,210 budget.

Copies of the budget are available at the administration office. The board is expected to approve it after the public hearing.

Other items on the agenda for tonight's meeting include:

- Discussion of new report cards to be used next fall.
- Self-growth program for district employees.
- Bids for health supplies, carbon products and lockers.

Cafe blaze damage estimate $25,000

Damage in Tuesday's fire at Mr. Edward's Restaurant, 1000 S. Busse Rd., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, has been estimated at $25,000.

Chief Lawrence A. Patrutz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department Wednesday said the fire's origin has been traced to the storage of combustible materials near some infrared lights which had been left on after the restaurant had closed late Monday. The fire was reported at 12:48 a.m. Tuesday and most of the damage was to the kitchen area.
